Bieber gets one year in kickback sentence

by LYNN ASINOF

William Bieber, former Wheeling building director, was sentenced to one year in prison Thursday for his role in a Wheeling zoning extortion scheme.

Bieber will begin serving his sentence July 18, and will become eligible for parole after four months. He faced a maximum sentence of 99 years in prison and a $43,000 fine.

The former building director pleaded guilty to five counts of extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return June 10. In exchange for the guilty plea, the U. S. Attorney's Office agreed to drop nine additional extortion and perjury counts against Bieber.

U. S. DISTRICT Court Judge Abraham Marovitz sentenced Bieber to one year imprisonment on each of the five counts with the terms to run concurrently. "There is no sense in finding him because he doesn't have any money," the judge said.

Bieber's attorney, David Schippers, said the former building director is "totally destitute." A probation report listed Bieber's only asset as his $40,000 home which carries two mortgages.

Bieber currently is employed as a purchasing agent. He resigned his village post June 10 after pleading guilty. He had been drawing his $21,500-a-year salary while on a leave-of-absence since February.

Schippers argued for probation for his client, saying that Bieber was not the "kingpin" in the extortion scheme. "He felt that if he didn't go along with this, he would lose his job," Schippers said.

William Bieber

The defense attorney also argued for a light sentence saying that Bieber is in poor health suffering from a back ailment.

"He is totally destitute. His physical condition is terrible. It is doubtful if he will ever walk again normally. He can't practice his trade. His good name has been destroyed," Schippers said.

SCHIPPERS ALSO described Bieber's earlier days, noting that Bieber never completed high school because of problems caused by scarlet fever. He cited Bieber's Jewish upbringing, saying that his religion created difficulties for him in the plumber's union. The attorney also described Bieber as a religious man.

"You say he is a religious man," Judge Marovitz said. "He probably doesn't know a thing about his religion because everything he did is against it."

Assistant U. S. Atty. Howard Stone, however, argued for "a substantial period of incarceration," saying that Bieber was an independent operator in Wheeling. Stone said Bieber extorted money and gifts from developers, including $8,000 of furniture from Wickes, Inc.

STONE TOLD JUDGE Marovitz that he was fearful "the American people still remain pawns of corrupt officials who place themselves above others" if the courts do not take steps to punish such crimes.

He said Bieber is not repentant for his crimes, and said he has failed to cooperate with the government "although he has been asked to do so."

Judge Marovitz agreed with Stone about the need to punish official corruption. "This is one of those cases where you have to impose punishment for the sake of a deterrent," he said.

The judge rejected Schippers argument that Bieber did not hurt anyone by his crime. "You hurt someone when you deprive them of what they are entitled to," he said. "The morality of public service is being destroyed. It's what they do to public opinion."

"THE THINGS THAT you did plead guilty to would indicate that you took your public responsibilities pretty lightly," the judge told Bieber. He said that men in public office must learn to say no as well as yes, and said that persons with self respect will walk away from such temptations.

Schippers said he expects to ask the judge to recommend that his client serve his sentence at the federal minimum security prison in Sandstone, Minn. Former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman James Stavros, who was sentenced to four years in prison for his part in the extortion scheme, began his term at Sandstone, Tuesday.

The defense attorney also is expected to file a motion for a reduced sentence for Bieber.

Rape of teen near village reported

A teenage girl, reportedly 14, may have been raped Wednesday night in the area north of Wheeling High School and along Elmhurst Road in Wheeling, according to unconfirmed reports.

Lt. Thomas Conte of the Wheeling police late Thursday refused either to confirm or deny the rape report. "There has been some investigation on something like that," he said at one point. Later, Conte said, "We don't know any of the facts yet."

The incident occurred at about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. The victim reportedly was taken to Dr. Victor I. Steiner of Lake Zurich for examination. Steiner, however, would not confirm or deny that report late Thursday. Steiner handles all physicals for Wheeling village government employees, including policemen.

The Wheeling Fire Dept. was not called out in the incident.

Art open house set

An open house is planned Thursday, July 11 for parents of children attending summer art classes at Riley School in Arlington Heights.

Projects made by the students in the summer school classes will be on display from 9 a.m. to noon at the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 school, 1209 Burr Oak Dr.

The children are making woven baskets, rock animals, toothpick structures, mobiles and string designs, among other artwork.

Latest Andrews search turns up empty

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophia Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Vall St., Arlington Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

THE LATEST effort to find the couple was sparked when an informant advanced a theory that they drove into the slip off East Illinois Street. The tipster came forward after reading newspaper accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

The electronics boat, Neptune, owned and piloted by Richard Race of Chicago, used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Raalte. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip.

However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pete Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoals," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

JOHN RYNAK, brother of Mrs. Andrews and controller of their estate, had said earlier the slip search was a long shot at best. After Thursday's efforts, he said, "I didn't think they'd find anything. We didn't find anything three years ago and the chances would be even less today."

Portions of the Chicago River and the entrance to the slip were searched by Race in 1971. The new hunt moved to the west end and northern banks where anchored barges would have interfered with in the 1971 expedition.

The search Thursday, as well as the one three years ago, was paid for by Rynak.

The slip was ringed by spectators leaving nearby offices for lunch.

Rynak said the search would be called off. He said the search for his brother-in-law and sister is set back to square one.

Late morning trains bring commuter gripes

by RONALD NORBERG

"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday.

Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:20 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schrickel, 1127 E. Sayles, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning." Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months.

A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 16 freight (Continued on Page 6)

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

HIS NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks' nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

firm and another predecessor firm, Carpentersville Fireworks Co. have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpentersville firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 9, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Derband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Bieber sentenced to year in prison

William Bieber, former Wheeling building director, was sentenced to one year in prison Thursday for his role in the Wheeling zoning extortion scandal. He will begin serving his sentence July 18 and will be eligible for parole in four months. Bieber, who had pleaded guilty to five felony counts in U.S. District Court, faced a maximum of 60 years in prison and a $45,000 fine. His attorney argued for probation, saying Bieber "felt that if he didn't go along with this, he would lose his job." Bieber is the fourth man to be sentenced in the scandal.

Search for Andrews fails

An electronically equipped boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers searched the Ogden Slip at the mouth of the Chicago River Thursday for the missing Andrews couple of Arlington Heights. Edward and Sophia Andrews disappeared in May 1970 without leaving a trace. Police, who have searched the river before, returned Thursday because of a tip that the car may have driven into the slip off East Illinois Street. Nothing was found.

Schaumburg records delivered

Schaumburg village records for the past five years were packed into two cardboard cartons and delivered Thursday to the U.S. Attorney's office, which has launched an investigation of village government. A federal grand jury subpoena calling for the records was delivered last week. Federal officials have assigned additional investigators to the probe, which began almost a year ago but has recently been stepped up.

C&NW off schedule

The Chicago and North Western Ry.'s reputation for on-time trains has taken a beating in recent weeks. Company spokesmen blame the problem on track-bed erosion caused by bad weather. "I've been on time for work about three days this month," said one commuter, Don Schrickel of Palatine. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Nike discussion arranged

Eugene Berg, assistant secretary of the Army, will visit Arlington Heights July 3 to discuss the Army's use of the Nike Base at Arlington Heights and Central roads. The meeting with local residents and officials was organized by U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, after the Army's announcement Monday that it will retain 75 acres at the base as a reserve training center. The park district has tried to obtain the site for a golf course.

William Rohlwing, 81, dies

William Rohlwing, long-time Elk Grove Township official and a member of the Northwest suburbs' founding families, died Thursday at the age of 81. Richard Hall, his successor as township supervisor, called him a "fine gentleman" who "did a great job as supervisor. Everyone thought very highly of him for the man he was and the job he did."

College district tie-in opposed

Buffalo Grove officials may make a final effort next week to prevent the Lake County section of the village from being placed in the College of Lake County District. A village request to add the area to the Harper College district because of the proximity of Harper's Palatine campus, was turned down last week by the Illinois Community College Board. Village officials could seek a referendum overriding the state board's decision.

'Great Kiss' record falls

Schaumburg lost its position as kiss capital of the world Wednesday when three couples set a new kissing record going for 120 hours in Fresno, Calif. The earlier record, set June 13 at Woodfield Shopping Center, was 114 hours, 1 minute and was held by Louise Heath and Vinnie Tero of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The new record holders are Larry and Dannel Barber; Robert Yruegey and Louise Houldridge, and David Tornabane and Judith Waurin who attributed health foods, wheat germ, vitamin C and honey as the foods used to succeed in marathon kissing.

Walker indicates support of hike in mortgage rate

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker's office said today he will support a bill hiking the legal limit on home loan interest rates from 8 to 9.5 per cent — if certain restrictions are included.

Mark Clark, one of the governor's press aides, said Walker met with State Senators Philip Rock, D-Chicago, and Harber Hall, R-Bloomington, Wednesday to discuss the measure.

Clark said Walker will support an increase in the usury rate on the following conditions:

- That the rate be returned to 8 per cent on July 1, 1975.
- That the 9.5 per cent rate be restricted to residential mortgages.

- That homeowners be allowed to prepay their mortgage without incurring financial penalties.
- That there be some limitations on "points," which are a one-time charge lending institutions frequently add to the cost of the mortgage.

A bill that would hike the interest rate to 9.5 per cent effective July 1 has passed the House and is awaiting Senate action.

Supporters of the measure say it will result in more money being made available for mortgages in Illinois. Opponents say many people can scarcely afford to obtain a mortgage at 8 per cent, much less 9.5 per cent.

Township tax collectors' suit may resume July 9

Suburban township collectors' quest for the right to collect real estate and personal property taxes has been delayed until at least July 9.

Circuit Court Judge Donald O'Brien Wednesday recessed a trial aimed at resolving the battle between the township collectors and Cook County Treasurer Bernard Korzen.

The hearings on the question of whether O'Brien should lift an injunction banning the township collectors from functioning began June 17 with testimony from all 30 suburban township collectors.

In sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday, the judge heard testimony from Stanley Wojcik, head of the county's data processing department and from Michael Rizzo, a supervisor in the county treasurer's auditing department.

THE HEARINGS on the injunction are an outgrowth of a 1970 lawsuit which led to the Illinois Supreme Court tossing out a 2 per cent collection fee the township collectors received.

Key issues in the hearing include whether the county's computerized tax system can be practically adapted to the return of the township collectors, and the relative costs of the two systems. Township officials seeking the reinstatement of the collectors' powers point to convenience for suburbanites paying their bills in person. At one point Wednesday, attorney Philip McGuire, who represents the collectors, argued Cook County had no right to choose computer equipment which couldn't be adapted to the return of township collectors.

"It's our position an official can't be mechanized out of his office," McGuire said.

Rizzo testified that the new system had resulted in budget cuts for treasurer's office. He estimated that in recent years, only 5 to 7 per cent of the taxpayers paid their bills in person.

Chrysler again hikes 1974 auto prices

Chrysler Corp., reacting quickly to increased steel prices, said yesterday it was raising the retail prices of its 1974 model cars and trucks an average of $60. It was the 10th time Chrysler raised prices during the 1974 model year, with the total averaging $568 per vehicle. Other automakers said they were studying the steel price increases.

Expect nurses back on job today

More than 4,000 striking nurses were expected to begin returning to work today at 41 hospitals and clinics in Northern California after a three-week walkout over staffing conditions. Members of the California Nurses Association were voting on a new contract offer last night, and an affirmative vote was predicted. Both the nurses and the hospitals insisted no patients went without essential care, though some doctors said care was below usual standards.

House votes to stand firm on antibusing

The House voted yesterday for the second time in three weeks to stand firm on strong antibusing provisions written into an education bill it passed previously. House members voted 281 to 128 to order their conferees not to budge from the antibusing language when they resume a conference with the Senate on the issue.

Belly dancers entertain Hooker meeting

Under watchful eyes of plainclothes men, the First National Hookers Convention was entertained by belly dancers, blues singers and a girl rock band, and concluded with pleas to decriminalize the world's oldest profession. The gathering in the Glide Memorial Methodist Church, in a San Francisco night life district, was summoned by a COYOTE, which calls itself "an organization of loose women."

BLA claims third white victim

Tape recordings purporting to be from the "Black Liberation Army" were received yesterday claiming a third victim in a bizarre series of attacks on white youngsters out alone at night in Jacksonville, Fla. Police also arrested three suspected black militants and questioned them about the activities of the BLA, which has claimed responsibility for three slayings. The arrests came in the midst of a manhunt for killers of Stephen Orlando, 18, and Stephen Lomont Roberts, 17.

Heathrow security alert continues

London's Heathrow International airport took on the look of a combat zone yesterday in the second day of a spectacular security alert called when British intelligence services said Arab guerrillas were believed preparing an attack at the nation's biggest airfield. Passengers ran a gauntlet of battle-equipped soldiers and armored cars in Britain's biggest security alert since World War II.

Report 60 Moslem rebels killed

Some 60 secessionist Moslem rebels were killed Thursday outside rice-rich Midsayap town, 25 miles east of Cotabato city, in the eighth consecutive day of fighting between Philippine government troops and insurgents. Troops were reported making slow progress in their drive to oust the rebel force, estimated to number 500 men, from the village of Salunayan, about 3-1/2 miles south of Midsayap, where the rebels were concentrated.

Venezuela to hike oil prices, taxes

Venezuela, the leading source of American oil imports, intends to increase oil prices and taxes on petroleum companies as of July 1. Deputy Mines Minister Fernando Baez said yesterday in Caracas. Baez said Venezuela would not comply with a decision taken by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries at a meeting this month in Quito, Ecuador to merely increase royalty payments by 2 per cent.

Communist counter-attack on Highway 5

Cambodian Communist forces counter-attacked government troops advancing up Highway 5 about 15 miles north of Phnom Penh on Thursday, and cut Highway 1 the same distance south of the capital, field reporters said. Nixon and Brezhnev joke and toast MOSCOW (UPI) — President Nixon and Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev vowed Thursday to seek lasting world peace as their week of summit talks got under way in an atmosphere of flag-waving, laughing conviviality.

The two leaders bantered and joked like old friends from the moment Nixon's "Spirit of '76" jetliner touched down from Brussels until, more than six hours later, they turned serious with champagne toasts to one another at the Soviet state banquet in the Kremlin.

First Brezhnev and then Nixon rose in the 18th Century Granovik Hall, former czarist audience chamber of the Kremlin palace, and noted the difficulties facing them in attempting to bring a halt to the nuclear arms race.

"To peace and friendship between the peoples of the Soviet Union and the United States of America," Brezhnev concluded, raising his glass. "To lasting peace all over the world."

Nixon arose, and against a background of biblical and czarist murals, responded: "We both seek peace, but we seek a peace that is more than simply the absence of war. We seek peace because of the positive progress it can bring to both our peoples."

Both U.S. and Soviet officials were saying that substantive agreement on limiting nuclear weaponry is not expected during the summit because of the differences on the approach to curtailing multiple warhead missiles.

Even so, the leaders were hopeful of progress toward an agreement and expanding the trade and economic accords reached in their two previous summit meetings.

From the very beginning of this third meeting, the bond of friendship between Nixon and Brezhnev was apparent. They patted each other on the back often and walked arm-in-arm. The President said the Soviet leader would be traveling to Washington again next year.

PRESIDENT NIXON was welcomed to Moscow yesterday by Soviet citizens waving American and Soviet flags at Moscow's Vnukovo Airport.

China fears meet will ease tensions

HONG KONG (UPI) — China is concerned over President Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union, apparently fearful that the visit will ease East-West tensions at Peking's expense.

Diplomatic sources observe that any improvement in relations between the Soviet Union and the United States or between Moscow and NATO does not augur well for China.

The Chinese feel that if tension in Europe is lessened, the Soviet Union will have an opportunity to bring more pressure to bear along the disputed Sino-Soviet border, where Peking claims more than a million Soviet troops already are massed.

Publicly, the Chinese scoff at the idea of American-Soviet detente, asserting that this is only a facade aimed at covering up the "contention for global hegemony" between the two "super-powers."

While China has made no public comment on the Nixon visit, Chinese officials have expressed deep concern in private talks with diplomats based in Peking and visitors to the capital.

According to Peking-based diplomatic sources, the only bright spot the Chinese see is the fact that Nixon has gone to Moscow with a new agreement that strengthens the unity of NATO.

One Western diplomat who has sat in on meetings with Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai when such matters were discussed privately says, however, that "this is purely wishful thinking on the part of the Chinese. That's the only public posture they can really take. Privately, they are plenty worried."

Gur warns of Lebanon 'battlefield'

From United Press International Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, warned Thursday that Lebanon could be turned into a "battlefield" if Egypt carried out a threat to send war planes and anti-aircraft missiles there.

Lebanese reports, meanwhile, said that Israeli artillery shelled the outskirts of several villages in the southeastern part of Lebanon.

A Beirut press report said Lebanese government leaders and the guerrillas have reached an agreement on preventing future infiltration into Israel.

Responding to an offer by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to aid Lebanon in the face of Israeli reprisals for guerrilla attacks, Gur told a Tel Aviv news conference:

"If they bring planes into Lebanon, if they bring anti-aircraft missiles into Lebanon, they might change Lebanon into a battlefield."

Gur said Lebanon must resolve the situation by stopping guerrilla infiltration into Israel. "They can do it," he said.

Government sources in Beirut said Lebanon might accept anti-aircraft missiles, but would probably not take up an offer of planes for fear of inflaming the situation.

Gur also told newsmen he had information that Soviet arms shipments to Egypt had been continuous since before the October war and were still in progress despite claims to the contrary by Sadat.

In Israel, security forces strung up reels of barbed wire over a chain link fence and installed electric sensing equipment to fortify the border with Lebanon against guerrilla infiltration.

National Police Commissioner Shaul Rosillo issued a call for all able men between the ages of 19 and 65 to join civil guard units to help in protecting civilian towns and settlements against attack.

Meanwhile, Lebanese Premier Takiyeddin Solh and the head of the guerrilla forces in Lebanon, Aboual Jazim, reportedly reached agreement on reestablishment of liaison committees and formation of Lebanese-guerrilla patrols to prevent infiltration into Israel.

850,000 pregnancies out of wedlock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 30 per cent of all teenaged American girls probably have experienced premarital intercourse and about a third of those have had at least one pregnancy outside of marriage, a federally financed study reported Thursday.

The estimates, prepared by two sociologists, assumed no change from statistics collected three years ago and were the initial findings in what is intended to be the first extended effort to analyze teenaged sexual behavior on a national basis.

The report also said about three quarters of first pregnancies to teenagers occur before marriage.

In numbers, the authors said that means about 2.6 million teenaged girls who have had premarital intercourse, about 1.1 million becoming pregnant and nearly 850,000 pregnancies out of wedlock. These figures indicate that about 10 per cent of U.S. teenagers become pregnant out of wedlock.

In conclusion, the report said: "To marry and then to conceive is the exception among teenagers, characterizing only about one-fourth of all first conceptions in this age group."

The report was based on interviews in 1971 with 6,000 women between 15 and 19 years of age, with the results projected nationally.

The research, financed with a federal grant from the National Institutes of Health, also found that 58 per cent of the females who got married while still teenagers had experienced sexual intercourse before their wedding.

The study by Melvin Zelink and John F. Kantner of Johns Hopkins University will be published Friday by the Planned Parenthood Federation of America in its technical journal called Family Planning Perspectives.

Haldeman wants reporters to take stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate coverup defendant H. R. Haldeman Thursday asked for a chance to put reporters and government officials on the witness stand to discover sources of leaked news stories which he claims make a fair trial impossible.

Through his lawyers, Haldeman asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to call a hearing on massive publicity in the case — publicity that Haldeman claimed was triggered by the very government that is now trying to prosecute him.

"Dismissal of the indictment is the only meaningful sanction in the face of such prevalent misconduct," his lawyer said in a legal brief.

He asked for a hearing "to determine to what extent the government . . . has been responsible for prejudicial publicity resulting from 'leaks,' selective releases of prejudicial information to the press, and other releases of information by the government."

There was no immediate response from Watergate prosecutors or from Sirica. Whether reporters can be compelled to disclose their confidential sources has been a critical First Amendment issue in recent years, and several newsmen have been jailed for their refusal to do so.

Meanwhile, U. S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell refused Thursday to enforce John D. Ehrlichman's latest subpoena of President Nixon for White House documents to use in his defense at the Ellsberg break-in trial.

Gesell, who has examined the documents Ehrlichman subpoenaed on June 20, said they contain "many irrelevances" and that he would not at this time permit Ehrlichman to introduce them as evidence "pending developments at trial."

Wheeler-dealers outfox show biz folks

• Show biz flops in Tulsa. Or at least the initial disclosures from that oil capital show that a host of celebrities got wheeler-dealer into pouring money down a dry hole. So far, the list of stars swindled includes Andy Williams, who led the list by putting $338,000 in an oil company which has yet to sink a well. Others apparently swindled are Jack Benny, Buddy Hackett, Barbara Streisand, Alan Alda, Phyllis Diller, Tony Curtis, Jonathan Winters, Bob Dylan and numerous businessmen and attorneys. Some 2,000 persons invested over $100 million in the Home-State Production Co. and the only profits ever realized was the money more investors brought in.

• Honors: Dr. Max H. Parrott, 66, a Portland, Ore. obstetrician and gynecologist, was named president-elect of the American Medical Association Thursday. Former Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson is America's new ambassador to Japan, succeeding Robert Ingersoll who is now the Deputy Secretary of State. And Philadelphia banker Stephen S. Gardner, has been selected as deputy secretary of the Treasury by President Richard Nixon.

JACK BENNY

• Still ailing is Argentine President Juan D. Peron who has been kept from his office for the last 10 days by the flu. The 76-year old president and practical monarch of Argentina reduced his activities still further Thursday because of the spread of the illness. Attorneys for former Gov. Otto Kerner pleaded in federal court of suspension of Kerner's "unduly harsh" three year prison sentence and cited the death of Kerner's wife and his recent heart attack as a cry for leniency on the part of the court. As yet, no response from the federal bench.

• Indicted Florida businessman Glen Turner, the fast talking "pyramid sales" tycoon who is banned in several states, is running for the U.S. Senate. Turner, 38, may be breaking a court-imposed gag rule on his activities in running for public office, but said he will do it anyway and run as a Democrat for the seat now occupied by Sen. Edward Gurney, a Republican.

• Calling for "detente with the Nixon administration," San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto was elected president of the United States Conference of Mayors Wednesday. Alioto called pointedly said cities are relatively free of "monetary fraud," "especially compared to the thievery in other levels of government."

• Back singing again soon will be Western singing star Sue Thompson who was injured when thrown from the shotgun seat of a stagecoach at a Reno, Nev. rodeo. Miss Thompson was released from a hospital where she was treated for cuts and bruises.

• Remember the haunting tranquility of "Christina's World," the painting by realist Andrew Wyeth received widespread showing and copying because it's portrayal of a girl gazing at a weather-beaten house evoked something in people. Now, the town of Cushing, Me. where the house is located, is tired of constant tourist traffic associated with the house and Wyeth. Angry over the fuss, says he'll "Leave Maine forever."

• SEN. ERNEST GRUENING, journalist and one of the pioneers who forged modern Alaska, is dead at age 87. Known for his early support of Alaska statehood and early opposition to the Vietnam War, Gruening was named governor of the Alaskan territory in 1939 and became its first senator when the territory became a state.

House committee recommends passage of three bills

GOP seeks to alter RTA structure

by BOB LAHEY
 SPRINGFIELD — Suburban Republicans continued to maneuver for alterations in the Regional Transportation Authority Thursday as the House Transportation Committee recommended passage of three bills already approved by the State Senate.

They include a bill by State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, to expand the size of the RTA Board of Directors, and a measure by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Skokie, to guarantee that all motor fuel taxes collected in the suburbs for the RTA would be spent for benefits to the suburbs.

A third bill would make the same provision for all funds collected for regional mass transit.

State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, expressed hope Thursday that he has enough votes in the House to pass Regner's bill. If State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, can be persuaded to withhold an alternate expansion plan.

TOTTEN, WHO IS handling the bills in the House, had been thwarted in an effort to move them out of committee the previous night by a neat Democratic maneuver that deprived him of a quorum of the transportation committee.

Chicago Democrats quietly had arranged with two Republican committee members to "pair" the Republican's "yes" votes against two Democratic "no" votes on the grounds that all four could then skip the committee hearing and participate in the annual House-Senate softball game.

All but one Democrat on the committee, however, boycotted the meeting, leaving the Republicans unable to assemble a quorum.

Totten responded with a parliamentary gimmick of his own, submitting motions on each of the bills that the committee recommend passage. At Totten's request, State Rep. Clarence Neff, R-Stronghurst, then postponed votes on Totten's motions.

When the committee was reconvened Thursday all three bills were swiftly approved.

THE REGNER BILL, seeks to expand the nine-member RTA board to 14, with five members from Chicago, three from suburban Cook County and one from each of the five outlying counties. Those 13 members would then choose another person as chairman. Deuster's bill calls for a 21-member board.

Totten said late Thursday he would ask House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, to request that Deuster withdraw his plan in order not to interfere with consideration of Regner's bill.

The transportation committee met Thursday as the House, once again, abandoned its drive toward adjournment for other purposes. Following hours of nearly pointless debate on a series of bills to preempt home rule powers from local governments, the House took a three-hour break to allow Democratic members to attend their state convention at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

They then returned for what was expected to be an early morning session, with the preemption bills still at the top of the agenda.

THE HOUSE SPENT most of Thursday listening to a repetitious dialogue between representative John Hirschfeld, R-Champaign, sponsor of the preemption bills, and Gerald Shea, D-Chicago, who submitted no fewer than 10 amendments to each of the 24 bills proposed by Hirschfeld.

The preemption bills would take away from home rule units the power granted them under the 1970 state constitution to license 28 professions.

Most of the crippling amendments offered by Shea were routinely rejected by House Republicans. One amendment, however, concerning regulations of doctor's offices drew support from a number of Republicans including State Rep. Eugene Schickman, R-Arlington Heights, who expressed fear that the bill would remove from municipalities the power to enforce sanitary, zoning and building codes.

The amendment was rejected, however, after Hirschfeld declared that none of the preemption bills would have any effect on local police powers.

Sponsor fears public reaction

Pensions for convicted officials may be OKd

Legislation to grant pensions to public officials convicted of felonies appeared imminent in the Illinois General Assembly Thursday, although its sponsor, State Rep. Leo LaFleur, R-Bloomington, feared that public misunderstanding might swing sentiment against it.

LaFleur explained that he introduced the amendment to a routine pension bill because of two provisions in the 1970 Illinois Constitution which altered the traditional civic standing of ex-convicts, and spelled out the ineligibility of pensions.

LaFleur's amendment already was approved once in the House and received narrow approval in the Senate Wednesday. It is now again before the House as part of a conference report on the pension bill, which also was amended in the Senate.

GOV. DANIEL WALKER talks with regular Democratic Party leader Jack Touhy, chairman of the State Central Committee, as the state's chief executive made an appearance at the State Party Convention in Springfield Thursday. Walker received a mixed reaction, with some boos, as he spoke to Democratic Party members.

LaFLEUR SAID Thursday that news accounts of the Senate passage had left some observers with the impression that the bill was one to create pensions for convicted felons.

He pointed out that the new state constitution specifically states that rights taken from convicted felons are to be restored upon completion of their sentences. The constitution also specifies that all pensions established by the state are "of a contractual nature and are not to be impaired."

He noted that benefits from Social Security pensions are not lost by commission of a felony, and that there is inconsistency in the 17 various pension programs administered by Illinois. Of the 17 pensions, 15 deprive convicts of benefits, but two carry no such provision.

LaFLEUR ALSO SAID that depriving a convicted felon of his pension rights wipes out survivors' benefits, unjustly punishing members of his family.

LaFleur said the nicknames "The Cox Amendment," and "The Kermer Amendment," referring to State Rep. Bill Cox and former Gov. Otto Kermer were unjustified because the amendment would have no retroactive effect.

Student learning homemaking arts in school class

by JILL BETTNER

For most suburban children, offspring in busy households where there is often a working mother, school is becoming the place to learn the home arts and crafts that used to be part of every youngster's upbringing.

Bread, for example, is just one of those items to be picked up in the grocery store along with the rest of the things on the weekly shopping list. Most of us don't have any idea of how to go about baking it from scratch.

But children in a home crafts class in Wheeling-Grangeville Dist. 21 are learning how to make bread and getting the opportunity to try their hand at a variety of other domestic arts as well.

THE CLASS AT Irving School in Buffalo Grove is part of the summer school program in Dist. 21, which serves, besides Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and portions of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect. The program is free to residents of the district for the first time this year.

The majority of the 2,400 children enrolled in the program are participating in classes like the home crafts session called "enrichment courses."

Part of the intent of the summer program is to give youngsters a chance through these courses to explore their creativity and develop a wide range of talent and abilities.

The enrichment courses span all subjects, designed to stimulate the imagination, involve kids in activities there isn't always time for during the regular school year and generally widen their horizons.

COOKING IS ONE OF those activities that a lot of Dist. 21 children don't have an opportunity to try in the regular year because of a lack of facilities. Although some local schools have classrooms with stoves or refrigerators to be used by students in special education sections, most do not.

Irving is equipped with the kitchen appliances and teachers of the home crafts class are taking good advantage of them to give children a taste of preparing a variety of foods.

The group of about 45 children, under the guidance of three teachers, prepares complete meals twice a week. The youngsters have made tacos, scrambled eggs, bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches and other simple things.

"The kids really enjoy anything to do with cooking," said Cheryl Ketter, one of the home crafts teachers. "A lot of them don't get the chance during the year and besides, in a situation with 38 kids in the class or something like that, not everybody gets to have a hand in what's going on."

MRS. KEIFER ADDED that although the class is intended more for fun than to provide academic instruction, the kids are picking up some new math skills in measuring ingredients and using recipes.

Besides cooking, the children are making sandcast plaques and working on several other art projects including weaving, stitching, candlemaking, cloth-printing and sculpture with baker's clay.

More local children are attending summer sessions in Dist. 21 this year than ever before, although enrollment always has been high, according to Marjorie Beu, assistant superintendent for curriculum. Last year, almost 2,200 students signed up for courses.

The classes, which meet from 8:40 a.m. to 12:07 daily, will continue through July 12, excluding the Fourth of July.

JENNY MORAN takes a turn at kneading the dough as she and her classmates prepare homemade bread in a home crafts summer class.

Summerfest here

The annual Summerfest at St. Mary's Church in Buffalo Grove is set for this weekend.

A dance for adults is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. Saturday with a cash bar. Games and rides will be available beginning at noon on Sunday. Special rides will be set up this year for very young children.

The traditional chicken dinners that are part of the old-fashioned picnic every year will be on sale Sunday at $2 each.

Equipment stolen

Four wheelbarrows, four shovels and a small mixer were stolen from a construction site at Harmony Village, Wolf Road south of Dundee Road, Wheeling police said.

The equipment, for which the value is unknown, was stolen sometime between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Schaumburg data delivered to U.S.

Schaumburg village records for the past five years were compacted into two cardboard cartons for delivery Thursday to federal officials.

The documents, which included copies of all official meeting minutes, building permits, names of elected and appointed officials, employe job descriptions and payroll records, were furnished in answer to a federal grand jury subpoena served at the Civic Center June 20 by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Schaumburg ordinances and bills were not specifically requested in the subpoena, said Sylvia Parsons, secretary to Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher. Earlier this week, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said he interpreted the subpoena as calling for complete municipal records back to 1969.

While the subpoena called for copies of department heads' contracts, Mrs. Parsons said that request was interpreted as job descriptions.

SHE SAID RECORDS of zoning board hearings represented one of the largest stacks placed in the two cartons, explaining that another space-saver was used when more than one short form building permit was reproduced on a number of legal size sheets.

Four or five boxes of Wheeling records were delivered in response to a similar federal grand jury subpoena last year while a year ago Hoffman Estates records from 1964 to 1969 were taken to Thompson's office in one carton.

The subpoena and recent assignment of federal investigators to the probe represents a quickening of pace in the investigation launched almost a year ago by U. S. Atty. James Thompson's office.

Reportedly, no grand jury testimony has been taken in the Schaumburg investigation, although members of Thompson's staff and Internal Revenue Service agents have conducted interviews with several developers and former village officials.

Plans readied for '4th' parade

The Prospect Heights Lions Club in conjunction with the Prospect Heights Little League is readying plans for the area's 15th annual Fourth of July parade.

The parade, which will include decorated cars, trucks and floats, will begin at 9 a.m. at the intersection of Camp McDonald Rd. and Ill. 83. The exact route the parade will follow will be posted July 3 at the Prospect Heights Fire Station, 8 1/2 E. Camp McDonald Rd.

The route will end at the Lions Park Complex, Camp McDonald Rd. and Elm St. Trophies will be presented there to the best decorated cars, trucks and floats. A trophy will also be presented to the best decorated bicycle, but bikes will not be allowed in the parade.

Organizations who wish to participate in the parade are asked to call parade chairman Joe Lomink at 253-1548 or co-chairman Pete Losurdo at 253-2281.

Omni-House clears state grant hurdle

Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau in Wheeling has crossed the first hurdle in obtaining $50,000 in state funds for next year.

The grant application was unanimously approved Wednesday by the application review committee of the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission.

The full commission is scheduled to consider the application July 9, with the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to make the final decision sometime later this summer.

Omni-House executive director Peter Digre said he was pleased with the application review committee's action and said he considered it a good indication that the grant will be approved by the ILEC.

Originally, Omni-House and other youth service bureaus around the state were to be supported by ILEC for only two years. Through the efforts of Omni-House staff and other youth service bureaus officials, the third-year funding was set up, Digre said.

In addition to the $50,000 Omni-House hopes to receive from ILEC, Digre said the agency will need to raise about $142,000 in local contributions to meet its budget for next year.

"We still have quite a job ahead of us," Digre commented. "The third-year funding won't solve all our budgetary problems, but it will certainly be a tremendous help."

Although the largest share of community financial support for Omni-House comes from Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, the agency also serves Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Mount Prospect.

Coin collectors can keep abreast of new issues and values, every Thursday in the HERALD.

train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which caused damage to the tracks has been largely responsible for the delays.

McDonald said the railway issued a "slow order" for the problem area, causing trains to reduce speed through the town. The order was rescinded two weeks ago.

Judge also cited wind and rain damage to tracks and crossings as causes of delays.

McDonald said the railway was unable to make necessary repairs on the roadbeds because of the wet weather.

HARRY STERN, chief engineer of the Illinois Commerce Commission railroad division, said wet weather has been a major problem for the railroads.

"The rain has done things to the roadbed you wouldn't believe," Stern said. "This has been an unusual year."

The railroad has been able to make repairs, but added maintenance crews often cause delays themselves while making repairs, McDonald said.

Slow orders still exist at the Deval Crossing in Des Plaines, because of work on the Soo Line R.R. tracks, and the Dee Road crossing in Park Ridge for construction.

Officials said more work is planned for the Northwest suburban tracks and crossings this summer, but declined to say where and when the repairs would take place.

"We'll try to keep the mornings and evenings clear, so repairs shouldn't slow the trains down too much," Judge said.

JUDGE SAID the railroad intends to repair uneven tracks and various crossing works.

The railway has refused to release train arrival reports from other Northwest suburbs, but officials said the 620 is the only "problem line" in the area.

Bootleg fireworks explosion expected for Fourth of July

a nationwide ban that could have stopped some fireworks from coming into Illinois has been postponed until after the holiday.

The ban was issued by the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission to go into effect June 18. But after fireworks manufacturers claimed they would be stuck with $50 million in illegal fireworks, the commission delayed the ban for 30 days. After that time, it plans to hold a public hearing on the issue.

Under the ban, it would be illegal for both manufacturers and retailers to sell firecrackers that contain a charge of less than two grains. The federal government has already banned explosives that contain a charge of more than two grains, which includes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers. Sparklers, Roman candles and bottle rockets are not affected by the federal ban, but they are illegal in Illinois.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits sale, use or possession, except during public display, of devices that explode or are propelled by explosion. Smoke bombs and "snakes" are even questionable, according to the investigating commission. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law.

The investigating commission has proposed a new fireworks law that Siragusa expects to be effective by July 4, 1975. The bill has been introduced into the Illinois General Assembly, but no action has been taken.

The new law would provide the mechanics for cracking down on the bootleg market with stiff penalties, including imprisonment and a minimum $10,000 fine. The law also would enforce regulations for production and storage of fireworks in Illinois. Every year from 1970 to 1973, an Illinois fireworks company has exploded. Seven persons have died as a result.

Under the proposal, anyone operating a public fireworks display, would have to be at least 21 years old and licensed by the Dept. of Mines and Minerals. No person would be allowed to ignite dangerous fireworks unless licensed as a pyrotechnic operator.

THE NEW LAW would clearly define which fireworks are illegal and which are not. The director of the Dept. of Mines and Minerals would have the option to declare some fireworks "safe and sane," thus making them legal in the state.

But until that law passes, most Fourth of July items are illegal. And local fire departments warn that most are unsafe. According to the Mount Prospect Fire Dept., even the sparkler, which most people consider harmless, can be dangerous. The device causes severe burns, blindness, clothing fires and sometimes death, according to Fire Chief Larry Pairlitz.

"Remember that fireworks are not toys," he said. "In their earliest forms they were weapons of war. Their basic nature has not changed."

Scouts hear Motorola officer defend business

The integrity of American business was defended Thursday by a Northwest suburban corporate executive who said the public's attitude toward business has been "steadily and seriously declining since 1965."

"We are living and working today in an era where business is being berated from all sides for cheating the public, creating shortages in order to manipulate prices and God knows what else," said Carl E. Lindholm, vice president and director of corporate staff at Motorola Inc. headquarters in Schaumburg.

"But it is my opinion that there are no more crooked businessmen than there are crooked doctors or lawyers or clerks or factory workers or teachers, for that matter," he told 500 persons attending the annual Business-Industrial Lunch-O-Ree sponsored by Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America.

"If we don't understand the basic and positive role of business in our society and realize that we must take a more balanced view of things, we may see a stampede to see how fast the baby can be thrown out with the bath water," said Lindholm.

He said the success of a company is in the hands of the customers "despite the horror stories of many who believe, and continually spout, that businesses dominate and exploit the customer."

To the contrary, he said, "The customer must be served with a good product or service at a fair value or he will simply take his business elsewhere or stop buying."

Lindholm was principal speaker at the affair in Arlington Park Towers Hotel, Arlington Heights, which raised nearly $30,000 for the council program serving 18,000 area Boy Scouts.

Co-chairmen of the benefit were Robert Y. Paddock, executive vice president of The Paddock Corp., and Richard W. Real, manager of J.C. Penney Co. in Schaumburg. Master of ceremonies was Don Mellema, newscaster-reporter for WBBM Newsradio.

The 1974 "Good Scout Award" was presented to Harold Byron Smith Jr. of Barrington, president of Illinois Tool Works and past president of the Northwest Suburban Council executive board.

Sacred Heart High elects class officers

Student government officers at Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows were elected recently.

On the executive board are Margie Klein, president; Ann Sylvester, vice president; Val Lasusa, secretary; Hilary Ward, treasurer; Denise Josten, curriculum; Lynn Gripman, activities and Pat Lydon and Sue Donor, publicity.

Officers for the Class of 1975 are Sue Smedinghoff, president; Maribeth Meersman, vice president; Joan Rosenhauer, secretary, and Mary Schlickman, treasurer.

Officers for the Class of 1976 are Maggie O'Leary, president; Tess Prasnikar, vice president; Patti Casey, secretary, and Cathy Collins, treasurer.

For the Class of 1977, officers are Mauria Giles, co-chairwoman; Kathy Weaver, co-chairwoman; Carrie Mitchell, communications director, and Terri Chapleau, accountant.

Officers for the Class of 1978 will be elected in the fall.

Art gallery opening slated this weekend

The House of European Arts, specializing in imported original oil paintings, will observe its grand opening Saturday and Sunday in the Countryside Mall, Palatine.

Owners Branco and Monika Jevic also operate a store on Chicago's North Side. Earlier, Jevic also owned a fine arts gallery in Europe.

The store custom frames all its selections as well as doing frames for customers.

Dun Reuben, attorney for the Regional Transportation Authority, asked the Illinois Supreme Court Wednesday to head off a DuPage County suit challenging the RTA referendum by issuing an opinion that referenda recounts should not be allowed.

A typographical error in Thursday's Herald made it appear that Reuben wanted the recount to be allowed.

CBS dumps two comedies to meet prime time rule

HOLLYWOOD—CBS announced Thursday that it was dropping two situation comedies and a series of children's specials from its fall prime-time television schedule.

CBS also disclosed a series of time changes for several programs.

The network said the decision to revise next season's schedule stemmed from a June 18 federal court ruling cutting the number of hours the three commercial networks can use in the prime viewing hours between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. CDT.

A spokesman for the network in Los Angeles said the two shows which were dropped, "Love Nest," starring Florida Friebus and "We'll Get By," starring Paul Sorvino, may be rescheduled in January.

Both programs, which are situation comedies, would have made their debut this fall. "Love Nest" was scheduled to be aired Fridays, 7-7:30 p.m. "We'll Get By" was to be shown Fridays 7:30-8 p.m.

The spokesman also said a series of children's specials would be dropped from the Saturday night lineup and rescheduled elsewhere during the fall season.

He said the network has juggled the starting times for several shows in an effort to comply with the court ruling.

The CBS decision came one day after NBC announced it was dropping two situ-

Quickie diets can cause problems

I am a 17-year-old girl and have a weight problem. A year ago I weighed less than 100 pounds. Now I weigh 135 pounds. To get under 100 pounds I went on a diet that my parents thought was a sensible diet; lots of protein, no desserts, lots of vegetables and fruits, only the good things for me, I thought.

Three months later I was slim, but had developed a foot drop. To make a long story short, I was in and out of doctor's offices and hospitals several times before they decided it was caused by a sudden weight loss.

After that I started eating normally, plus started taking vitamins to correct the foot drop. I also got a job after school. Right now my foot drop has been corrected, but I am overweight. My grandparents seem to think that my job has something to do with this problem.

The place where I work is a quick food

The doctor says

takeout establishment and 75 per cent of the food prepared is fried. My grandparents say that being around all that cooking oil has caused it to penetrate my body, causing me to be overweight. I am trying to diet again and cut down on my eating, but have had no success. Your help will be greatly appreciated.

No, you won't get fat from cooking oil penetrating the body. The only way calories penetrate the body is by way of the mouth on their way to the stomach. You can't inhale calories either.

If your foot drop was because of weight loss it must have been associated with lack of thiamine (vitamin B1) or from pressure on nerves to the leg in some mechanical way. The latter seems unlikely. Thiamine does help in such problems. A number of overly restricted diets are deficient in thiamine. A young, active girl, often still growing and developing should never be on a diet that causes her more than a steady weight loss of two pounds a week — and a loss of only one pound a week is much better. It's slow but safe and trains you how to eat so it doesn't come back.

Try again, but be sure you are still getting enough calories to lose weight only gradually and that your diet contains enough vitamins and minerals.

I have read that certain vitamins can make your hair return to its original color. Can you tell me what this vitamin is and how much to take to obtain the desired result, or even some improvement in the color? I have also seen a doctor on TV who said that his brown hair was a result of his taking vitamins, otherwise, it would have been white.

This idea is completely without scientific foundation. There is nothing in any vitamin that will return your hair to its natural color. About the only way the man on TV could have brown hair because of taking vitamins would be if he was wearing a wig after having lost all of his hair from taking toxic doses of vitamin A.

Herald opinion

Army wins park battle

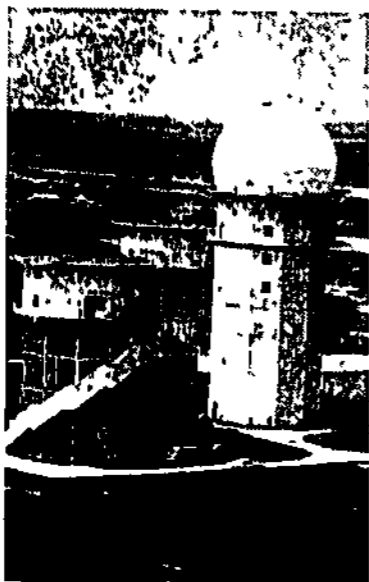

Did anyone REALLY think that an ordinary group of citizens from Arlington Heights, Ill., would win a battle with the massive and impenetrable United States Army, based in Washington, D. C.?

It was silly, of course, to imagine that the Army, with its thousands of men, its miles of red tape and its billion dollar budget, would ever surrender a 52-acre slice of its empire in a suburb northwest of Chicago.

The Army announced recently that it had decided to keep the Nike site land for a Reserve training base, even though there's ample property elsewhere, such as at Fort Sheridan, for such military operations.

For local residents who had petitioned, written, marched and urged Congressmen and Senators to encourage the Army to turn over the base for a regional park or a public golf course, there's the vague sensation that the Army did not even listen to our pleas. If we'd known better, we could have saved ourselves the energy and the money that our effort needed.

In the wake of the military's disappointing and apparently final decision, U. S. Rep. Phillip Crane, R-12th, has called for a fence-mending session between military and community officials. The meeting's designed to make certain that the nearly abandoned base doesn't become a nuisance to the community, and that some tiny part of it might someday become available for some kind of limited community use.

Such a well-intentioned meeting, however, shouldn't blind local residents to the fact that our recreational needs have been ignored by another, but much larger, government agency.

The need for the park has been demonstrated, it's clear that the military has a considerable amount of other local property, yet the recreational needs of this area are ignored. Somehow, the logic escapes us.

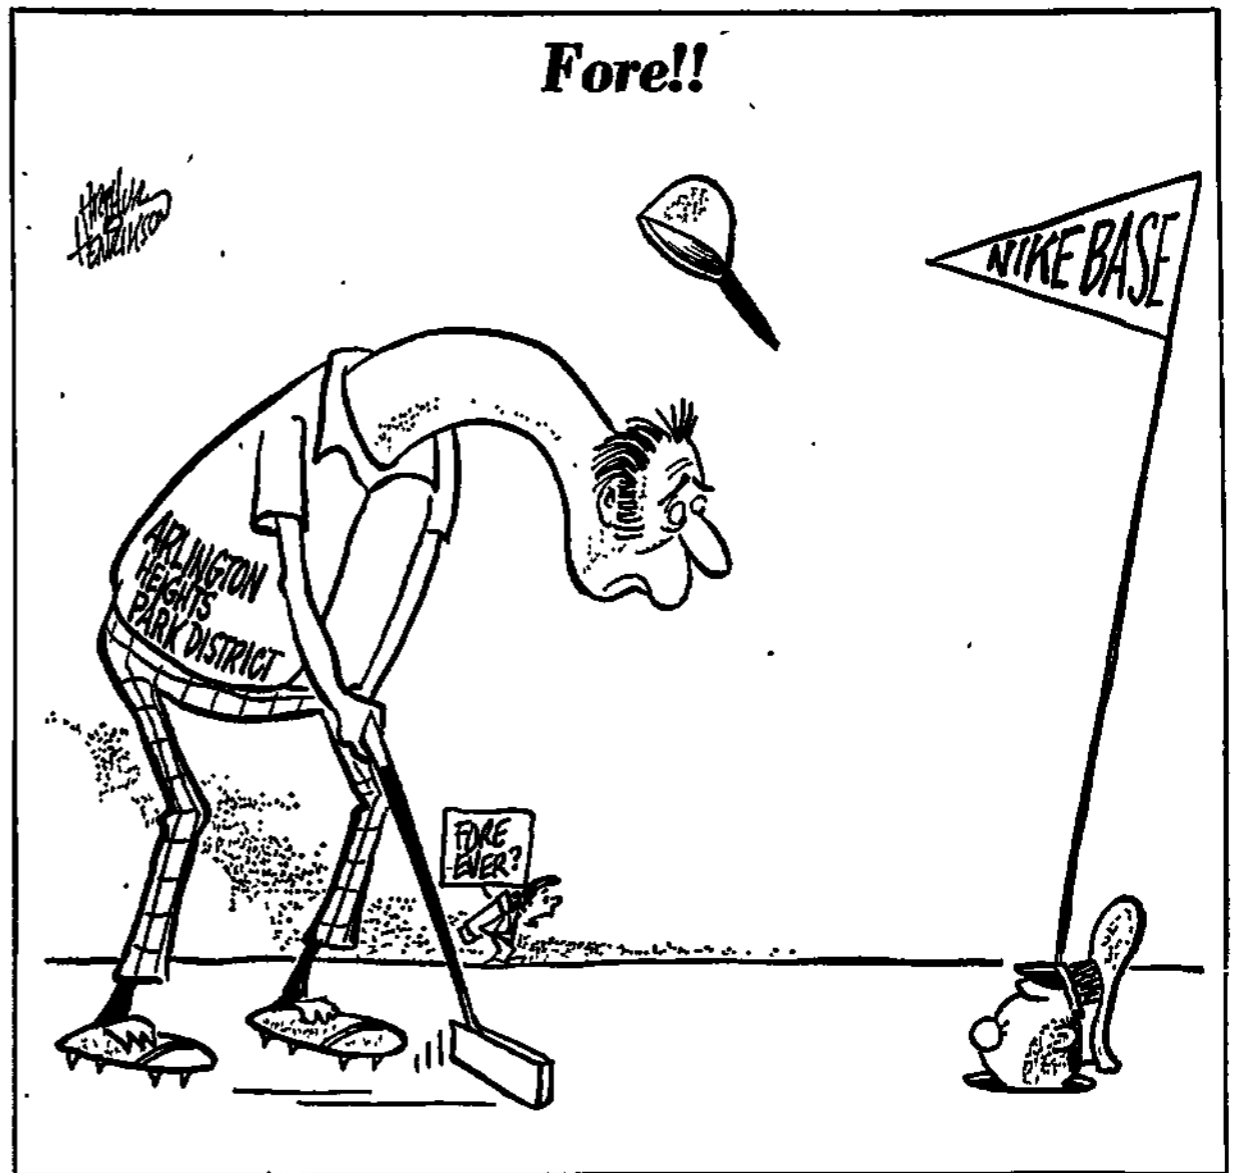

For us, there is no redress. The U. S. Army is a very complex and very omnipotent monster. Perhaps we can write off the entire experience as another lesson about a government which has forgotten whom it is supposed to govern.

County line

Ethics, money: '74 issues

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Metropolitan Affairs Editor

The issues of the 1974 county elections are money and ethics; money because people are making more to have less of it, and ethics because people feel political figures should have more of it.

Both are bread and butter issues. Money buys bread and butter, while loose ethics allows political figures to grab the money which buys their bread.

Not all politicians are crooks, while some crooks aren't politicians. But the line-up of post-Watergate political figures standing before judges and juries throughout the nation indicates that political survivors in the fall election will persevere with honesty and will vibrate with efforts to return integrity to politics.

Faced with the fall elections, some Illinois legislators and Cook County Democrats sit on a unique pedestal of arrogance as the battle over improved Illinois ethics legislation collapses in Springfield.

"Arrogant" is not the only word to describe the party of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. Cocky, self-assured and aloof are as descriptive.

No Democrat on the party ticket has sounded trumpets to announce discussion of ethics legislation, campaign funding reports or election openness. Without Democratic-Daley support, the fate of legislation designed to require campaign reporting is uncertain.

The legislature apparently is playing the age-old game of agreeing to disagree. If each house passes separate, different ethics legislation and adjourns the spring session before a conference committee can iron out the differences, no bill will go to Gov. Daniel Walker for signature. But each legislator will troop home with a message that "I voted for stiff ethics legislation and the other house killed it."

The message will be about worthless as the watered down "ethics" law that the legislature called the toughest in the country in 1972.

Reporting of campaign contributions and expenses is no panacea for eliminating crooked politicians. But a simple understanding of who is buying what political office should be an important part of the election process.

With a whisper, Democrats Tom Tully and Richard Elrod have talked about campaign reporting. More than five months ago, when he announced his candidacy for reelection as sheriff, Elrod promised periodic fund disclosure. Silence has followed.

Tully, a former chief deputy assessor and now candidate to succeed Parky Cullerton, also said he will reveal his financial backers — after the election. His campaign is slick and organized but its backing is a mystery.

It's early in the campaign. But the lack of Democratic discussion of campaign ethics, the duties and obligations of public office and servitude to the machine falls into a typical pattern of past years and ignores Watergate, the Paul Powell shoebox scandal, the indictment of past and current county officials and the conviction of former Gov. Otto Kern.

The ethics ball has bounced to the campaign underdogs — the slate of Republicans that entered the race without funds, with little public familiarity and with a longshot chance to win.

The GOP slate — which needs publicity as much as the Democrats need peace and quiet — first announced voluntary reporting of funding along federal guidelines. Sheriff candidate Peter Bensinger for example, already has issued three contribution reports.

The GOP also has announced backing of an amendment to the current legislative ethics proposal that would include this year's county candidates under requirements for financial reporting.

Current proposals for ethics legislation in Springfield conveniently exempt county candidates reporting until Jan. 1, 1975 — after the November election. The argument was that Downstate counties could not comply with a fall reporting deadline for vague reasons including finances, inability to communicate the law and lack of organization.

Cook County is an exception, the GOP slate is arguing. With the last-minute amendment, only Cook County candidates would be forced to comply with the reporting law in 1974.

Any argument against the GOP proposal is frivolous. The sheriff, the county board president and the assessor will not be elected again until 1978, so 1974 is the time for fund reporting.

Less rhetoric and more honesty should be the demand from voters in the coming county election.

Seeks Rob Roy opinions

First the rush to buy Rob Roy with your paper's "random sampling" showing the interest in such a purchase. Now the train has been reversed by Engineer Teichert in a 180-degree turn. I don't know if the "engineer" was silent before April 23, but he seemed to favor the hiring of two firms to appraise Rob Roy and also gave that price level estimate of $30/year for 20 years, or a total of $600 per household.

By the way, since there will not be a referendum, what has become of that $8,000 budget appropriation for such a referendum. Maybe the trustees could use it to offset part of that 50 per cent increase in vehicle tax they "gave" us.

I'm impressed (negatively) by the numbers being used to describe the proposed revision in the Rob Roy plans. The numbers given us are 2,350 dwelling units developed a projected population in 15 years of 4,551. I have not seen a breakdown of the number of bedrooms which go with these units. I really do not see how anyone can really evaluate school impact without it. I cannot accept only 359 grade school and 106 high school students, unless they are referring to average annual impact.

Since what the public has seen is vague anyway, let's look at the other vague numbers. If you assume 80 per cent 1-bedroom units, 25 per cent 2-bedroom and 25 3-bedroom would house two, three and four people respectively, the projected population could be in the area of 6,500 people with more than 350 grade and 106 high school students.

The appeal to await Chicago Alderman Wigoda's trial is, I believe, a valid consideration. The trustees would be wise to wait since the U. S. Attorney's office has indicated that Kenroy may be involved in that alleged kickback scheme. If it is proved to have worked once, is it possible — ?

The trustees concern over operation of the golf course is a joke. That is an insult to the voters who put them in office. The dirt and inconvenience and potential flooding until the controls are in should be part of their concern. I do not see a single trustee doing the kind of evaluation that anyone of the trustees or the mayor can go to the voters when the time comes, and that time will come again, and say "I represented your interest." I doubt if any of them even know or care.

The Herald should consider some new "random samplings." You might try one to evaluate the traffic engineer's numbers of vehicles that Euclid and Camp McDonald carry as to where do they go when they leave those two "thorofares."

The voters of Mount Prospect should make their feelings known via your paper in this issue. They may get heard that way.

Tom Tiede's column

Trucks threaten U.S. motorists

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tom Tiede writes a Washington column for the Newspaper Enterprise Association (NEA). His column will appear occasionally on The Herald's editorial page.

by TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — A driver traveling 55 m.p.h. on the New Jersey Turnpike recently was forced into higher speeds by the sight of a tractor-trailer truck rushing into his rearview mirror. The driver gunned to 60, then 65 and 70 — but still the truck closed ground.

Finally, unnerved, the motorist hit his brakes and the truck wrenched past with an Armageddon roar while its driver, clearly visible in his lofty warroom, grinned, drank soda pop and waved a contemptuous middle finger from his window.

America's highways, never showplaces for reason or brotherhood, are today deteriorating even further toward total anarchy. The reduction of the legal speed limit to 55, while seldom observed by anyone, has created new and potentially tragic frictions between the highway's natural enemies: the cars and the trucks.

Terrible games of tag and bully are taking place at speeds enough to slaughter the participants — and anybody else hapless enough to be in the way.

The situation, says Ken Pierson of the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety, here is nothing short of vehicular "tyranny."

He says the bureau, an arm of the Department of Transportation, is "receiving more and more complaints concerning the disposition of some truck and bus drivers to operate at excessive speed, to tailgate automobiles and other commercial vehicles, as if the highways were their private domain and automobiles were interlopers on a private preserve."

Pierson is not the only one receiving motorist flak. A New Jersey Turnpike tolltaker says protests at his booth go on all day, every day: "I remember this one guy, he said he got so mad at a truck he tried to ram it. Can you imagine? The guy had a little Volvo and he was trying to smash an 18-wheeler. But you can't blame him; what I see on this turnpike is almost like combat."

As yet, casualty figures concerning the blacktop war are unavailable. At least one federal agency — the National Highway Safety Council — is supposed to be studying the safety impact of the 55 limit, but authorities there admit to inaction. Withal, there is no doubt as to the casualty potential.

The American Automobile Association says that games between cars and trucks are as onerous as lynchings; it reports that while tractor-trailer trucks comprise only 3.7 per cent of the road miles driven in the nation, they account for 4.6 per cent of the fatal accidents. So big are the rigs (the legal weight limit in interstate highways is now 73,200 pounds) that their "frequency of involvement in fatal accidents is 55.5 per cent greater than the car."

This is not to say, of course, that trucks are inherent road menaces. The American Trucking Association argues correctly that trucks overall are comparatively safe drivers and that comparison trucks in general account for only 2.3 per cent of all highway accidents.

Nonetheless, there is growing unease even in the trucking industry that more and more drivers are becoming arrogant, careless and unlawful.

Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, himself an ex-trucker, estimates that 10 per cent of big rig drivers use pep pills; the DOT reports an increase in headphone stereo set use by younger drivers, "a safety hazard of incredible proportions"; and such is the temptation to overload trucks that the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol remembers nabbing one dolt driving with 200,000 pounds.

Given the more aggressive and insensitive driver, then, road tyranny is an unsurprising result. ("We got to make time," says one owner-operator, "I can't feed my kids on 55 mph.") The question is how to stop it? Local police around the nation insist that increased enforcement is not the answer. New Jersey Turnpike cops gave 1,000 more truck summonses in this January-May over last, but "that didn't hardly faze them." Even now the Teamsters Union is attempting to force companies to pay for such driver indiscretions.

So there may be no answer here save an unforeseen enlightenment of the violating truck drivers. And until and if such religion occurs, safety officials warn motorists to cool it. Trucker tyranny can't be remedied by motorist revenge. Stay in your lane, at your speed, and let the big apes do the maneuvering. What the truck-car situations do not need are TWO damn fools.

Board vote urged

It seems to me that our Mount Prospect Village Board is afraid of public opinion. Why else would they be unwilling to take a vote on a community project, a new $3.2 million library that will cost a resident $16 per year for 14 years on property with an equalized assessed valuation of $10,000? For that much more of an increase in taxes, I certainly feel a vote should be taken!

Central School has been vacant several years, and an eyesore to the community. Will that happen to the old library building, too?

Also, we have several sewer projects all over town which may not be finished this year because of "lack of funds." These projects are not as costly as a new library, have already been started and are certainly necessary to the residents of this community. Let's put first things, first!

By the way, what happened to senior citizen housing, or was that only an election vote-getting issue? Seniors have to move away from friends, familiar places and conveniences because they are not able to afford the taxes in our town.

House OKs $1.85 million Antitrust Division budget hike

From Roll Call Report

Following is a summary of key votes by members of the Illinois congressional delegation for the week of June 13-19. Included in the summary are votes by Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai Stevenson III, and Northwest suburban congressman U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th.

House

ANTITRUST: An amendment to increase by $1.85 million the fiscal 1975 appropriation for the Justice Dept.'s Antitrust Division, passed 216-185.

The amendment was attached to a bill appropriating funds for the departments of Justice and Commerce. The bill later was passed and sent to the Senate.

The added money restored funds that the Appropriations Committee had cut from the Administration's budget request. The money will finance the hiring of 83 persons, and the key issue was whether the Antitrust Division should be beefed up.

Supporters argued that enforcing antitrust laws combats inflation because increased competition means lower prices.

Opponents argued that the Antitrust Division cannot fill existing vacancies and, thus, should be denied funds for staff expansion. Some members argued that the way to halt inflation is to stop hiring federal bureaucrats.

and Kenneth Gray, D-24th, voted no.

Ralph Metcalfe, D-1st, and George Shipley, D-22nd, did not vote.

AIRPORT SAFETY: An amendment to continue the existing ban against the Federal Aviation Administration automating its manned flight service stations, passed 261-120.

The amendment was attached to a Dept. of Transportation appropriation bill. The bill later was passed and sent to the Senate.

There are more than 300 flight service stations across the country. Staffed by FAA personnel, they provide pilots with weather and flight pattern information. The FAA wants to save money by installing machines to handle that function at more than 100 of the smallest, low-traffic airports.

The amendment prevents such automation until the FAA can prove that airport safety will not be jeopardized.

Supporters argued that public safety requires the FAA to move cautiously.

Opponents argued that the FAA would not put in an unsafe system and that final automation plans would save $100 million in yearly operating costs.

Crane Yes

Derwinski, Collier, Erlenborn, Arends, Anderson, O'Brien, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Gray voted yes.

Metcalfe, Murphy, Hanrahan, Kluczynski, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Michel and Findley voted no.

Rallsback did not vote.

Senate

VETS' BENEFITS: An amendment to tie veterans' subsistence and educational benefits to cost-of-living rises, rejected 54-35.

The amendment was offered to a new GI Bill, later passed and sent to conference.

GI benefits now must be voted by Congress. In rejecting the amendment, the Senate voted to continue the present system of requiring Congress to pass on increases.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars favors the present system. Supporters argued that inflation quickly outstrips benefits approved by Congress and that veterans deserve automatic increases.

Opponents argued that educational costs increase faster than the cost-of-living and, therefore, retaining direct congressional control forces Congress to periodically review the benefits. They said Congress has, in the past few years, responded by increasing GI benefits by 150 per cent while the cost-of-living has risen 48 per cent.

Stevenson No

TAX CUTS AND HIKES: A motion to close debate and force a vote on the debt ceiling bill, which some senators want to use as a vehicle for tax reform proposals, rejected 49-45.

If the motion had passed, the tax proposals would have been blocked because Senate rules do not permit amendments to bills on which debate has been limited.

A motion to close debate requires a two-thirds majority.

The tax amendments call for cutting taxes on low and moderate incomes and eliminating the oil depletion allowance, which would have the effect of raising oil company taxes.

Generally, senators voting to close debate wanted to block those amendments and senators voting against wanted to offer those amendments.

Sponsors of the tax proposals have argued that personal tax cuts will stimulate the economy and oil company tax hikes are justified due to recent oil company profits.

Opponents have argued that personal tax cuts will feed inflation and that oil companies must be encouraged to search for more oil.

The debt ceiling bill was chosen as the vehicle because it must be signed into law by June 30 to permit the federal government to pay its debts and employees.

A yes vote was a vote to block the tax proposals.

Tired mind helped Spassky lose

Chess is the enemy of mechanical thought. The mind must be agile enough to follow the labyrinthine twists and turns a position may take. An uninspired or a tired mind may miss the more unusual move that is so often the "only" move in a position. Even worse, in its lassitude, it may stumble in the most routine of situations, especially if some slight quirk is present.

The last pitfall befell Boris Spassky in game eight of his match with Bobby Fischer. Spassky found himself on the wrong end of a pin when Fischer suddenly broke a pin to Boris's disadvantage.

Diagram 1

You can see the position in Diagram 1. Black, who has just played 1... N-Q2, overlooked white's reply 2. N-Q3! This unpinning poses the double threat of 3. QxQ and NxP check, as well as RxR. There ensued 2... QxQ; 3. NxP check, K-B1; 4. RxQ, KxN; 5. RxR, etc. Fischer, who was already ahead, a rook for a bishop, has won back Spassky's extra pawn and relieved the pressure on his position. The rest of the game was mere technique.

All well and good, if this was the first chess game ever played. But the unpinning threat N-Q3 is routine in this kind of position, and Spassky, who has seen thousands of such situations, would normally recognize the danger of a flash. But Spassky was laboring terribly at this point in his match with Fischer and 2. N-Q3 was only one of many disasters that overtook him.

The technical textbook lesson to be learned here is that every pin contains a latent double attack. The pinned piece and the shielded piece suddenly may become perpetrators themselves. As you can see, the mindless muttering of the coffeehouse player, "A pin is a pin, is a pin, is a pin, is a pin, etc." is no guide to the realities of competitive chess, where contradictions abound.

Recently, the young Russian Tukmakov made a most elementary pin-blunder in the Diagram 2 position against Keres. Here he has just played 1... Q-Q2, which inexplicably allowed 2. KxRP!, winning a pawn, according to our illustrated formula.

A more reasonable blunder took place to create our third position from the last round game, Tal vs. Averkin, in the recent U.S.S.R. championship. After a prolonged and difficult struggle, Averkin, with a draw in hand, found a way to lose. He has just played 1... R-B5?!, "pinning" the white knight.

Tal, asking no questions, quickly played 2. N-Q3 and Averkin resigned. There is no way he can effectively meet the dual threat of 3. RxR and 3. N-K7 checkmate (see Diagram 4).

Diagram 4

For Tal, Averkin's mishap was momentous. Without this gift victory, he would have finished four places lower in the standings and not have qualified for next year's Soviet championship.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Defense spells the difference

Some of the best plays in bridge look so easy that no one realizes how difficult they really are. Here is one that helped decide an important team match.

The bidding and play of the first three tricks was the same at both tables. South won the first trick with the queen of hearts, led a diamond to dummy's king and a spade back to his queen and West's king.

At the first table West led the king of hearts, South took his ace right away and started to run diamonds. East showed out on this lead so South could only cash his three top diamonds. He needed several spade tricks for his contract. So he proceeded to lead his last spade, finesse dummy's 10 and ended up with his contract plus an overtrick.

At the other table West had taken the trouble to listen to the bidding. He was sure that South was counting on five diamond tricks and therefore West led back the eight of spades at trick four. South promptly refused the spade finesse. He thought his contract was safe. Then he came to his hand with the ace of hearts and had to go down two when the diamonds failed to break.

Used objects as art

Mixed media excites her

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Punched out IBM receipts, the kind returned with Bank Americard or Master Charge monthly bills, line one wall in Kathryn Kucera's home. Staped between strips of shredded burlap, the cards are arranged in an artistic ladder effect contradicting their original use and purpose.

Using readymades, everyday manufactured items, in an artistic approach rather than a technological one is a concept closely associated with dadaism and French artist Marcel Duchamp. Kathryn Kucera is one of his many adherents.

The Mount Prospect artist began working with readymades about two years ago after discovering the mixed media to be, as she puts it, "a more liberating, subjective and expressive form of art" — much more so than painting to which she had formerly limited herself.

A MIXED SHOW featuring the work of Kathryn Kucera and six other female artists, Lyn Blumenthal, Jayne Curley, Adrienne Drapkin, Mary Kenna, Susan Kraut and Audrey Olson, opens today and runs through July 24 at the Artemisia Gallery, 226 E. Ontario St., in Chicago.

Opened less than a year, Artemisia, symbolically named for Artemisia Gentileschi (1593-1652), a woman who specialized in painting famous women, expressly promotes the development of art completed by women, and encourages them in any future artistic endeavors.

"It's a women's cooperative gallery which means we do all the work," laughed Mrs. Kucera, who did her undergraduate work in art at the University of Wisconsin and received her M.F.A. from the Art Institute of Chicago.

Once disillusioned with painting, Kathryn began to actively seek out means of expression other than acrylics and oil.

"IT WAS A QUESTION of exploration," she said. "I first began doing kinetic boxes, the accumulation of material into Plexiglass boxes which helped me in working with and combining incongruous material that I had never used before."

Gradually she evolved into readymades. Finished works contain bits and pieces she is forever picking up along the streets or sidewalks. Good finds include rusty parts of old machines and motors.

"They have an interesting sort of dimensional character I feel," she commented.

"I like to use material that's been around . . . has itself already been used. If I do buy something, I will usually alter it," she continued pulling out a piece of pink satin whose newness was not ascertainable beneath a heavy coat of heavy acetone.

"I consider my finds a metaphor," she said. "I'm only interested in an individual piece if it combines to make a personal statement."

KATHRYN ADMITS she's intrigued with the ladder effect of the IBM cards because of the sense of delicacy and fragility. It imparts . . . "A ladder that might go somewhere but really isn't going anywhere and is too fragile to do so anyhow."

"You know how these things accumulate," she talked about the receipts. "I thought columns of these would have an unusual sort of presence. And anyhow, you know how IBM cards are never supposed to be mutilated or torn. It pleased my sense of irony to wrinkle them up."

Duchamp threatened his artistic credibility when he first introduced his readymades. Even today the mixed media is still often met with skepticism by laymen.

"When objects are used in an unexpected manner, the viewer and the artist have a different perspective of the manufactured object. Out of context it (the object) offers a whole different kind of experience."

And Kathryn Kucera feels this is exciting and healthy. However, mixed media is sometimes rejected, she feels, because many people won't view art in a thorough way. Unless one is vulnerable and open to new ideas, some forms of modern art cannot be appreciated, she said.

"SOME PEOPLE ARE immunized against any new experiences," she added.

A member of Artemisia since the gallery officially opened last September, Mrs. Kucera is pleased with its success and the involvement in arts by women.

"Attitudes are changing, of course, but in the past it was very difficult for female artists to receive recognition for their work. In history you hardly ever heard about one."

Through special events, lectures and programs, Artemisia Gallery is intent on educating the public concerning "the role of women in the history of art and presently today in contemporary work."

"One of the best parts I feel about the gallery is providing the opportunity for women to come together and discuss themselves as artists and talk about each other's work."

"ONCE A MONTH WE get together for a rap session. The discussion is based on the current exhibit at the gallery, but it turns into a very nice informal give and take."

When asked if a woman views art differently from a man, she answered, "Of course. For the most part women's lifestyles are basically different than men's and if art is an outgrowth of personal experiences and I think it is, then women do view art differently."

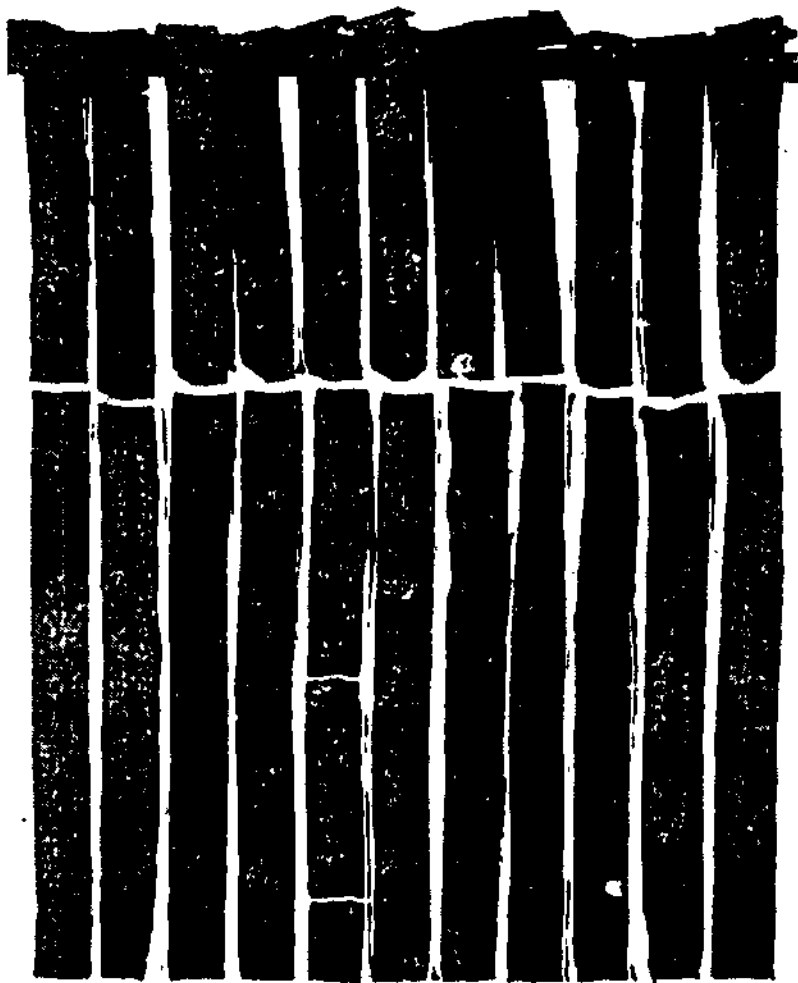

"But if the women's liberation movement is successful, if women do begin to enjoy equal status with men, this will be less true in the future."

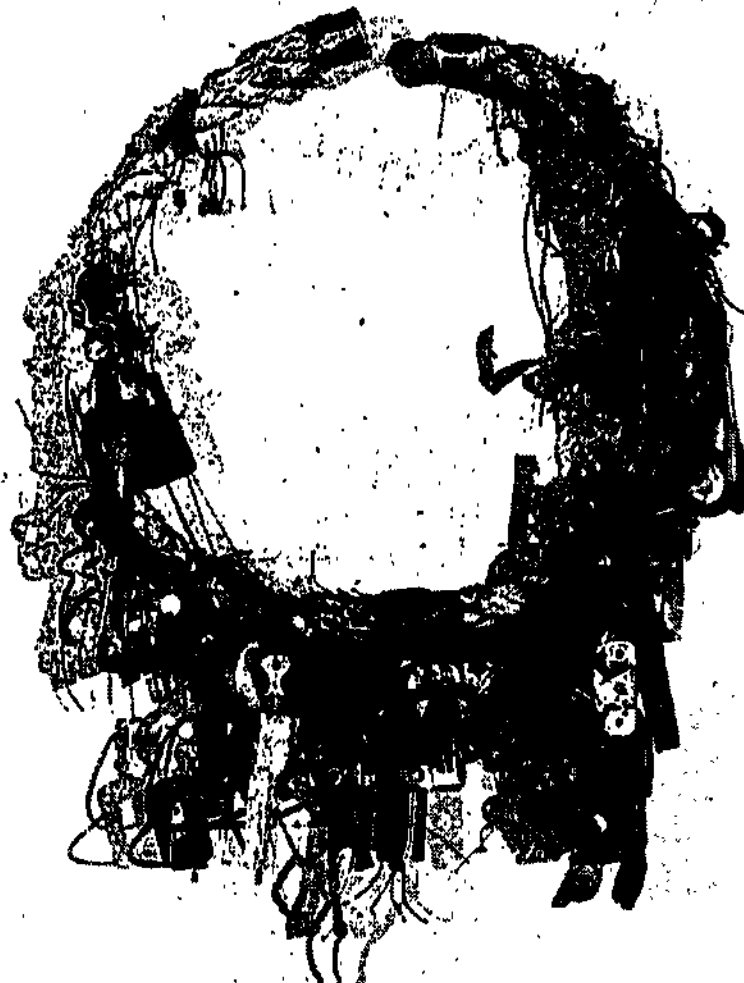

"Heart Fetish," Styrofoam with nylons, nails and pins.

KATHRYN KUCERA discusses her art as she finishes a piece patterned off ancient African fetish tunics. Strips of cloth are woven together and separated by lengths of feathers. The tunics had secret pockets for containing messages. Mrs. Kucera's contain dollar bills.

"Black Felt Series," black felt inscribed with lipstick.

"Rope Fetish," rope with beads, blades and small objects.

Violin maker laments nobody learning his craft

by TOM TIEDE
(Fifth in a series)

The sign outside the Fifth Avenue building reads: "Luthier, Rosenthal & Son, Violin Makers." The sign has been there for nearly a half century and several generations of fiddle players have read it incorrectly.

"Luthier" is the French word for "maker of stringed instruments," but because that is not generally known, and because of the word position on the sign, the violin makers inside have for years been receiving mail and solicitations addressed to Mr. Luthier Rosenthal & Son.

Actually, the mistake is apt. Rosenthal & Son has been New York's premier violin makers so long that the name is in fact synonymous with the craft. The elder Rosenthal, now dead, was widely acclaimed as the best in the nation, if not the hemisphere; he made instruments for Heifetz as well as third grade kids who use their violins for ball bats after practice.

SO FINE WAS his work, so conscientious his practice, that one player called Rosenthal "in a class with Stradivari."

The father's work is now being carried on by the son, a hand-down continuity of effort that is presently in America almost as rare as the handmade violin itself. David Rosenthal wanted to become a biological artist, but when his father asked, "Who will take care of the shop?" the son relented.

The younger Rosenthal, now approaching middle age, has been making violins since his teens, the same way as his father, the same in essence as The Great Strad.

That way is carefully. Working in one of three small rooms which constitute Rosenthal's Fifth Avenue business, the son says patience is the fiddle maker's primary virtue. Indeed, patience is necessary in the Rosenthal shop if only as a means of orientation. The workroom is three walls of clutter and a window surrounding a steadily shrinking patch of floor space.

Animal glue cooks on a hotplate, bow hair hangs from a corner, alternating piles of cardboard patterns and sheets of ancient wood are stacked atop all flat surfaces. Even Rosenthal is confused. When he looks for a half-finished violin, or a photograph, he opens every drawer, turns over every stack and finally finds it under some lunch wrappings.

BUT IF THE SHOP is confusing, the work is organized. Rosenthal works on several pieces at once, both new and used, taking this one up and laying that one down. There can be no rush through to complete a singular work.

"It takes a long long time, up to a year to complete one fiddle. Even the varnish, which is very important, takes time. I put on 18 to 26 coats of varnish. Each time I have to let it dry before adding another. The varnish alone takes three or four months to complete."

A new Rosenthal violin is, therefore, not new at all. But then they're not supposed to be. Age is essential to instrument excellence. Rosenthal uses no wood younger than 50 years old and some of it dates back a full century. The wood comes from Europe — wood from the United States does not have the proper density — and is invariably spruce and maple, spruce for the face of the fiddle, maple for everything else.

Before Rosenthal will use any of it, he knocks it with his knuckles; the best gives a ring like a bell from which eventual rich violin tones can be expected.

THE WORK is tedious and routine. Innovation is seldom accepted in the craft. Antonio Stradivari (1644-1737) set the pattern which has changed little to today. Rosenthal says handmade violins are virtually all the same size, with similar curls and carvings, even the color of the good ones is remarkably alike. The difference, of course, is in the tone.

Working with the maker, a player can order various tones; Rosenthal doesn't say precisely how the various sounds are achieved, it's hush-hush, and like any good artisan he keeps from the public other trade secrets as well.

However the proper tone is created, customers pay handsomely. Not Stradivarius prices, to be sure — the elder Rosenthal once owned a $100,000 Strad — but in the thousands rather than the hundreds. The last work of the elder Rosenthal is not for sale, but the shop has been offered $3,500. Steep? For the amateur, of course. But for the concert professional, the handmade item is necessary at any price; factory items, says Rosenthal, are "garbage."

TO BE SURE, there is a lot of violin garbage on the market today. Factory violins account for 99 per cent of the instrument sales in the United States. Though the handmaking craft is old and profitable, it is dying. Rosenthal says he rarely meets another like himself.

"Even in Europe they make their fiddles on assembly lines."

Rosenthal would like to change this. He wants to open a violin making school to revive interest and participation in the craft. But backers have not rallied around the idea, so he continues to stick to his shop. A shame, he says. With nobody learning the art in the nation it will one day expire completely. Already "Luthier" is an obscure name. When the name Rosenthal passes, the word quality, as applied to fiddles, will die a little, too.

Unusual, signed pieces most valuable cut glass

When collectors speak of cut glass, they general refer to the elaborate cut ware which became the rage after the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876.

Incidentally, one of the little quirks which marks a beginner from a pro in antiques is the term itself, cut glass. This is what heavy lead crystal cut into deep, elaborate patterns is called in the trade, not cut crystal, which usually means the fine copper wheel engraved glass. So say cut glass (after learning to distinguish it from cheaper pressed glass) and you'll be considered an instant expert.

Cut glass was made in every shape and size, including full sets for table use, which incorporated various sizes of tumblers, goblets, plates, bowls, candlesticks, knife rests, salt dishes, compotes, ice cream trays, water bottles, whiskey decanters — anything to hold cool foods or liquids. Cut glass was not used for hot foods, for it is very sensitive to heat. If you are lucky enough to own some of grandmother's fine cut glass, never wash it in hot water, or be sure to raise the temperature very slowly as you wash and rinse, for extremes will crack it immediately. (I know this from sad experience with my punch bowl!)

THE PEAK PERIOD of fine cut glass produced in America was known as The Brilliant Period, from about 1880 to 1908. Manufacture tapered off after the latter date, and by the '20s little good work was done. It was never inexpensive and was a popular wedding gift, replacing silver in favor.

Since its original popularity, cut glass has risen and dropped in favor several times. I feel that it is in somewhat of a slump just now, for I see nice pieces gathering dust on dealers' shelves, even though the prices do not seem too high. What will always sell well are unusual pieces, especially those which are signed by the makers' names.

Why a little acid-etched mark on a piece of glass should make it so much more valuable than an equivalent piece which is unsigned is a mystery, but such is the case. A signed cut glass berry bowl, about eight inches in diameter, might bring $150, while an unsigned duplicate would cost about $75-$85.

Finding the mark is somewhat tricky. Hold the piece up so that the light reflects at a low angle off the flat parts. In a bowl, it is usually in the center, inside. Rotate the glass, and you may see a small grayish-silver mark etched onto a flat surface. Sometimes the mark is worn and all that remains is the "shadow," but it may still be visible in the right angle of light. Common marks to look for are Libbey, Clark, Hoare, Hawkes, Fry, Staubs, Sinclair, Tutill, P and B or even Heisey. Heisey is best known for pressed products, but did some cutting.

ALL CUT GLASS is good glass, heavy, brilliant, sparkling and has a clear ring when tapped with the knuckle. Do not be a snapper or plunker of cut glass — dealers frown on that. Rather, knock or tap it with the knuckle of the forefinger. Cracked pieces will not ring. Chips and flakes off the rim will lessen value, as will "sick" glass — that is, glass affected with a lime deposit which cannot be removed, from having had water standing in it.

Everyone has heard the story of the cleaning lady who was given the barrel of cut glass during the Depression in lieu of wages and sold it to the junk man for $2. Even though it may be down in popularity slightly just now, it is bound to rise again, and if you know of anyone who has a barrelful, I'll gladly clean their house!

Movie memoirs delight, but Bette Davis biography dull

"A SHORT TIME FOR INSANITY," BY WILLIAM WELLMAN
"MOTHER GODDAM," BY WHITNEY STINE

Hawthorne $10 and $12.95 respectively. Books about or by people involved in making movies fall into two major categories: the revealing, anecdote-packed memoir and the factual, straightforward biography that recites career detail after detail.

These two books are extreme examples of the genre. "Wild Bill" Wellman's recollections are a cascading delight of stories and observations by a vital, extraordinary man. The Bette Davis biography is a mechanical, tricked up book that manages to make the spirited Miss Davis dull.

Wellman was not interested in writing his complete autobiography. Instead, he put down his memories of drunken weekends, wild parties, tough and funny movie assignments and the like. He dictated it 10 years ago while in pain and under drugs while recovering from a back operation.

Wellman is one of the half dozen top Hollywood directors who began their work in the silent films. In his first major production, "Wings," he won Hollywood's first Academy Awards. And he got better as he got older.

BUT HIS BOOK is about people — the marvelous eccentrics who were attracted by film making. And Wellman was the zaniest of them all. "A spiky, self-reliant character, as Richard Schickel called him.

Schickel, in his introduction, fingered the quality that gives this book its individuality and, underneath all the hoopla, its wisdom. "Bill Wellman is a free-form conversationalist, a man whose mind just naturally perceives relationships between ideas and incidents."

The Davis book is a fact and figure recital of her career. For instance, did you know that when her film, "The Letter," opened at the Strand Theater in New York, the stage bill featured Ozia Nelson and his orchestra? Miss Davis supplies a running commentary on the events that give the book its only snap and liveliness.

"JUDGE," BY JAMES CONWAY
Knopf, $8.95

In the parish of Plaquemine in Southern Louisiana, a man who liked to be called "Judge" Leander Perez, ruled like a monarch, obsessed with power, implacably racist and possessed of an amazing singleness of mind. The author's meticulous reporting indicates the disastrous effects of these qualities during Perez's three decades reign that ended in the 1960s. A frightening but eminently worthwhile book.

The book stall

"THEY'RE PLAYING OUR SONG," BY MAX WILK
Atheneum, $10

Wilk's book is a series of mini-biographies of the great pop song writers and lyricists of the past 40 years — Kern, Loesser, Rodgers, Hart, Hammerstein, Gershwin, Berlin and others. He tells how the music makers were motivated, how their tunes were conceived — as when Richard Rodgers was working with Larry Hart, the lyrics were written after the tunes had been composed, but with Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, it was vice versa. A fine insight into pop music.

"THE HIGHBINDER," BY OLIVER BLECK
Morrow, $5.95

Only an author as skillful as Ross Thomas (Oliver Bleck is a pseudonym) could make believable the improbable adventures of Philip St. Ives, an ex-newspaper columnist functioning as a go-between to ransom stolen property. This time out, he is hired to buy back an antique sword for the larcenous in-laws of a British ex-con man. Highly entertaining.

"ESQUIRE'S ENCYCLOPEDIA OF 20TH CENTURY MEN'S FASHIONS," BY OSCAR SCHOEFFLER AND WILLIAM GALE
McGraw-Hill, $35

The encyclopedia, with 800 illustrations including Arrow collar and Sears Roebuck ads, is a valuable reference book that carries men's fashions from the padded Victorian era to the liberated man of today. There is a history of every known category of men's wear, from underwear to overcoats.

Fee for the workshop is $10. Persons wishing to participate may register now by calling the library, 885-3373, or calling 885-2360 between 4 and 6 p.m.

Guitarist at Harper

Guitarist Leo Kotlik will present a concert tonight at Harper College. Also featured will be the Chicago folk group, Rose Hip String Band.

The concert in the college center begins at 8 o'clock. Public admission is $2. Admission for Harper students and staff with summer ID is $1.

'Iceberg' shows off Deke Leonard

Vying for the title of the most overlooked album of the year is Deke Leonard's "Iceberg" (United Artists records).

For five of the last six years, Leonard has been a singer and guitarist with the Welsh rock band Man. For more than half of its length, "Iceberg" is a superb showcase for Leonard's guitar skills and a fine first solo album.

From the opening cut, "Diamond Road," through the second side's first song, "Broken Ovation," I'd rate the album as among the year's best (even though the album originally was completed in March 1973 and held 10 months before its release in the United States). Unfortunately, the remainder of the album is a bit sloppy and rather worthless.

To start with the good, the already mentioned "Diamond Road" (about Leonard's adventures in Hamburg) is typical. Leonard's guitar work borders on brilliant, his piano is also dominant, the drums thump away and Martin Ace, another former Man player, contributes an excellent bass (as he does throughout the album).

AMONG THE other good songs, "Looking For a Man" is a standout with its hard rock, Led Zeppelin-type approach. Both the chorus and guitar lines stick in your head and have you humming them afterward (long the test of a good song). There are also the near boggle of "A Hard Way To Live," the ballad "Lisa" which reminds one of the Faces' vocal style and has Byron Berline's fiddling and "Ten Thousand Takers" with Leonard's fine slide guitar and Richard Treco's lead guitar.

The album is best when Leonard rocks. Things begin to slow with the second ballad, "Jesse." It's not a bad song, but it isn't very distinguished either. "Nothing Is Happening," which follows, is aptly named and is burdened with an overly majestic choir and harmonium sound. "The Ghost of Musket Flat" is merely a piece of fluff which tends to be boring despite the use of mellotron and violin. "Crosby," with its growling dog introduction and electronic wall build-up, is just that and nothing more. I rate it a waste.

Leonard already has a second Iceberg album (it's the name of his group also) out in England. I look forward to its release here.

THE THIRD Blue Oyster Cult album, "Secret Treasures" (Columbia records), is filled with very adeptly played heavy metal music, as were its predecessors.

The Cult disdains the fondness for crudity shown by other heavy metal bands, such as England's Black Sabbath, and by other New York bands, such as the New York Dolls. The Cult's music is well thought out and precisely executed to form multi-layered, hard-driven sounds. Lyricist Sandy Pearlman (who also acts as co-producer, manager and stylistic consultant) dips mockingly into the pseudo-profundities of the other heavy metal bands' cosmic approach to produce "heavy" lyrics that are well treated with satire. Song titles such as "Career of Evil," "Cagey Cretins," "Harvester of Eyes," "Dominance and Submission" and "Flaming Telepaths" tell just a part of Pearlman's approach.

"CAREER OF EVIL" is the album's best song, although I like "Flaming Telepaths" and "Dominance and Submission" also. The music is meant to be played loud and when it is, the different parts of the music are much easier to pick out. The marvel is how well all the pieces fit together.

A band new to recording is the Left End from Youngstown, Ohio (the same place that spawned last year's Beatles sound-alike group, Blue Ash). As demonstrated on "Spoiled Rotten" (Polydor records), the Left End isn't really up to anyone's level yet, not even Blue Ash.

The band's performance is marred by the howling "voice" of lead singer Dennis T. Monass (the closeness to Dennis the Menace has to be intentional). While he caterwauls, the other four grind away in high decibel fashion — making even "low" on the stereo too loud.

The only non-band original is the album's best song and that's mostly due to the muted performance. It's fair reworking of Lennon-McCartney's "Every Little Thing." (I knew a Youngstown band couldn't stay away entirely from the Beatles sound.)

ENGLAND'S PREMIERE post-rock band, Genesis, has reached the state of popularity wherein all its old record labels begin issuing canned material. Genesis is so good, however, that even the canned stuff sounds good.

"Trespass" (ABC records) has to be the earliest Genesis recordings. The music's from 1970 and only three of today's band members were with the group then. Substantially, the band sounds the same, although a bit quieter and more acoustic. Indeed, Peter Dinklage's vocals are much too soft in most spots, making the words sometimes hard to pick out.

The best songs are "White Mountain," part of "Stagnation" and "The Knife." The latter song also appears on the second album, "Live" (Charisma/Buddah), which is taken from February 1973 performances in England. In the live version, "The Knife" features a blistering guitar solo by Stephen Hackett.

ALSO GOOD ARE "The Return of the Giant Hogweed" and "Musical Box"

Playback

by Tom Van Malder

which have the band in a louder, more electric sound than was featured on the earlier album. The live album does focus on earlier material as the first two songs, "Watcher of the Skies" and "Get 'Em Out By Friday," are from the 1972 album "Foxtro" (also Charisma/Buddah).

Genesis' best work to date remains, however, the most recent album, "Selling England By the Pound" (Charisma/Atlantic), because the concepts behind the songs are more easily grasped.

Awards banquet closes season for Theatre Guild

Des Plaines Theatre Guild's second production of the season, "Forty Carats," captured the lion's share of honors at the Guild's annual awards banquet. One hundred thirty-five members and season subscribers attended.

Roy Quid of Arlington Heights and Bert Miller of Evanston were two of the top winners. Quid was named Best Actor for his two roles in "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," and Miss Miller received the best actress award for her role as Ann Stanley in "Forty Carats."

"Forty Carats" also captured the best overall production for its director, Nancy Koke of Harvard, and producer, Jim Beddia of Buffalo Grove; best supporting actor, Tom Ventris of Arlington Heights, and best supporting actress, Jenn Kay of Mount Prospect.

TECHNICAL AWARDS for the show included best lighting design by Marshall Kleiv of Des Plaines, best costumes by Jackie Shadinger of Des Plaines and best set furnishing and properties by Paula Unell of Glenview and Barbara Curren of Des Plaines.

Hal Genssen of Des Plaines received an award for best character actor for his portrayal of Herbert in "I'm Herbert," one of four one-acts in "I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

For her role as Muriel in "I'm Herbert," Veronica Zogman received the best character actress award.

For Bert Miller and Jenn Kay it was double victory since each won in her category for the second year in succession.

JIM BEDDIA, retiring president of the community theater organization, emceed the program. He presented special awards to vice president Rudy Kandibinder of Palatine and treasurer Mary Unell of Glenview. They in turn gave certificates of appreciation to Kathy Hugo of Glenview, director of DPTG's children's theater for her production, "The Emperor's New Clothes," and to Steve Strong of Chicago, who directed the Guild's bonus production in December, "Butterflies Are Free."

Other special gifts presented were a gavel to the incoming president, Dori Strong of Chicago, a gold lifetime membership card to charter member Ed Sauer of Des Plaines, who has been active throughout the group's 28 consecutive seasons; and a silver chalice in appreciation of Jim Beddia's service as president during 1973-74.

THE FIRST Joe McDermott Memorial

Entr'acte

Award, named in honor of a long-time DPTG member and "jack of all trades," went to Jim Beddia of Buffalo Grove. She was presented with a gold goblet for "countless, unheralded services above and beyond the call of duty to the Guild during the season just ended."

All past presidents of the Guild in the audience were honored. This company included Ed Sauer, who has headed the organization three different times; Roy Quid of Arlington Heights; Jim Tuversen of Buffalo Grove; Bill Leverand of Park Ridge, who has served on two different occasions; Fran Grose of Des Plaines; and Virginia Boyer of Park Ridge.

SEVERAL LOCAL artists are among the 230 exhibitors showing work at the 18th annual Edens Plaza Arts and Crafts Fair in Wilmette tomorrow and Sunday.

DPTG plans a summer play festival

Guild Playhouse, normally dark during summer except for fall musical rehearsals, is currently alive with activity as Des Plaines Theatre Guild production crew and actors ready four separate plays for presentation July 12-28.

Production coordinator for the three weekend summer festival is John Marquette, Des Plaines, drama director at Buffalo Grove High School. One musical "I Do! I Do!" and three one-act plays will be staged on alternate evenings.

"I Do! I Do!" is based on Jan de Hartog's play "The Four Poster" and will be directed by Mike Sims of Wauconda, with musical direction by Grace Coash of Des Plaines. Starring in the two-character lyrical piece about marriage are Pat Piper of Arlington Heights as Agnes and Jim Tuverson of Buffalo Grove as Michael.

Five performances are scheduled for July 12, 14, 20, 26 and 28, with curtain times at 8:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 2:30 p.m. for the Sunday matinees.

ALTERNATING WITH the musical on July 13, 19, 21 and 27 will be an evening of one-act plays, offering audiences a different kind of theater from the regular season fare at Guild Playhouse.

This program includes "The Chairs" by Eugene Ionesco, directed by Marshall Kievit of Des Plaines, and starring local residents John Maes and Jane Brenner as the Old Man and Old Woman.

Second act is "The Zoo Story" by Edward Albee, directed by Max Elsey of Des Plaines, featuring John Schille of Rosemont as Peter and John Marquette as Jerry.

Third playlet is "Double Solitaire" by Robert Anderson, directed by Julie Tobias of Des Plaines. The cast of this one-act includes Arlette Dawson of Des Plaines as Mrs. Potter, Mike Lucchesi of Chicago as Mr. Potter; Bert Miller, Evanston, Sylvia; Hank Vandenberg, Wheeling, George; Pat Baker, Des Plaines, Peter; Marianne Marquette, Des Plaines, Barbara; and Tom Ventris, Arlington Heights, Charley.

PRODUCER JOHN Marquette, center, confers with the directors of the musical and one-act plays being offered in July by Des Plaines Theatre Guild, Mike Sims, left, Julie Tobias, Marshall Kievit and Max Elsey. All but Sims are Des Plaines residents. He is from Wauconda.

HELPING BEHIND the scenes with set furnishing and props are Betty Kandelbinder, Palatine; Jackie Tuverson, Buffalo Grove; and Christine Gyslor, Des Plaines. A. J. Riegler, Des Plaines, is assistant to the director for "I Do! I

Art classes begin in July

A variety of summer art classes for children and adults is being offered by Countryside Art Center in Arlington Heights.

The program for children will incorporate drawing, painting, printmaking, sculpture, collage and weaving. They also will learn composition, perspective, color mixing and color theory.

Classes will begin the second week in July and run for six weeks. Available days and times are: Monday, July 8, 9-11 a.m. for children 6-10; Monday, July 8, 11 a.m.-1 p.m., for ages 6-10; Tuesday, July 9, 9-11 a.m., for ages 6-10; Friday, July 12, 9-11 a.m., for children 11-14.

Adult classes include both day and evening sessions.

Stitchery will be taught by Henry Stahmer from 6:30-9 p.m., beginning Tuesday, July 9. The class will cover techniques of needlepoint, quilting, stuffing, rugmaking and elementary weaving.

The public is invited to visit the fair from noon until dusk both days. There is no admission charge.

Location is the same as last year, in the southeast parking lot along Skokie Boulevard and Lake Avenue near all main entrances to Edens Plaza Shopping Center.

Des Plaines artists exhibiting are Charles, Clay and Joy Anderson, paintings, graphics and etchings; Anne Dee, suncatcher crafts; Robin Gran, wood plaques; and Thomas Grilli, oil paintings.

Thomas Lynch, watercolors; Jerry Mark, oils; Maxine Salfisberg, mixed media paintings; Thelma Spain, watercolors; and Shirley Trock, ceramic flowers.

Mount Prospect residents participating are Christ Hansen, acrylics; Charlotte Laurine Schaefer, watercolors; B. Smith, apple sculpture and woodlike figurines, and Bridell Ellason, oil and acrylics.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS will be represented by Kent Burgess, metal sculpture, and Betty Kondrat, oil paintings.

Arlington Heights exhibitors are Betsy Harrigan, acrylic paintings; Josephine Perez, decoupage and nature crafts; W. E. Teske, antique copper repousse; and Betty Twietmeyer, corn husk dolls and ceramic mushrooms.

From Palatine will be Deena A. Albers, oils; Elaine Klein, collages; John and Nancy Lewis, leathercrafts; and Donna and Robert Lichner, fabric flowers, dry starflowers and acrylic wildlife paintings.

Ronald and Sandra Frederiksen of Schaumburg will exhibit gem cutting.

PAULETTE KIEL will teach a class in jewelry making from 7-10 p.m., also beginning July 9. Both the hand construction approach and the casting method will be offered. A kit will be available at the first session for $5.

FOIL FIREWORKS

A small foil pie pan provides the fireworks in this Independence Day picture. Make cuts one-half inch apart all the way around the pan's edge. Cut from the outside edge to the outside rim of the pan bottom. With your hand, flatten the pan. Spread a little white glue on the pan. Sprinkle on glitter. Glue the foil pan to a sheet of dark paper. Draw in the rest of the picture.

New dinner-theater in full swing

by GENIE CAMPBELL
"THE PAISLEY CONVERTIBLE." a three-act comedy involving a young marriage and a multitude of "old flames," this month initiated a new dinner-theater venture at THE YORKSHIRE located three miles east of East Dundee on Ill. Rte. 72. Having recently changed ownership, the dining room is the former Mangam's Restaurant.

Now under the direction of J. J. BUTLER, a Chicago actor and promoter of area theater, the playhouse is featuring on weekends only Broadway hits comedies staged by THE TROUPE, a Chicago performing company.

Performances are Friday, 9 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 10:30 p.m.; and Sunday, 5 p.m. Dinner theater combinations are $7.50 Fridays and Sundays, a dollar more for Saturday performances.

This Monday the Troupe is presenting a special showing of "The Paisley Convertible" for DON KNOTTS who is currently finishing up his third time around in "THE MIND WITH THE DIRTY MAN" at Arlington Park Theatre.

Where were you last week when the lights went out during the heavy rain storm? At ALLGAUER'S FIRESIDE, diners were eaten by candlelight. The most popular entree of the night was Steak Diane conveniently prepared right at the table. No matter if evens were cold.

KARON-JOE and THE INNER CIRCLE went on at the usual time in the show lounge but not with the usual backup. Electrical guitars and microphones were naturally out of commission. With just the simplest of piano and drum accompaniment, the man and wife vocal team sat on stools and sang a selection of old favorites.

I enjoyed the show. Sometimes you don't miss all the extra twang and emotion. But then again, you have to find a table up close to hear.

Karon Christopher and Joe Cucci close at Allgaue's this weekend and open together with the Inner Circle Wednesday at the CHICAGO MARRIOTT WINDJAMMER LOUNGE for a 12-week engagement.

The group is backed by a trio that includes BILL UHER on drums, AL ROBERTS on piano and RICH MAISEL on guitar, bass and banjo.

GENE MAYL'S DIXIELAND RHYTHM KINGS opens this Tuesday for two weeks at Allgaue's show lounge.

At MILL RUN THEATER in Niles, the JACKSON FIVE, who originally are from Gary, Ind., are finishing up a six-night engagement that concludes this Sunday. Coming up next is CHEECH AND CHONG for three nights only, July 5-7.

Three 1973 graduates of Elk Grove High School are performing together as THREE WAY Thursdays and Sundays at SHAKY'S located at 245 S. Elmhurst Road in Des Plaines.

The group arranges their own music and harmony and plays popular, folk and jazz selections. JON LA BUSA, who plays guitar, writes much of the group's music.

Also in the group are pianist TINA STEFANOS of Des Plaines, and PEGGY FARACY of Elk Grove Village on flute.

NICK NOBLE will be top attraction in the TOP OF THE TOWERS over the Fourth of July holiday through July 6. He will be followed by THE FOUR LADS, July 9-20.

The hotel is offering three different holiday packages for residents in the area interested in getting away for only three days and those who would prefer to stay live. Readers may check with the hotel for details.

A special "Family Plan" Fourth of July holiday package is also available at the CHICAGO MARRIOTT.

WHAT ABOUT TODAY, a musical trio featuring songstress SUE KENT, opens Tuesday at CARSON INN NORDIC HILLS for a return engagement through Aug. 31.

The trio features both contemporary sounds and old favorites in the PLAY-ROOM Tuesday through Saturday.

Every Friday and Saturday beginning July 5 in the SKOAL LOUNGE, THE CUT-UPS, a trio of musicians, singers and satirists, will be featured.

Mrs. Wesley R. Mugford of Arlington Heights still has plenty of tickets available for a benefit performance of "6 RMS RIV-VU" starring VAN JOHNSON at DRURY LANE THEATER, 2500 W. 94th Place in Chicago.

GOODMAN SUMMER Children's Theatre will perform excerpts of its new musical "The Popcorn Man" at Woodfield Shopping Center Sunday. Performances are at 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m. in the center's grand court, off Rte. 53 and Golf Road, Schaumburg. The story's about a kangaroo escaped from a zoo.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pattinson

Guests greet the newlyweds at officers' club reception

From the 11 a.m. wedding service in First United Methodist Church, Des Plaines, 70 guests drove to the Officers' Club at Great Lakes Naval Training Center for the luncheon reception of Judith Laura Wilcox and John W. Pattinson.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Wilcox, Judith and John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray W. Pattinson, Park Ridge, were married in a double ring service June 1. They honeymooned a week at a resort at Kentucky Lake and are now at home in Des Plaines.

A graduate of Elk Grove High School, Judith studied three years at Northern Illinois University and will complete her education at the Circle Campus, Chicago. The groom received a degree from Harper College in marketing and mid-management and is employed by Sears Roebuck and Co., Schaumburg.

FOR HER WEDDING Judith chose a floor-length, white organza gown trimmed in white lace with sheer, long sleeves. She wore an open Camelot crown with pearl trim to hold her veil, and she carried white baby carnations, baby's breath, mums and roses.

Her matron of honor and only attendant was her sister-in-law, Charlotte Wilcox of Des Plaines who wore an Empire Gown of Apricot dotted swiss with white picture hat trimmed in apricot ribbon. She carried daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

William Grant, Des Plaines, was best man, and ushers were the groom's brother-in-law, Kent Carnell, Madison, Wis., and the bride's brother, Michael.

Four children precede bride Prisca Stiarwalt

Two flower girls in floor-length yellow satin gowns and two ring bearers in white suits preceded E. Prisca Stiarwalt down the aisle when she became the bride of Francis Edward Kane June 22.

The wedding took place in Resurrection Catholic Church, Wayne, Ill., where the bride is a special education teacher in the Wayne school. A cousin of the groom, Rev. William Quinlan of St. Bernadine Church, Forest Park, officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring, candlelight service.

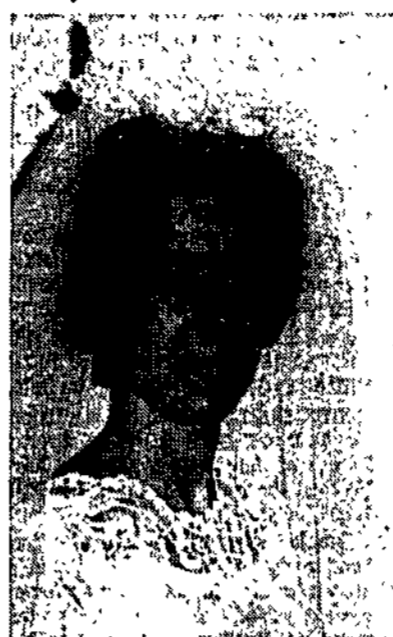

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Kane, Addison, N. Y., is one of 11 children, several of whom sang during the service; others were in the bridal party. Francis studied at St. Bernard's Seminary and College in Rochester, N. Y., and is employed by Lab. Tek Division of Miles Laboratories, Naperville.

THE BRIDE's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stiarwalt, who after residing 20 years in Mount Prospect, are moving to Elgin. Prisca graduated from Prospect High School and has bachelor's and master's degrees from National College of Education in Evanston.

Prisca chose Marilyn Bachs of West Dundee as her matron of honor, and Mrs. Dixie Walk, Addison; Virginia Damato, a cousin from Chicago; and her sisters, Stephanie and Jeanne Marie, as bridesmaids. Marilyn was in a turquoise satin gown with turquoise lace bodice, the others in turquoise satin with white lace bodices. They carried white carnations.

Gowns of the flower girls, Shari Argento, 8, a pupil of the bride, and Michaela Meagher, 6, niece of the groom from Wheaton, were also made with lace bodices. The little girls carried baskets of red roses and yellow rose petals.

RING BEARERS were Brendan Meagher, 4, Wheaton, and David Kunt, 6, Corning, N.Y., both nephews of the groom.

Mrs. Francis E. Kane

Thomas Kane, Corning, was his brother's best man, and ushers were Steve Ethier, Glen Elynn, and the groom's brothers, James, Gerard and Patrick.

A church reception was followed by a dinner for 200 at the Sheston Walken, Schaumburg.

Maureen Cooper wed in Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Nev., was the setting for the June 1 wedding of Maureen Mary Cooper of Arlington Heights and Dave L. Colner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Colner of Las Vegas. Maureen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper, 318 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights.

The newlyweds are spending the summer in Kingman, Ariz., and in September will be returning to Northern Arizona University at Flagstaff. Maureen, a psychology major, graduates this June. Her bridegroom, formerly in the submarine service, is majoring in philosophy.

12 states represented at wedding

Guests came from 12 states and the groom's parents flew in from Ireland for the wedding of Cynthia Lyne Boddy and Kent W. Mueller on June 6. The wedding was held in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, with Pastor David J. Quill rendering a wedding solo.

Cynthia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Boddy, 713 S. 10th, Mount Prospect, and the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mueller of Alton, Mo., are both with Public Service of Colorado and after July 1 will be residing in Boulder.

Cynthia graduated from Forest View High School and studied at Colorado State University and also at Park College in Denver. Kent received a degree in engineering from the University of Missouri, Rolla.

FOR THE 5 p.m. double ring service

Cynthia chose a white organza gown with Chantilly lace and chapel train. She wore a long mantilla of Chantilly and carried a cascade of white orchids, stephanotis and English ivy.

Mrs. Morris Reed of Wichita, Kan., was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Janis Forke, Lincoln, Neb.; Kathleen Fischer, cousin of the bride from Edina, Minn.; and the groom's sisters, Beverly and Barbara.

All wore white organza gowns with light blue flower imprint, green sashes and picture hats with green velvet ribbons. They carried white carnations and blue baby's breath.

James Spring, Kansas, Mo., was best man, and ushers were the groom's fraternity brothers, James Cox, Capo Girardeau, Mo.; James Perry, Hazelwood, Mo.; and James Bilstein, Stillwater, Okla.; and the bride's brother, Edward, Highland Park.

A dinner reception for 175 guests was held in Elmhurst Country Club after which the newlyweds left on a week's wedding trip to Hawaii.

They honeymoon in Canada

A honeymoon in Canada followed the June 2 marriage of Pamela M. D'Andrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. D'Andrea, 2150 Des Plaines Ave., Des Plaines, and John F. Harchut.

Pamela appeared at the altar of St. Stephen's Protomartyr Church, Des Plaines, dressed in a gown of ivory English net over peau de sole with an appliqued bodice and a train of re-embroidered Alencon French lace trimmed in pearls. She wore an elbow-length mantilla veil and carried a colonial bouquet of ivory roses, pompons and baby's breath.

Maid of honor for the 3 p.m. double ring ceremony was Barbara Rodetzky, McHenry. She preceded the bride down the aisle wearing a yellow gown with matching bolero. A bouquet of white daisies and yellow roses and a white hat trimmed in yellow, were her accents.

BRIDESMAIDS were Lisha D'Andrea, the bride's sister from Des Plaines; Triana Sage, the bride's cousin from Chicago; Mario and Joyce Harchut, cousins of the groom from Elmwood Park. They were dressed identically to the maid of honor. The bride's gown, bridesmaid's dresses and the mother of the bride's dress were all made by Mrs. Agnes Polheiser, Des Plaines.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Harchut, Chicago, chose Philip Rosenberg, Chicago, as his best man. Other male attendants were Anthony and Tom D'Andrea, brothers of the bride from Des Plaines; George Ingila, Highland Park; Joseph Tokarski and Joseph Harchut, cousins of the groom from Chicago; and Frank Harchut, cousin of the groom from Elmwood Park.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harchut

A RECEPTION for 200 guests was held at the Belvedere in Chicago.

Pamela and John, who met on a blind date in 1968, will make their home in the southeastern states. The bride is a 1968 graduate of St. Patrick High School, Des Plaines, and earned a degree in history from Bradley University in 1972. She is employed by Protection Mutual Insurance Co., Park Ridge.

John is a graduate of Wright Junior College and holds degrees in construction and civil engineering from Bradley University. He is employed by Daniel International Co., Greenville, S. Car.

Dehumidifier water no good for steam iron

Dear Dorothy: It's a nuisance to constantly get distilled water for the steam iron. Can't I use water from the refrigerator or freezer when I defrost or the dehumidifier in the summertime? — Clara Winter

Water from the refrigerator or freezer when defrosted is fine. So is rainwater, properly collected. But water from the dehumidifier is not a good idea. Tried it once and, no matter how it was processed, little colonies of bacteria collected which you don't feel like pouring into the iron. Considering all the fuss of collecting the other types of mineral-free water, I finally decided distilled water was worth the cost.

Dear Dorothy: Everything I fry in a stainless skillet sticks. Can I apply the same treatment that is used on iron pans to keep my stainless one from sticking? — Henrietta Thomas

The "treatment" used for iron won't work on stainless steel because it isn't porous. One has to be careful when using stainless steel because too much heat can burn it and nothing but buffing will bring it back. Stainless steel should be cleaned in a sudsy solution, rinsed and thoroughly dried. While there are good stainless cleaners on the market, the soap containing pumice is all I've ever needed.

Dear Dorothy: I live in an apartment and use the laundry room provided.

4-M elects officers, holds annual luau

Mr. and Mrs. Merry Marzidis, the 4-M club of Maine Township Jewish Congregation, will hold its annual luau Saturday evening.

Newly elected officers of the club include Jack Hornung, president; Arvin Rieger, executive vice president; Mrs. Erwin Berenson, Mrs. Arvin Rieger, Mrs. Ralph Karp and Mrs. Joel Reznick, vice presidents; Henry Benkel, treasurer; Mrs. Arnold Friedlander and Mrs. Jules Selvin, secretaries.

The club is planning its opening membership event for Sept. 14. Prospective members are invited to call Jack Hornung at 298-6400.

Both beginning and advanced students may enroll in the outdoor painting and sketching class taught by Charlotte Polari. Beginning Thursday, July 11, it meets from 9 a.m. until noon. Classes will be held indoors if weather is inclement.

Janet Sow will teach quilting for both beginning and advanced students starting Friday, July 12. The session for beginning students is from 10 a.m. till noon. Advanced students will meet from 1-4 p.m.

All classes are held at the Countryside Center, 414 N. Vall. Registration closes Friday, July 5. The center is open from 1-5 p.m. daily except Monday. Persons interested also may call for information during these hours, 293-3008.

Watching some of the tenants pour chlorine bleach, full strength, on the clothes, has me in a tizzy. Surely they ought to be told that bleach should be diluted when used this way. Maybe a comment from you would be noticed. — Mrs. Ina-Dikher

A weekly series about your lawn and garden.

Chemical substances aid in growing healthy plants

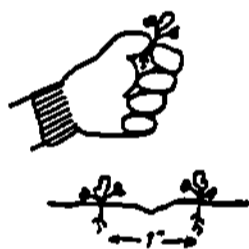

Is your neighbor getting more beauty, production and satisfaction out of his garden than you are? For less investment of time and money? If he is, the reason may be that he's reading the labels on his garden chemicals before using them. And chances are good that he knows the correct chemicals to use and then to use them.

You should visit your nearest garden supply center and discover what the garden chemical industry has been doing for you during the past decade.

At the local garden supply center you will discover an impressive supply of readily available insecticides and nutrients that have the potential of turning your "insect cafeteria" and botanical wastelands into a thriving garden. And here's where reading the labels comes in handy. When you don't read the labels, incorrect application of garden chemicals can become expensive and disappointing.

Proper application of garden chemicals can transform home gardening from a frustrating series of failures into a gratifying and creative recreational activity.

In recent years agricultural chemical manufacturers have produced excellent,

THIN OUT redishes until they are spaced at least one inch apart.

Breeding benefits garden tomatoes

Breeding and hybridizing continue to benefit the tomato more than any other vegetable, since it is by far the most important crop grown commercially and in home gardens.

Of course, breeding objectives for commercial types are different from those demanded by home gardens.

Gardeners want good flavor, earliness and disease resistance, while commercial growers want a product that can be mechanically harvested and withstand rigors of shipping.

When choosing tomatoes for your garden, ask for disease-resistant types. They can be identified by the letters VFN or any combination of these — meaning resistance to verticillium and fusarium wilts and nematode pests.

To get the earliest fruit in your neighborhood, you must choose early varieties, and it's possible to have flowers or tiny fruit already formed at time of transplanting.

Tomato transplants should be leafy with deep green coloring and not spindly. Also, half the stem should be buried in the soil since this will produce extra roots. A mulch will help earlier fruit formation, especially a black plastic mulch, which will absorb heat into the soil and encourage strong root development while keeping weeds in check and conserving moisture.

This generously illustrated 32-page publication is loaded with gardening tips and recommendations, but most important it identifies garden pests and prescribes the proper pesticides or chemical aids for controlling them. It also tells you how to fertilize plants and lawns.

The Ortho Lawn and Garden Book, and other similar good garden books will provide you with some time-honored and thoroughly researched rules.

Rule number one in your "battle with the bugs" is to use the right insecticide. Resist the temptation to use whatever happens to be on your garage shelf, unless you can definitely identify it as the right insecticide for the job.

Having selected the right insecticide you have now arrived at all important Rule No. 2 — Read the label! All of it! Maybe even twice. And then do exactly as it says.

In the case of Isotox Insect Spray it will recommend mixing two tablespoons of insect spray with one gallon of water. The natural human tendency is to reason that "if two tablespoons per gallon are recommended, then surely four tablespoons per gallon will be twice as effective."

That is not the case. All that reasoning does is double your garden expense and, carried to extremes, can foster ecological, environmental and toxicological problems.

If you follow the instructions closely, measure accurately, and observe all of the warnings on the label, your garden chemicals will perform their assigned task efficiently and safely.

To successfully combat the enemy you must know his habits. Insects feed on both sides of leaves so use a fine spray unit with a deflector (such as the Ortho Spray-ette) which will help you hit both sides of the leaves.

The phrase "apply as necessary" appears on many insecticide labels. This means apply when the pests are numerous enough to damage the plant... not when the first one appears. If you are too quick on the trigger you will spend half of your life and too much money on spraying. Wait until a platoon of your bug and insect enemies bivouac before pulling the trigger.

Mix only the amount of spray needed at a given time. Left over diluted spray should not be stored. It is only wasted and can cause a disposal problem. It is better to mix less, rather than too much, spray.

When is the best time to spray? In the early morning or evening when there is little wind. Avoid spraying when temperatures are high, or when plants are suffering from lack of water.

It is best to spray a day or two after a thorough watering, but when leaves or bark are not wet from rain, dew or sprinkling. Rain or watering right after spraying will reduce or totally eliminate the effectiveness of many pesticides.

The same basic application rules that apply to pesticides apply to garden fertilizers. Be sure that you use the right fertilizer for each particular situation. Apply it according to the instructions on the label. Over application will usually burn lawns and can damage plants.

Nutritional needs of your garden and lawn vary greatly according to types of plants, types of lawns and geographical locations. Fortunately, however, there are very helpful fertilizing instructions available in garden books. They provide you with the when, how and what of fertilization... and even the why, if you want to know.

Various manufacturers of agricultural chemicals have put millions of hours, and many more millions of dollars into research and development for better gardening. Take advantage of it.

Apply fertilizers and plant protection chemicals correctly and get as much beauty, production and satisfaction out of your garden as that successful neighbor of yours gets out of his.

Gardens are everywhere—from farms to penthouses

UPI Family Editor

From dawn until darkness, Americans are rallying around the vegetable patch these days.

They are doing it, most of them, to pare the food bill. Included are young families, college students, retirees, welfare recipients. Many of the latter garden in public plots.

Millennaires are in the great boondocks, too, for other reasons. Stewart Mott, one of these, gardens on a penthouse terrace in an apartment on New York's Park Avenue. The General Motors heir, political activist and patron of the arts started his high in the sky vegetable patch to have better food — crops not contaminated by pesticides. He also keeps chickens up there and tends fruit trees.

Another rooftop garden is in New York's Harlem at Benjamin Franklin High School.

The affluence in the garden movement are into growing their own vegetables for much the same reason cited by Mott. Others garden for pleasure — to stretch their minds and let their spirits soar.

Some gardeners do their digging with small tools aimed at the soil in tiny tubs and spots on office and apartment windowsills. An officemate has 25 tomatoes coming along on a plant in a nine inch plastic pot on her living room window sill.

Where space is a problem, some homeowners are putting tomato plants and others in any sunny spots available — even if they fall in the middle of a small prize lawn.

The many styles of American gardening came into focus in a United Press International check of large and small vegetable patches in dozens of towns.

The really most unusual place for a garden is Hart Island off Manhattan — a place where unidentified dead are put to rest, called "Potter's Field." The gardeners working on the 10-acre "farm" are from Phoenix House, a drug rehabilitation program. The recovering former addicts, who ferry back and forth, garden as therapy and also to help make Phoenix House support itself.

Also in New York, Liz Christy, an architect, has founded The Green Guerrillas. Youngsters who are Green Guerrillas garden on empty lots in broken down parts of town, their neighborhoods. For Ms. Christy, it is a labor of love.

In St. Louis, students from St. Louis University help elderly and nearly indigent persons garden in their neighborhoods. There is a lot of this spirit — help the less fortunate — in the garden movement.

Vegetable gardens are thriving in the San Francisco Bay Area, but few admit the high price of food has anything to do with the rush to gardening. Most say they want to be outdoors or they like to see things grow.

The city of San Francisco offers 25 sites of unused city land for use by citizens as gardens. They range from miniature to half an acre. The city provides insurance and composted soil. The rest is up to the gardeners.

For the fifth year the University of California at Berkeley has offered students plots. The six-acre garden is near a married students' housing project. The six acres provide 400 plots about 20 feet by 25 feet. Ellen McKean, mother of one and married to a UC graduate student, has had a plot for the past three years. Her crops include peas, chard, carrots, lettuce, beets, broccoli, tomatoes, cucumbers, green beans, onions, corn and pumpkins.

She estimates the family saves $5 to $6 a week in the summer months from the crop. She started the garden "just out of the joy of it."

The fever pitch of the gardening movement is felt especially at the hundreds of County Agricultural Extension Agent offices.

The agent in Bernalillo County, Albuquerque, N.M., is James Sals. "My calls from people asking about gardening have increased 75 per cent," he said. "That's the trend in New Mexico and across the nation."

Enough Seeds for Most Nurseryman Randall Haroldson agrees with Sals. Seed sales in the spring increased 600 per cent from previous years, Haroldson says. Many brokerage seed companies in the Midwest worked 24 hours a day to fill seed orders.

In Wethersfield, Conn., a seed distributor, the Hart Seed Co., reports a shortage of carrot seeds. This was due to a poor crop. The nation's biggest seed supplier, Burpee's in Philadelphia, says however that the general seed shortage some had forecast did not materialize — mainly because the upped demand had been anticipated.

In Boston, there are some 350 community garden sites. Each is 10 by 15 feet. The Park Department provides loan and water. Across the river in Cambridge a similar program at Fresh Pond has so many takers that the garden sites were assigned by drawing.

The First National Bank in Council Bluffs, Iowa, is into renting garden plots. President Hal Booth says the garden is a nonprofit venture and the first year, 1973, the bank lost money on it.

"But it brought a lot of people together," Booth said, "and more than 2,000 of them had nice, fresh vegetables from their own gardens."

To rent a plot costs $15. The bank provides seeds and does all the planting and early cultivating. Later, the patron must tend the garden himself when plants are too large to be cultivated by tractor.

Each plot is 1,000 square feet, providing thirty rows of vegetables. One woman got 370 quarts of canned vegetables out of her plot last year.

She is the wife of an employee of another bank. The bank in the gardening movement doesn't restrict plot rentals to its customers.

And so the gardens grow around the nation. Got yours started yet?

A Child's Garden

bacterial growth is regulated by an adequate supply of air, moisture, and sufficient heat production.

The best suggestion for keeping the pile contained is to utilize bricks and boards as illustrated.

Don't worry about the neighbors because the pile can be kept free of flies and odors by spreading a thin layer of soil over any quick-rotting material.

Build and nourished correctly, the pile should start to heat in two to three days and if in a warm climate, it should be ready for use in three to four weeks. To increase the volume more quickly, you can add peat moss as the pile is being built.

Start now and give back to nature what it has given for your use.

Maintenance, fertilization key words in lawn care

In the heat and drought of the Illinois summer it is common for lawns, such as Kentucky bluegrass, to fade and become infested with a variety of lawn weeds. There is nothing more unsightly than a broad expanse of crabgrass in the July or August landscape. There are a number of cultural practices which may help to control the common lawn weeds or prevent them from becoming established in the turf.

Most weeds have a hard time competing with a thick, healthy stand of bluegrass. This may be maintained by a good program of maintenance and fertilization. Maintenance is perhaps the most frequently neglected aspect of lawn care. Established stands of grass should have the thatch removed each fall. Thatch is the accumulation of dead leaves and clippings on the ground around the base of the grass plants. This cuts down aeration of the soil, competes with the grass for available nitrogen as it decomposes, and can harbor diseases which will thin the stand of grasses, giving weeds a chance to become established. The de-thatching operation is best done in fall since the grass is given a chance to recover in the cool, moist fall growing season.

Mowing practices can also affect the vigor and dependability of a stand of grass. Mowing grass while it is wet can spread diseases. Grass that is mowed too short loses vigor and dries rapidly. It must be remembered that mowing is a pruning operation and that too much of the leaves cannot be removed without seriously injuring the plant. It is a good rule of thumb never to remove more than one-third of the grass plant during any one mowing. Mowing bluegrass below two inches is not recommended especially in the hot part of the summer.

Finally, the grass should be watered when soil moisture is low. The grass should be watered deeply so that the water soaks in at least three to six inches. In typical local soils it takes one inch of water to soak three inches into the soil. Frequent light waterings encourage germination of weed seeds as does a waterlogged condition which may develop if the grass is overwatered. Don't water in the late evening since the grass will then remain wet overnight, allowing diseases to become established, both in the grass and in nearby shrubs and trees.

A proper fertilization program is also essential to good lawn maintenance.

Bedding plants and flats bring color to garden spots

Whether you are an apartment dweller or have a garden plot, growing hybrid vegetables and flowers will put money in your pocket and be fun for the entire family.

You will find it easiest to put in plants having a well established root system. This way you will have "instant color" in your garden and can expect a vegetable harvest well ahead of those that planted seeds. You will see them advertised as bedding plants or garden flats.

For example, says Richard Breeden, owner of Wauconda Orchards on Gossell Road, "we have selected only the hybrid varieties of both vegetables and flowers that have been judged from the 1973 crop as being the most hardy, colorful and productive."

"It's amazing," says Breeden, "the production that one can get from one tomato plant grown in a pot. By planting an early maturing variety like "Early Girl" and another hybrid like "Jet Star" one can have tomatoes from mid August to frost." You can have an "instant color" garden with continuous color month after month from one planting weekend. Actually, the more flowers you cut to enjoy indoors, the harder your flower plants will work to produce new waves of color — it's just one of nature's laws.

If you're a first time gardener, choose from the many varieties of petunias, marigolds, zinnias, seeding geraniums, phlox and impatiens. Choose bright colors for sunny spots. Even the brightest sun exposure won't fade them.

Plant pale pastel flowers on the east side of your house where the super brilliance of noonday won't get to them.

In an hour you can plant five dozen vegetables or color bright flowers — even if you never planted a plant in your life.

TREES HAVE A MORE extensive root system than other plants. The roots fill the soil out at least as far as the branch tips and down to a considerable depth. Tree feeding by the perforation method by use of an electric drill puts needed food nutrients directly in the root area where they can be utilized by the tree.

Experiments show trees can save heating energy

A recent test conducted with two identical experimental houses in South Dakota revealed a way that fuel consumption in one of the two houses was reduced by 40 per cent. Here's how it happened.

The two side-by-side houses were exactly the same in all details except one. One house was sheltered on three sides (east, west and north) with a windbreak of trees. That house was exposed to a wind velocity that measured 71 per cent less than the other, with fuel consumption 40 per cent lower during the winter of the test.

In another similar experiment a house with trees planted on only one side, the north, used 23 per cent less fuel than its unprotected neighbor.

In the face of current fuel shortages and rising prices, the American Association of Nurserymen is giving special attention to energy-saving facts such as this. "Nature has gifts which have been available to us since the beginning of time," they say, "that can cooperate with us in our conservation of energy resources. It is simply a matter of knowing about them and using them properly."

The kind of homes we have been building over the last several decades, the nursery people say, are really very wasteful users of heating energy. So long as oil was cheap and, in the public mind at least, inexhaustible, it was cheaper to install a big furnace and buy the excessive fuel needed than to make the houses really efficient in their energy conservation. The result is that we now have millions of poorly insulated houses. Reconstruction, with the installation of effective insulation, is probably going to be necessary in the face of the diminishing supplies of heating fuel, but equally important can be the establishment of efficient wind barrier plantings.

The South Dakota study is not an isolated example. Much basic research has been conducted in the Plains States by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Kansas State College, as well as other institutions. Spokesmen for the nursery industry recognize that the differences between sheltered and unsheltered residences would be more dramatic in the wind-swept Plains country than elsewhere. The more sheltered Eastern states, for instance, are not subject to such constant winds in winter. But in a comparable Eastern calculation the fuel consumption in the same house before and after an evergreen windbreak was planted showed a saving of 10 per cent in fuel use after the planting. In terms of national fuel consumption, that Eastern experience is much more significant because there are thousands of houses in that area for every one on the Great Plains.

Translated into dollar savings, even minor reductions of fuel consumption are highly significant for the homeowner. Modest investments in the installation of trees arranged to serve as a windbreak can give many decades of increasingly important fuel savings in the years ahead.

The American Association of Nurserymen points out that the location of windbreaks is the key to their effectiveness. Most cold winter winds throughout the nation come from the north or the west, so windbreaks should be located on those sides, with an extension on the eastern side wherever space permits. The south side should be left open to permit the sun to enter.

In many experiments with anemometers it has been shown that the maximum wind reduction occurs at a distance of from four to six times the height of a windbreak, so the plantings should be made at about that distance from the house. In other words, if the fully grown trees will be 15 feet high, they will have their best wind barrier effect if they are placed some 60 to 90 feet from the house.

With that kind of reasoning in mind it is wise to select a rapidly growing species of tree, and preferably, ones which will reach from one to one and one-half times the height of the house at maturity. As an example, a 20 foot house would benefit best from a hedge of tall evergreens located some 80 to 120 feet from the north side of the house. A single row of evergreens is effective, but a double or triple row is even more so.

Any reputable garden center or landscape firm can give specific advice as to the most effective types of windbreak plantings for your own situation.

Root crops are adaptable, tolerant of mismanagement and relish cool soil. They are unequalled for supplying food over a long period of time using nothing more complicated for storage than the soil in which they were grown.

It is simple to grow carrots in a raised bed without a spade or a hoe. Use two by eight inch lumber on edge. Length of the bed is optional, but make it four feet wide for easy tending. Fill it with 1/5 garden loam, 2/5 clean sand, 2/5 compost. For every ten feet, spread five lbs. of bone meal, mix thoroughly and rake to a fine seed bed. Broadcast seed and cover with 1/4 inch of sifted peat moss. Keep the bed moist but not soggy.

If you are not using a raised bed, choose varieties that do well in your soil. Short-to-medium carrots are best for wet soil or heavy soils. Try 'Red Cord Chantenay.' Long, slender carrots are better for light, loose soil. Good types are 'Nantes' and 'Imperator.'

Beets, turnips and rutabagas do their best in early spring or fall plantings. Additional plantings can be made but schedule them so that the crop doesn't mature in hot weather.

Direct seed about 1/2 inch deep in rows 12 to 18 inches apart. Thin early to two inches, postponing some thinning until tops are large enough to use as greens.

A good mild resistant beet variety is 'Detroit Red' or 'Early Wonder.' For turnips that are round and crisp, try 'Purple Top White Globe.' These should be harvested when they are about two inches, before they get fibrous and bitter.

Give a youngster a package of radish seeds and say 'go plant.' You'll have radishes, but to have crisp, mild radishes, the fundamentals of fertilizing and watering must be met. Fertilizer must be worked into the soil before planting because radishes mature so fast there is little time to correct mistakes.

For root crops as well as others, over-planting and underthinning results in poor produce. Competition for root space and moisture keeps them from growing full speed ahead.

Fertilizer not worked into the soil evenly sometimes leaves new plants without nourishment. Fresh manure causes roughness and branching in carrots.

Most frequent disaster among root crops is damage from the cabbage maggot. Good idea is to dust or sprinkle Diazinon over seed rows after you have covered the seed. This kills the maggots as they hatch.

Except for carrots and radishes, root crops have limited usefulness. But a family who turns up its nose at the glory of cooked turnips might well go for them crisp and cold, sliced thin, served with a zippy dip. This goes for rutabagas, salsify and kohlrabi — all good as raw vegetables.

Spray every two weeks to rid garden of nasty aphids

Have your plants lost their vigor. Are leaves curled or distorted? Have you noticed a malformation of buds, flowers and fruits? Then the first thing that should come to mind is that the nasty culprit — the aphid — is at work again.

What does it look like? Sometimes called plant lice, aphids are soft-bodied, rounded or pear-shaped insects, seldom over 1/8-inch long. Some aphids appear woolly or powdery because of a waxy excretion.

Hardly a plant exists that isn't subject to infestation by one or more of the aphid species, each of which may have several generations during the growing season. Aphids, with their tremendous reproductive powers, can increase to fantastic numbers in just a few days. That's why it's important to take quick action as soon as you spot them.

By using a broad-spectrum insecticide you can eliminate them one-two-three, as well as many other insects in your lawn, in your garden and around your patio.

Aphids feed by sucking plant juices. Many aphids transmit virus diseases of flowering plants. They secrete a colorless, sweet substance called "honeydew" that in most species attracts ants. This honeydew also serves as a medium for the growth of a black, sooty mold.

Considering this sap-sucking, capacity for migration and enormous reproductive powers, it's scarcely remarkable that aphids rank as serious plant pests. So try to spray at least every two weeks during the growing season; in this way, you won't be troubled by aphids and many other bugs. And that's something to make everyone about you green with envy!

Cacti are the camels of plant world

A plant native to this side of the globe is the cactus. Superbly adapted, often bizarrely shaped to meet the survival requirements of their water-slinging environment, cacti are the camels of the plant world. Like their four-legged counterparts, cacti store water for use when there is none.

The rugged beauty, the fascinating forms of cacti are reflected in names such as Beavertail, Fish Hook and Barrel. Cacti can be easily grown indoors from seeds and should be planted inside a shallow container filled half with sand and half with leaf mold. They should be kept warm (about 60 to 70 degrees) and moist.

When pea-sized, transplant to small pots of sandy soil and place on a sunny windowsill for years of succulent enjoyment.

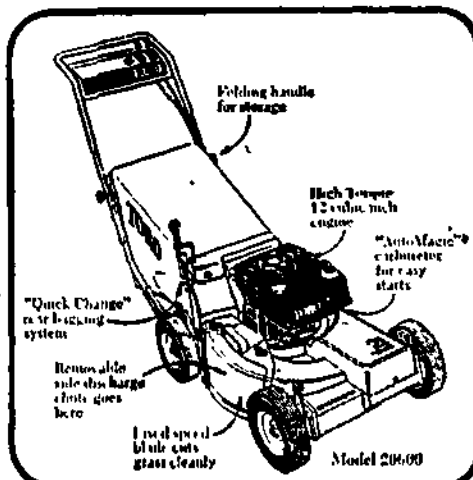

Introducing:

The Toro Grassmaster. A rear bagger that's three mowers in one

The Grassmaster bags or mulches or disperses grass. It has a revolutionary new High-Torque™ engine and an ingenious "Quick-Change" rear bag, head on.

The Grassmaster is a strong blend of engineering innovations. First, it has an exclusive High-Torque engine that delivers more cutting force with less noise.

A "Quick-Change" rear bag catches clippings and holds up to 2 bushels of leaves or clippings. For hard-to-mow spots, self-propelled models of the Grassmaster feature a 4-blade speed-cutting blade. The blade speed and drive speed operate separately. So you can slow the blade speed without slowing the drive speed or mowing power. See the new Toro Grassmaster at your Toro dealer today.

Tough as all outdoors.

All riding mowers look good on the showroom floor. Including ours. But outdoors the real winners show their stuff.

Ours are winners. Automotive-type frame. Rugged fiberglass body. One-pedal convenience. Tight-turning maneuverability. Safety approved mower. The list goes on and on. And because they're built to take it, they keep going on, too, long after the grass stops growing. To remove snow. To feed, weed, seed, and roll. Even grading and landscaping.

Your choice: 5 or 7 hp. Both built to take the worst any year can throw at them. They're that tough.

The Home Gardener

by Sheila and Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists
As autumn paints your landscapes, mums can add those extra splashes of color everywhere around your home. Once planted this spring, mums will reward you year after year.

Among the newest and most vigorous of the many garden mums, is a new masterpiece collection of 12 different varieties. This unusual group of chrysanthemums was introduced in 1974.

Colors include shades of pink, white and red to yellow and bronze, ranging from light to dark tones.

Best time to plant mums is spring to get a strong roothold by fall. You can obtain strongly rooted cuttings in garden packs or pots from garden centers nationwide. In the fall, you save money by purchasing young mum plants not yet in bud.

Young seedlings, with color pictures, give you the best economy. The same dollar investment gives you yards of blooms. Plant seedlings in enriched garden soil in good sunlight. When plants are five inches tall, pinch tips of tallest stems to encourage side growth for bushier display and more blooms.

As new shoots reach three inches, pinch them again; up to July 10 in northern areas, July 20 in central and Aug. 1 in southern states. Because you keep growth compact too by pinching, staking is rarely necessary.

Keep mums watered weekly, says Jack Atkins of Yoker-Atkins, one of the nation's foremost mum authorities. He advised adding several inches of well-rotted compost, peat moss or leaf mold to mum beds as much to improve soil condition, year by year.

Monthly applications of dry 5-10-5 at one to two lbs. per 100 square feet will stimulate strong growth. From mid-September to frost, mums will bloom beautifully long after other flowers have passed their prime.

Anti-abortion forces losing steam?

Catholic U.S. Rep. Lawrence Hogan, R-Md., is a leader in the campaign for an anti-abortion amendment to overturn the Supreme Court decision of Jan. 22, 1973. But, according to the Chancellor and Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Washington, Hogan is currently "living in sin."

Moreover, according to Msgr. John Donoghue, any children resulting from Hogan's remarriage (not by his parish priest, but by the Methodist Chaplain of the House of Representatives) will be "illegitimate."

Hogan disagrees — and told this column: "Legitimacy is determined by the civil courts, which legally dissolved my previous marriage." He cannot, he admits, receive the sacraments.

BY CONTRAST, the only Catholic member of the Supreme Court, Justice William Brennan, still has not been excommunicated — even though he voted with the majority of the High Court, in the decision which some Catholic leaders have charged has allowed for the "mass murder of babies."

Just eight days after this decision, for example, Hogan, in introducing the first of several anti-abortion amendments, told the House, dramatically:

"If I had been alive in Nazi Germany, I like to think that I would have had the courage to stand up and protest the inhumane actions of my government."

This familiar attempt to compare abortion advocates to Nazis was shot down across town at Wesley Theological Seminary, however, when the Dean and Pro-

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

fessor of Christian Ethics, the Rev. Philip Wogaman noted: "Adolf Hitler, while sponsoring outright genocide for Jews, was strongly opposed to abortion for Germans."

ELSEWHERE IN Washington, the "genocide" argument of Hogan (as well as such "House Protestants" as the Rev. Messrs. Jesse Jackson and Charles Carroll) has been further obliterated by famed black columnist Carl Rowan, in referring to what he termed "the anti-abortion fanatics": "That so many black women are turning to abortion is especially remarkable when you remember that they have been bombarded with superstitious talk about how abortion is genocide. These women know that, as long as someone else does not force an abortion on them, it is not genocide."

Over on Maryland Avenue the recently organized and rapidly growing Religious Coalition For Abortion Rights announced two new sponsors: prominent Catholic theologians Rosemary Reuther of Howard University and Mary Daly of Boston College.

Down on Massachusetts Avenue the Catholic Bishops' leading anti-abortion campaign coordinator, affable Monsignor James McHugh, has been trying assiduously to settle a roundhouse brawl between the rival groups. (1) The National Right To Life Committee and (2) The National Committee For A Human Life Amendment. For Methodist Marjorie Mecklenberg and Baptist Judy Fink of the first of these two organizations, charge that the Bishops' organization of the second group is proof that "Catholics are trying to control the pro-life movement."

There was a similar reaction when four Catholic Cardinals appeared at a Congressional hearing and managed to attract most of the attention and most of the news coverage. Moreover, their attempts to compare abortion with infanticide was described as "deplorable" by U.S. Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., who asked: "Where is that reverence for the woman-whose life or health is threatened by pregnancy?"

FROM THE hinterlands, the news was little better for the anti-abortion crusade. Notre Dame's President, the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, has denounced what he termed "mindless and crude" pro-life advocates, who protested his allowing a discussion of abortion on the Notre Dame campus. Michigan's Aquinas College proceeded to give a degree to pro-abortion U.S. Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., despite the resignation of the local Catholic bishop from the board of trustees.

And in Pennsylvania, the voters in the Democratic primary — in which there is one of the highest Catholic percentages in the nation — decisively rejected the attempt of Philadelphia's ultraconservative Catholic legislator, Martin Mullen, to unseat Gov. Milton Shapp, mainly on the abortion issue. Mullen, who has also fought to keep adultery and fornication on the books as criminal acts, has said: "I am carrying the banner of God and I represent the people."

ADULTS "JUNKY"

The archaic program is given a unique treatment in this most powerful of all the life of a people who go about their "normal" existence in the midst of an accumulation of waste material. It is a comedy in that it deals with the land's refuse to society, but it is also a tragedy since both characters seem to have resigned themselves to the terrible condition in which they live.

Anyone who sees this film - children, young and older - will get a new perspective on the possible future effects of modern man's waste. As well as an urgent message of the one responsibility of working to meet the major threat of today's "waste" war.

'Dignity' key to agency's relief efforts

The prestigious Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, in a report earlier this year on bureaucratic bungling of national and international governmental agencies in responding to the west African drought, suggested that private, voluntary agencies might play a more positive role than in disaster relief.

More recently, Robert S. McNamara, World Bank president — stressing that he was speaking as "a Presbyterian elder" — urged increased involvement by the church in development matters.

John L. Peters, a Methodist clergyman and president of World Neighbors, is not unduly optimistic about either the government or the church in terms of its involvement in development.

WORLD NEIGHBORS, however, is a model that both church and government might look at in considering what is called variously foreign aid or Third World development.

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

Peters formed World Neighbors in 1952 after preaching a sermon in which he asked, "How do you get together with people so that it makes a significant difference in their lives — to go as a brother's brother and not as a brother's keeper?"

"And to my amazement," he added, "the phones began to ring and people were saying, 'Let's go!'"

World Neighbors is not a relief agency — a function that many church groups perform superlatively — but a development effort. It might be compared to the difference between putting a band-aid on a wound, relief and treatment for the cause of a disease.

FOR PETERS, the key element in World Neighbors' development effort is dignity.

"The main thrust is to help people keep their dignity. I would say that dignity is a key ingredient of love. Without dignity, there is no real love."

World Neighbors, with a budget of $1.8 million — tiny by most development standards — is active in 21 countries with about 120 different projects. Its main areas of concern are agriculture and food production, family planning, health, literacy and small industries.

"Our question has always been," he said "How are you going to get at the people on the bottom?"

THE ORGANIZATION'S answer was that rather than dealing with governments, "It is necessary to find a grass roots infrastructure that has integrity, a serious concern for others."

And for World Neighbors, the most logical — and most developed — local infrastructure appeared to be the churches. In Zaire that has meant working with an indigenous national church, in Indonesia with the local Muslim community and in India with the Gandhi Memorial Assn.

World Neighbors operates through a process of grants to local national groups which are used for development projects on a revolving loan basis locally administered in each project country.

It has turned down government funds because it doesn't want to get involved in the bureaucracy of either the U.S. government or the project country government. "Then you can't say we're just people like you who are concerned," Peters said.

AT THE SAME TIME, Peters sees a "vast, gigantic reservoir in the church community in this country" that could aid in development projects built on the dignity of the recipient people.

"The churches are an appropriate instrument for development," he said, "If they can get aside any concern for their own self-aggrandizement."

After all, he added, what's good news to the poor except that they're not going to be poor next year.

Goalby, Beard, McCord come in with 70s

Only three golfers break par in Western

by PAUL LOGAN

OAKBROOK — The leader boards were almost totally draped in black lettering yesterday — a symbol of golf professionals in mourning.

Killing off the big and not-so-big names in the opening round of the Western Open Golf Tournament was Butler National Golf Club — a babyfaced murderer. This brand new layout allowed just 11 players to equal or better its 7022 yards that plays to a demanding par 71. Only three broke par.

Two hungry old pros — Bob Goalby and Frank Beard — and a starving rookie — Gary McCord — were the only ones to place "under par" red markings on the predominantly blackened board — sparkling one-under-par 70s.

Goalby, who won the Pro-Am on Wednesday with the same score, appeared to be the only "master" of Butler until Beard and McCord, two of the last to finish, matched him.

Logjammed one swing behind these veterans were eight competitors at even par. Among them were U.S. Open Champion Hale Irwin, Tim Weiskopf and Larry Wadkins.

At two strokes behind the leaders were two fairly unknowns — George Johnson and Tom Watson.

Among the notables in at 73 were Gay Brewer, Doug Ford and Gene Littler.

Charles Sifford. Right behind in the masses at 75 were Larry Hlason, Miller Barber, J. C. Snead, Grier Jones and Lee Elder.

Other notables who managed to escape 80 were George Archer, Tommy Aaron, Bruce Crampton at 78; Jim Colbert, last week's winner of the American Golf Classic at 77; Billy Casper, defending Western champion, and Dave Stockton at 78; and Homero Blancas and Bob Lunn at 79.

A whole host of players failed to break 80. And of those who did, the course frustrated several top players so much that they withdrew. Quitting were Ben Crenshaw, Dow Finsterwald, Steve Melnyk and John Schroeder.

Two local club pros who didn't stomp off the course despite skying to the mid-80s were Emil Esposito of Mount Prospect and Billy Ventresca of Arlington Heights. Esposito, who heads up Dominion, finished with an 85, one stroke better than Ventresca, who's the head man at Rolling Green Country Club.

Goalby, a 42-year-old veteran of 17 tour seasons, hasn't won a tournament in three years since his Bahamas title, birdied the second and bogeyed the fifth to turn to the backside at even par. Birdies on 10 and 15 placed him two under, but a costly bogey on the 17th ruined his chances for leading the tourney by himself.

"I played real solid golf today," said Goalby, a native of Belleville where he still makes his home. "When you shoot 70, you feel like you've accomplished something here."

"I don't think you can shoot four good rounds here," this former winner of the Masters continued. "There are just too many spots to make a mistake. I think there's no question — over par will win the golf tournament."

Beard, who last won in 1971 at the Greater New Orleans Open, was thankful for his 70.

"I didn't play very well," he said of his effort, which saw him carve a stunning 33 on the front nine. "I was fortunate to get out of it what I did."

Beard, a 12-year-vet, spoiled his shot at being the sole leader by going two over on the backside, bogeying both the 14th and 18th holes.

McCord, a former NCAA champion who is a recent graduate of the PGA qualifying school, is much hungrier than the other co-leaders for he has never won pro title. His best finish was seventh in the Colonial. However, this 25-year-old from San Gabriel, Calif., has earned more money than Palmer — $21,680 to $21,257.

Playing the back nine first, McCord fashioned a fine one-under par 94 with birdies on the 18th, 16th and 17th to offset bogeys at the 11th and 12th.

On the front nine, the youngster birdied the sixth and seventh holes while bogeying the fourth and ninth. The latter mistake — he shot his approach into the grandstand — cost him a 69.

"I played it — I think — about as good as I can play," said McCord. "I was guessing some, even though my caddy had yardage."

After setting an all-time mark in attendance at Wednesday's Pro-Am, yesterday's opening round total of 15,200 smashed another Western Open fandom mark.

Large crowds are expected today and on the weekend as thousands of fans will watch the pros work hard for the $200,000 in prize money.

Ranking teams, players, states

There's a fellow down in Knoxville, Tenn., I'd like to meet some day.

His name is Ken Mink, and he is a sports writer.

I like basketball, particularly the high school and college variety, but Mink has a passion for the sport that is mind-boggling.

He likes the roundball game so much, in fact, that he has undertaken the rather brash task each year of rating the top 100 high school basketball teams and players in the country, and then taking a survey to discover what lucky colleges have recruited these preps.

It staggers the imagination that anyone could rank, or even begin to rank, the top 100 high school basketball teams and players in the country. I'd have trouble ranking the top teams in our circulation area, and 12 play in the same league.

As far as picking the top players, I know what it's like at one of our all-area meetings. This guy in Tennessee has to be one of the most courageous chaps in the business.

How does he qualify as an expert? I honestly don't know, but he gets his rankings published every year and that in itself means something. Somebody must believe he knows what he's talking about, and he does survey college coaches, scouts and other sportswriters.

Just how good was Hershey's Dave Corzine in 1973-74?

Mink rates the 6-foot-11 Corzine as the 88th best high school player in the country. Corzine is headed for DePaul.

What about Bloom's Audie Matthews, generally considered the finest all-around high school player in Illinois?

Matthews, who's headed to the University of Illinois, is rated 12th in the land. Jim Wisman of Quincy, who will attend Indiana, ranked 21st.

Other Illinois preps in the top 100 include Billy Lewis of Chicago Farragut (headed for Illinois State), 37th, James Jackson of Chicago Crane (unsigned), 45th, Joe Ponsetto of Proviso East (DePaul) 77th, Corzine 88th, and Marc Fletcher of Collinsville (Kansas) 98th.

Like everybody else, Mink ranked 6-11 Moses Malone of Petersburg, Va., as the top prep player in the country, and Malone recently signed with Maryland.

According to Mink, Kentucky has done the finest overall recruiting job in the country, landing four of the top 100, followed by Maryland, Southern California, Georgia, Auburn, UCLA, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Minnesota and Clemson.

"The surprising factor of this year's mad recruiting scramble," says Mink, "was the emergence of the Southeastern Conference as a national factor. The SEC signed 15 of the Top 100, leading all leagues. The Atlantic Coast Conference continued to get its share, landing 12."

"College coaches agree that signing one player each year from the Top 100 would be considered average recruiting progress, but most indicated schools must get two or more such blue-chippers each year to consistently keep a team in the top 20 nationally."

It was interesting that Mink's ratings listed Illinois Class AA champion Proviso East 27th and Illinois Class AA runner-up Chicago Heights Bloom 21st. I can't say I disagree. Bloom didn't win the state title but had the tougher road physically, had superstar Matthews playing with illness, and certainly looked stronger over-all than Proviso East.

Other Illinois teams on the select list are Chicago Farragut (75), Chicago Crane (78), and Chicago Niles Francis (80). You might get some argument over those choices.

The most potent high school team in the country for 1973-74, according to Mink, was Wilbur Cross of New Haven, Conn., with Jackson of Miami, Fla., second and Central of Louisville, Ky., third.

Wilbur Cross was 24-0 last season and 71-1 for three years. Two Cross players were among the nation's Top 100.

Miami Jackson ended up 33-0 last winter with an average winning margin of 30 points. Coaches called the Miami team the best high school squad ever put together south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Argument over which basketball team was the best in the land grew so hot at one point that a Miami businessman agreed to put up several thousand dollars to finance the expenses of such a contest as a postseason game. But state athletic association red tape prevented a meeting between the Connecticut and Florida powerhouses.

WHEN TRACK AND FIELD enthusiasts get together, they like to compare states. Is California really that much better than Illinois? How does our state stack up with others in the Midwest?

It's easy to make comparisons in track and field because you have marks to work with, unlike the Top 100 in basketball, for example, where you're ranking strictly on opinion.

Based on the winning marks from state high school track and field meets in 14 states, Illinois ranks No. 1 in the Midwest. The list, compiled by the Des Moines Register and St. Louis Post-Dispatch, shows Illinois with a slight edge over Ohio.

Winning marks in 14 events from the 13 Midwestern states were scored through six places on a 10-8-6-4-3-1 basis. Three Illinois events — 440-yard relay, 330-yard low hurdles, and triple jump — were excluded because they are not contested throughout the Midwest.

Illinois scored 87 points to 77 for Ohio. Kansas had 58, Colorado 51½, Michigan 41½, Indiana 39 5/8, Oklahoma 34, Iowa 18, Nebraska 15 5/8, Wisconsin 13 and Missouri 8 1/3. South Dakota and Wyoming failed to score.

Rolling Meadows' John Sloan, who is headed for Illinois, "led" for third in the shot put with his state winning effort of 60 feet four inches. The Ohio champion reached 61-6 and the Kansas winner had 60-8½. Sloan, who had a 61-8 this spring, tied with the Iowa champ in the comparison of state winners.

Ironically, the only event in which Illinois didn't "score" when state meet marks were compared was the pole vault. Bloom's Tim Johnson sailed 16-7 indoors and 16-5 outdoors but only managed 14-9 at the state meet in Charleston.

Predictably, the winning marks in California's state meet were far better than in Illinois. In a comparison of 14 events, California, the foremost state in high school track, holds a whopping 13-1 edge.

California obviously has the advantages in weather and a much longer outdoor season, permitting an advantage in training. Illinois athletes are often unable to approach their potential because the outdoor season is so short and the weather so erratic.

THANKS FROM THE LESTERS

Dear Bob Frisk:

We want you to know we are extremely appreciative of your excellent story (Bob Frisk column, June 7) about our retirement plans and past history.

The article was a great tribute and we are very thankful for your expertise in putting it together.

Again, our thanks to you for a great job!

MRS. SPREHE SAYS THANKS

Dear Keith Reinhard:

I wish to thank you for your efforts in setting everything together for the Hal Sprehe Memorial game. The girls and I appreciate it very much. It means so much to us to have our husband and father remembered for the fine person he was.

Am certain you were discouraged about the game at times — especially with the weather. But I'm certain the idea will grow. The comments I heard around me were favorable. Thanks again for the articles and getting together the game.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Hal Sprehe

WATCH THOSE GIRLS
Mr. Bob Frisk:

On behalf of the high school girls and the coaches of the Mid-Suburban Conference, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for the coverage of our athletic program in the Herald this past year. Your continued interest in and support of our program is greatly appreciated. Our program has grown this past year and shall continue to grow in the future. We shall look forward to your continued coverage of the girls program in the MSC next year.

Just a note to thank you for the nice write-up you did on our farm. I have been in Minnesota showing and did not see it until coming home. We all enjoyed it and hope your readers did also. The photography was pretty with the lighting giving the scenes an ethereal look. Do come and visit us again anytime and again, our sincere thanks for such a nice story.

LE BASEBALL FACTS

Dear Fans Forum:

I saw the Monday night game of the week in Montreal and finally decided to ask somebody what all those French terms mean in English. What the heck is a lanceur?

J. Droil

Palatine

Ed. Note: We consulted our French expert on the staff and here's the lowdown — pitcher/lanceur; catcher/receveur; outfielder/voltigueur; infielder/interieur; arreter-court/shortstop; premier-but/first baseman; and frappeur d'urgence/planch hitter.

CAN BEARS' CATCH FIRE?

Fans Forum:

All anybody talks about these days is the Chicago Fire. Everywhere I go, people ask if I want to get season tickets to see the Fire, if I think they'll have a good team, if they will win the title. The Fire hasn't even played a game and already the team is a Chicago institution. And everybody knows the Bears. Some people are saying that the Bears are the worst team in pro football history and they may even leave town. I think the Bears will have a good season in 1974 and the Fire will fold before September.

Fans Forum:

Who is the only major leaguer to get five extra base hits in one game on national TV? My friend says Billy Williams.

Jim Brock

Hoffman Estates

ED. NOTE: Of the three modern players with five extra base hits in a single game, only Willie Stargell had the good fortune of doing it in front of the NBC cameras when he blasted three doubles and two homers at Atlanta in 1970. Lou Boudreau (four doubles and a homer) and Joe Adcock (four homers and a double) also turned the trick. Williams once had two homers and two doubles in Wrigley Field.

Arlington, Mount Prospect triumph in legion action

by MIKE KLEIN

Three runs in the third inning, produced by the aid of just one hit, was all pitcher Paul Kastner needed as Arlington Heights lodged a 4-1 legion baseball victory over Park Ridge on Wednesday. Arlington's other run crossed in the seventh.

Joe Riplinger's single followed three walks and an infield error as Arlington took command in the third. Kastner, Jerry DeSimone and Brett Frase received the walks and scored the runs.

Arlington's fourth run scored on Tom Good's RBI single in the seventh. Bruce Hanson singled and stole second before Good's base hit.

Leadoff singles by Riplinger and Good started the fifth inning but Arlington couldn't rally.

Park Ridge got nothing off Kastner until the home seventh when singles by Dan Myska, Dan Lowy and Tony Reibel produced a run. In only one other inning, the second, did Park Ridge get more than one hit off Kastner. All of the losers' eight hits were singles.

Kastner struck out nine.

Rick Haaning 4, Logan Square 3.
The rangy southpaw proved to be almost all Mount Prospect needed Wednesday evening as he pitched and batted his team past the still winless Lions at Hal Sprue Field.

Aiding Haaning, though, was some shoddy defense by Logan Square. Two errors, a season-long Lion nemesis, contributed to three sixth inning Prospect runs that erased a 2-1 Logan Square lead.

Jim Anderson and Mike Qunde started the comeback with walks off starting and losing pitcher Brian Nelson. One out later, Haaning, who drove in the hosts' previous run with a solo home run in the second, drilled a single to right. The ball got by Jim Dumke rolling all the way to the fence, allowing Anderson and Qunde to score easily. When relay man John Caruso overthrew third trying to nip Haaning, the Lions' fourth straight district loss was sealed.

Some shaky fielding by his own teammates gave Haaning a scare in the Lions' final turn. After one out, Caruso reached on a fielder's choice, Dave Milchowicz singled and Jim Buearo's infield safety, his third hit of the game, loaded the sacks. A strike out later, Steve Bobowski rapped a grounder to shortstop Qunde, but his force throw to second was juggled by Greg Pfaff for an error, drawing the visitors to within one. Haaning, however, bore down to whiff Kevin Kelley for the final out.

Run-scoring doubles by Pat Rooney and Caruso in the first and second innings, respectively, had Haaning on the ropes in the early going, but the veteran survived a non-scoring Lion threat in the sixth and his one-run yield in the seventh to post Prospect's fourth district win in seven outings.

Haaning surrendered seven hits while fanning four and walking just one. Nelson deserved a better fate, as he gave up only four hits, striking out seven and passing four.

Wheeling hands Meadows first setback, 6-5

Wheeling scored five runs in the seventh inning to post a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over previously unbeaten Rolling Meadows on the Wildcats' home field Wednesday in Summer League baseball.

The Mustangs cruised into the final frame on top of a 5-1 count with Dick Block's double, a single by Tom Bough, an error and John Carbery's pinch two-run homer accounting for Meadows' bulge.

Until the big Wheeling seventh, Ray Petersen has held the hosts at bay, but four straight walks, a bases-clearing triple by Doug Peterson and a wild pitch broke the Mustang starter's spell and gave John Miller the victory.

Buffalo Grove scored single runs in the sixth and seventh innings to edge Fremd, 4-1. The Bison broke a 4-4 tie with a run off losing hurler Tim Van Meter in the sixth and they added an insurance marker in the seventh.

Dave Southern held the Viking bats in check during a two-inning relief stint over the final frames.

After four straight defeats, Prospect broke into the win column with a 6-5 triumph over Hersey. The Knights spotted the Huskies leads of 2-0 and 5-2 before rallying for a three-run fifth inning and the clincher in the sixth.

Prospect's Kirk Lebeck paced the winners with two hits including a booming home run and two runs batted in. Lebeck's single proved to be the winning run in the sixth.

Tim Davies went all the way on the mound for Prospect, yielding nine hits, but walking only one while fanning eight.

Tom Knauber, Mike Belton and Dave Carey each notched two hits for Hersey.

Schaumburg relied exclusively on the bats of Terry Zarbock and Kevin Michaelson to post a 7-3 summer league victory over visiting Hoffman Estates.

Starting pitcher Gary Merchant had the support of five hits, all of them off the bats of Zarbock and Michaelson.

Michaelson scored four times, reaching on two hits and a pair of walks. Zarbock was 3-for-4, with one double, and drove in five runs.

The win pushed Schaumburg's season record to 5-1.

Arlington made good use of 12 walks with their six hits in registering a 7-2 triumph over the visiting Palatine Pirates.

Mike Mayerick's triple with the bases loaded proved to be the pirate back-breaker after a walk had forced in an earlier run for the Cardinals.

RBI singles by Jim Vogts and John Vu-kovich in the Arlington sixth offset Jeff Williams' run-producing triple in the Palatine first and a Dan McSweeney single that drove home another in the fifth.

John Mertins got the decision over Doug Weaver.

Fenton, behind a 3-3 performance by Vassar and the five-hit pitching of Sell, shut out visiting Elk Grove 3-0.

The Bisons scored their first run in the fourth when Vassar singled, advanced on a fielder's choice and scored on Zowkos' hit.

Vassar was at it again in the sixth as he tripled in Barzoo who had doubled. Vassar then scored on Garry's infield out.

Vassar also had a two-bagger in the contest which saw Sell surrender just five hits, while fanning nine and walking but two. Grenadier Jeff Raver took the loss.

Easy trip to Western

More so than in the past, the trip is a short one to the Western Open this year. And all future opens as well.

Starting this week, the Western will always be held at Butler National Golf Club — only a half an hour away from the Herald area.

The quickest route from the Northwest Suburbs is down the Tri-State Tollway (I-294). Take it south, exiting at Cermak Road, (22nd Street). Head west to York Road and turn left (south) on York. Public parking ($2 per car) is located just south of the club on York Road.

Wednesday through Friday ticket prices are $7 with Saturday and Sunday admission being $8. Children under the age of 14 are admitted for half price.

Park district swimming facts

The Buffalo Grove Park District Swim Team defeated the Wheeling Park District Swim Team 235 to 207, thus opening the five meet summer league with its first win since last summer.

The Buffalo Grove Park District Swim Team lost all of its indoor meets by less than 10 points each, the last against Shabbona Park by one point. Triple winners in the 100/200 meet were: Bill Mann 3 & Under — 50 free, 25 back, 25 fly; Sue Collingwood 15 & Over — 100 IM, 50 fly, 100 back.

Double winners: Rick Tusk — 15 & Over — 200 free, 100 free; Janice Reeder 15 & Over — 100 free, 100 breast; Billy Fertler — 9 & 10 — 50 free, 100 IM; Kelly Mahoney — 11 & 12 — 100 free, 50 back; Jim Brett — 11 & 12 — 100 free, 50 back; John Uilbarri — 11 & 12 — 100 IM, 50 breast.

Single winners: Andy Iwanicki — 13 & 14 — 100 free; Tracy Ballie — 8 & Under — 25 breast; Mike Foley — 13 & Over — 100 fly; Steve Mecher — 15 & Over — 100 back; Dan Woodruff — 15 & Over 200 IM; Mike Yankov — 13 & 14 — 50 fly; Dan Spaulding — 15 & Over — 100 breast.

All of Buffalo Grove Park District residents are invited to see their first home meet. The meet will be held at 6:00 p.m. at Willow Stream Pool against Waukegan Park District. There are still openings on our summer league team and any interested swimmer wishing information on the 3 summer league (you don't have to live in Buffalo Grove to be on the team) should see any of the coaches: Cliff Howarth and Patty Yasky at the Aquadome or Vician J. Waddell at the Willow Stream Pool any day, or call Coach Waddell at the Willow Stream Pool at 341-6717.

July Fourth tourney set

The second annual July 4th, 16-inch softball tourney is set to begin at Kelly Park in Chicago and there are still some openings for competing teams. Teams interested in taking part in the round robin tournament should contact the park at 927-1664. A fee of $60 per team is required on a first-come-first-served basis. Trophies and jackets will be awarded to both semi-final winners. Round one will begin at 10 a.m. on July 4th with the quarterfinals at 1 p.m., the semis at 3 p.m. and the finals at 5 p.m.

top spot in Tuesday golf Anderson-Biermann holds "Position Night" for the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League Tuesday Division came and went this week, but with two ties and two one-half point victories and no significant change in standings, it all added up to a big nothing.

League-leading Anderson-Biermann Hardware, recovering somewhat from last week's upset, retained their first place advantage of 4½ points as they battled to a 5-5 tie with their last week's nemesis, Meeske's Supermarket.

Mount Prospect State Bank and Licht's Paint Store switched places again, with the Bank moving into third place after losing out Licht's 5½ to 4½.

Illinois Range downed Louie's Barber Shop 6½ to 3½ in a somewhat more decisive match, but it wasn't enough to cause a change in the standings.

Annen & Busse Realtors edged Keefer's Pharmacy 5½ to 4½, while Geo. L.

Busse & Co. and Arch-Anon, Inc. tied five-all for little significant change.

Biggest victory of the season was J & B Meat Market's 7½ to 2½ win over Kirchhoff Insurance, which enabled the embattled Butchers the sweet pleasure of once again moving out of the cellar.

With the "A" position players having the night off, low low scores were recorded. Pete Muffie of the Illinois Range team, with a 40 gross 31 net, captured both low gross and low net honors for the session.

However, in a practice round, "A" player Jim Werdell of Arch-Anon, Inc., parlayed a hole-in-one on the 7th hole with birdies on the 1st and 9th to come in with a 1-over par 36. Werdell used a 6 iron to ace the 155 yard 7th.

Minutes later, Louie's Lauing, playing with husband Ed, who also needed the practice, aced the same 155 yard 7th hole, using a 3 wood with strong backspin action.

Birdies were reported by H. Larson on 5; H. Helm 7; Pete Muffie 9; J. Price 11; D. Elliott 12; and B. Powell 15.

Team standings June 25:

Anderson-Biermann Hardware	47½
Meeske's Supermarket	43
Mt. Prospect State Bank	37½
Licht's Paint Store	37½
Illinois Range	36½
Louie's Barber Shop	33½
Annen & Busse Realtors	33½
Keefer's Pharmacy	31½
Geo. L. Busse	31½
J & B Meat Market	31
Arch-Anon, Inc.	30½
Kirchhoff Insurance	27

Jockey Mary Bacon loves her work.

OCEANPORT, N.J. — Mary Bacon had a couple of hours yet before she'd have to leave for work.

For her, work was the ninth race at nearby Monmouth Park.

That's when she'd ride her next mount, Belle Russo, a four-year-old chestnut colt by Northern Dancer.

Right now, Mary Bacon was far more interested in a delightfully mischievous little five-year-old.

"Sure, what in the w-o-o-r-l-d do you think you're doing?" she called out, plainly exasperated. "Look what you've done! Now you've gone and stuffed up the toilet bowl."

Mary Bacon is used to much bigger crises. She didn't let this one throw her. She did what any sensible mother would do. She steered her five-year-old daughter clear of the disaster area, closed the door of the bathroom and that took care of that.

In her six years as a professional jockey woman weren't legally permitted to ride at tracks until 1969, Mary Bacon has heard herself called "Queen of the Turf," and "the toughest broad you'll ever see on a horse," but Wednesday afternoon in the place she occupies with her daughter here she didn't fit any of these descriptions.

She looked instead much more like a remarkably attractive young mother. Harassed a little maybe, but striking none the less.

"You ask me what I want to do with my life, what's my ambition?" she said. "My ambition is to raise a good daughter. That means more to me than winning a Kentucky Derby. I'd like to win the Derby, but Suzy comes first. I ride because of her. She doesn't live on air. She goes to a private school, needs clothes, needs a lotta things. That's why

Milton Richman

I ride horses. I enjoy that, but I also make a living at it."

For five years, blonde, 28-year-old Mary Bacon was married to Johnny Bacon, another jockey, and although they were divorced two years ago, they're still close.

"We call each other all the time," she said. "Johnny called me the night before last. We were in the same world and on the same train of thought when we were married. You got a lotta husbands and wives who are in two different worlds. All she can talk about to him is what happened at the beauty parlor and at the PTA meeting, and all he can talk about is what happened at the business luncheon or in the office. I think Johnny and I had a good marriage. The big reason for the divorce was this racing rule which says a husband and wife are one and the same. They can't testify against each other or claim a foul against each other."

Did that really cause the divorce?

"Well, I didn't really have any choice," said Mary Bacon. "My career is important to me and I'm sure Johnny's is to him. We got the divorce so we could continue riding. Now we're just two jockeys, not husband and wife anymore. It was a case of either being a wife or a jockey. When I lose I get a little discouraged and think I should be a wife, and when I win, I'm glad I'm a jockey."

Mary Bacon loves horses. She has been riding them since she was five and has been hurt badly by them, but that hasn't changed her feelings any.

Three years ago, she was unconscious for six days after a spill at The Meadows in Pittsburgh, and in another one last summer at Aqueduct she suffered a broken back, a crushed pelvis and multiple nerve injuries in her left leg.

"I never think of fear," she said. "Like this afternoon, I ride a horse in the last race, he has a little knee problem to start with and the track will be in terrible shape because it was sloppy mud this morning, but fear never enters my mind."

At first, the male jockeys resented Mary Bacon, Robyn Smith and the relatively few other female riders. They avoided them. Not so much anymore.

"Unfortunately, they accept me as 'one of the boys,'" said Mary Bacon. "I sometimes think they forget I'm a girl. I guess the press has made me a character or something. I curse and Robyn Smith lies. That's typical of what the press says, and the press is wrong. I might be a man when I'm on a horse, but I'm a lady when I'm off one. I'm no different than anybody else. How many men's wives don't swear? I don't swear all that bad."

It was time for her to go to work now. She left for the track where she changed from her shirt, levis and loafers into her riding silks and boots.

Belle Russo, the colt she rode, went off at 20-1, and the crowd knew what it was doing. The horse finished sixth in a field of seven.

Mary Bacon wasn't too happy.

But then she thought of little Suzy back at the apartment, and she brightened again.

She hadn't lost everything, only a race. (United Press International)

Powerful field signs up for Chick Evans Amateur

Strong competition is shaping up for the 19th Chick Evans Amateur Golf Championship to be held Aug. 13-16, Ironquols Course, Indian Lakes Country Club, Bloomington.

Among the early entries are — 1973 defending Champion, Tom Jacobsen, Schaumburg, Ill.; 1971 Champion, Jim Waring, Westmont, Ill.; 1957 Champion, Al Ogrin, Waukegan, Ill.

Others are: 1 Handicap — James Achenbach, Sarasota, Fla.; Leonard Flocca, Palatino, Ill.; 2 Handicap — James Adkins, Wheaton, Ill.; Charles Carpenter, Evanston, Ill.; Michael Laird, Lisle, Ill.; Thomas Newton, Hurst, Ill.; George Zarr, Chicago; 3 Handicap — Dennis Anderson, Chicago; Jeff Collins, Oak Brook; Chuck Kempf, Pompano Beach, Fla.; Francis Mentone, Downers Grove, Ill.; Tom Nilz, Chicago; Joe Platek, Whiting, Ind.; 4 Handicap — Bruce Habjan, Lake Forest, Ill.; David Love, Hoffman Estates; Tom Mirus, Normal, Ill.;

Peter Swanson, Barrington; 5 Handicap — David Lovelace, North Little Rock, Ark.; John Shuro, Bartlett, Ill.; and Del Jones, Schaumburg.

The event is open to amateur golfers with validated handicaps, 0-7, and will consist of 72 holes medal play, cut-off at 54 holes, and 30 and ties for championship.

The Chicago Area Council, Boys Scouts of America, will make future selections of the young men who are to receive the Scout-Scholarship Award. This financial help is made possible through the proceeds from the Chick Evans Amateur Golf Tournaments. Full credit for this annual award goes to those who participate in the tournaments.

A new teen-age tournament will be played at the Mount Prospect Country Club from Aug. 5-9. Entry blanks for both events may be obtained by writing Chick Evans Amateur Golf Assn., P.O. Box 11444 Chicago, 60611.

Slim margin splits dusk leaders

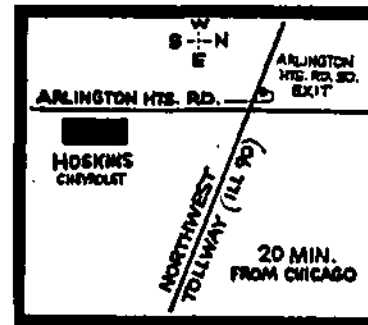

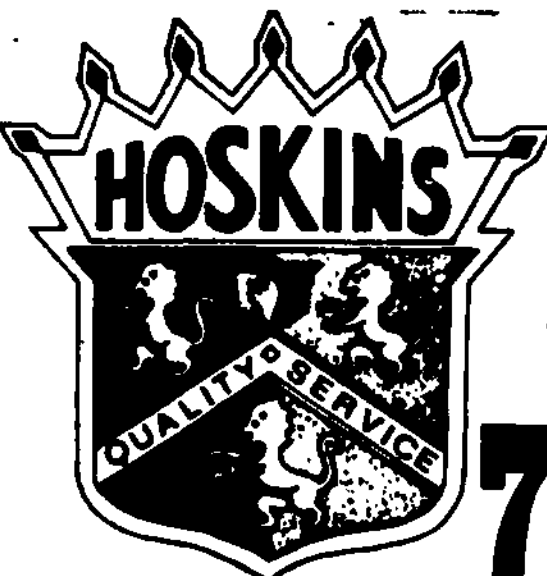

Century Tile & Supply composed of George Wells, Jerry Woodbury, Pat Shearer and Bob Carroll hold a paper-thin 42-41.3 lead over Herb Rose Associates in the Mount Prospect Friday Twilight Golf League.

A 37 by Warren Collier of Des Plaines Volkswagen took low gross honors for the evening.

Michael Menyhart, Russ Tripp and Curley Whistler all had 33s to tie for low net.

Don Campbell carded a birdie on the ninth hole, as did Collier on one and nine, Al Gilson on 12, Tripp on 13 and Yngve Bloomquist on 16.

Road run at York

The 13th annual Elmhurst Jaycees Road Run will be held July 4th at York High School. Runners wishing to enter can register at the high school gym July 4th from 8 to 9 a.m. There will be a junior high two-mile, a freshman two-mile, a varsity three-mile, and a 5.3-mile open. Entry fee for the first three races is 50 cents and $1 for the open. To enter, a runner must have an AAU card, which can be purchased for $1.50 at York High School. Awards will be made to all entries.

Saxons to North Central

Two more standout performers from the Schaumburg High School athletic program have chosen North Central College in Naperville to pursue their athletic careers. The two Saxons, who were graduated in June, are Wayne Morgan and Ed Martin. Morgan lettered in football and basketball and will concentrate in the gridiron game in college. At Schaumburg, Morgan, at 5-foot-6 and 170 pounds, was a running back.

Martin paced Schaumburg's track team to a third place in the Mid-Suburban League meet by taking first places in the long jump, the triple jump, and the high hurdles. His 22-1 1/2 effort in the long jump set a new conference record and his 41-foot triple jump established a standard in that event. Martin also qualified for the state meet in the high hurdles and the long jump.

Oakton athletes feted

Oakton Community College athletes were honored at the third annual spring sports banquet recently. Participants in baseball, track, and tennis were feted. Letter winners were presented to first-year varsity athletes and watches were given to those who earned second-year honors. Special awards in baseball went to co-captains Ken Schroeder and Bill Rank. Jeff Keith received the Most Valuable Player award for his pitching achievements. Track captain Dan Maher and most valuable tennis performer Roger Junge also received special awards. Members of the tennis team were given awards for winning the Skyway Conference tennis title and the Region IV sectional.

Scuba class offered

The Palatine Park District is sponsoring a scuba diving class to begin June 30 and continue for six weeks. The course will be conducted by the Illinois Institute of Diving and will teach skin diving, basic scuba diving skills, confidence with scuba equipment, mechanics, decompression, and safety and lifesaving. The Institute will provide all the equipment. The classes will be held on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Register with the Palatine Park District at 359-0333. For more information or alternate locations, contact the Institute at 627-0722.

Paczkowski chooses ISU

Jon Paczkowski, who starred in tennis at Arlington High School, has signed a letter-of-intent with Illinois State University. Paczkowski was a big winner for coach Tom Pitchford's varsity team the past three years, including his state championship showing in doubles competition with Jim Merkel in 1973. Merkel just completed his freshman year at Northern Illinois University where he won a varsity letter in tennis.

Two local aces

Tom Powers of Schaumburg and Ed Zelnis of Prospect Heights became eligible to win a trip to Scotland and $1,000 in cash when they each scored a hole-in-one at the Golden Acres Country Club. The aces qualified the golfers for the annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Company of Scotland. The winner will be announced early next year.

Softball spots open

The Dugout Park Open Invitational 12-inch softball tournament in Antioch is looking to fill its 16-team field. The event will be a single-elimination affair held July 13-14. The entry fee is $35 per team with trophies going to each of the four top teams plus individual trophies to each member of the championship club. Dugout Park is located one mile north of Antioch on Highway 83. For further information, call Tom Furian at 414-862-9136.

Glueck is honored

Ken Glueck of Palatine has received two awards for outstanding athletic achievement at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill. The senior wrestler, a physical education major, was given the Dan Unruh award for character, scholarship, and athletic ability. Then Glueck received the Jerry Lacc award for excellence in physical education. Glueck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Glueck of Palatine.

Fire in scrimmage

The Chicago Fire will host the Detroit Wheels in a controlled scrimmage game at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Fire's summer training camp at Lake Forest College. The two World Football League entries played a controlled scrimmage last week at Eastern Michigan University and the result was a defensive exhibition. Fire coach Jim Spavital promises to open up the offense this week. An admission charge of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children will be required.

Service Stamping enjoys top team twilight showing

Indian Lakes Country Club is still beatching most of the golfers in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League.

Last Friday's play produced more frustrations and high scores for this group of golfers. Les Widom and Cecil Jamison had low gross with 40's. The handicapping system made a few of the guys feel a little better. Jim Heald had the low net with a 32, Bill Magnuson with a 34, and Norm Cardilli and Tom Stczykowski close behind with 35's.

The best team effort came from Service Stamping winning 35 points, and Nowak Sales winning 33 out of a total potential of 52 points.

Douglas Savings in V.F.W. lead

Douglas Savings & Loan scored a 16-8 victory over Bikes Plus Monday night at the Old Orchard Golf Club Monday night to remain on top in the Arlington V.F.W. Golf League.

Second place Hanlon Decorators played to a 12-12 standoff with Fette Insurance while third place Cake Box held their ground following a 12-12 deadlock with Smith-Pipenhagen Realtors.

Bob Rokos carded the best low net round of the year with a sparkling 43-16-27. Wayne Rolfs and Bob Hanlon each turned in a 30 to share low gross honors. Don DeWye recorded a birdie on the third hole, Jerry Huns on the eighth. "Duke" Koppin on 10, Jim Ambrose on 11 and Jim Sankala on 13.

Eastern invader Stonewalk seeks cakewalk

Secretariat Stakes draws 13 turf hopefuls

The vivid memories of Secretariat — America's 1973 Triple Crown winner and Horse of the Year — will be recreated tomorrow in the first $100,000-added event on the track's stakes menu.

The 41,223 spectators who paid tribute to the magnificent chestnut at the Arlington Invitational almost one year ago were treated to his smashing nine-length triumph, but more importantly, rewarded by his esteemed, personality-conscious presence.

There are still thousands of dollars worth of uncashed "souvenir" mutual tickets outstanding which are now about as cherished as pennies and silver certificates.

The idea of staging a race after such a classic performer is a good one, but initially, the thought of presenting a trophy symbolic of Secretariat's achievements seemed somewhat blasphemous.

But an impressive response of 82 nominations came pouring over the desk of Racing Secretary and Handicapper Ed

Notables missing for the mile and one-sixteenth turf event for three-year-olds were the hoped-for Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont biggies Cannonade, Judger and the leading three-year-old Horse of the Year candidate Little Current.

Despite their absence, John F. Loomer, President of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks Corp. said, "The response of the racing world to our inaugural running of the Secretariat Stakes is indeed encouraging."

"From the response we received from horsemen all around the country, the Secretariat should develop in years to come as one of the nation's outstanding turf events for three-year-olds."

"Our organization is proud to be introducing the Secretariat Stakes, named in honor of the great thoroughbred owned by Mrs. Penny Tweedy."

Mrs. Tweedy, managing director of the Meadows Stud, Va., and one of Secretariat's owners while he was racing, will be

by Jim Cook
TURF EDITOR

guest of honor at Arlington. She'll make the presentation in the winner's circle after the featured race.

Vying to meet her personally are a couple of proven ground gobblers from the east — namely Stonewalk and Splitting Headache.

Stonewalk just finished chasing a winner's check in the $100,000-added Old Derby at Thistledown Race Course two weeks ago.

The victory was Stonewalk's fifth this year and established a solid pattern for his backers. He likes to come off the pace and he's addicted to the mud.

Three of his five wins have come on either heavy or sloppy surfaces and he has yet to be tested on the grass. But Arlington's luxurious turf carpet may be enough padding for the colt who is by Knightly Manner, a sire of six added-money winners. Thirty-year-old Miguel Rivera will be in the irons.

Conversely, Splitting Headache, a The Axe II-Top O' The Morning, by Olympia colt, is a verified grass specialist.

A recent winner of the $25,000-added Kent Stakes at Delaware Park, Splitting Headache also won the E. Palmer Heagerty Stakes at Bowie Race Course during the winter.

But there are also some topflight local eligibles that may give the eastern invaders an argument. Most prominent is Tytus Casella who prepped for the event with a sparkling victory in a mile and one-sixteenth test on the dirt last Saturday in 1:46.1.

Prior to that, the Glen Hill Farm here was first across the wire in the $30,000-added Sheridan Handicap at a mile.

Unfortunately, J.R.'s Pet, the eye-catching victor of the Arkansas Derby, is seeking two or three more races on the dirt before launching his grass campaign. Instead of the Secretariat, J.R.'s Pet will run at Ak-Sar-Ben Saturday in the Omaha Gold Cup.

Nearly the same situation developed for Shady Character who drew tremendous public support in the Belmont. The horse needs a race on the grass and his owner Ogden Mills "Dinty" Phipps isn't taking any chances that rain might force the contest to the main course.

Silver Florin, the recent six-length winner of the Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware Park and the Twin Spires Purse champ on Kentucky Derby Day, has taken a rain check for the Secretariat with the hope of joining the Arlington Park ranks for the $100,000-added American Derby on Aug. 24.

But with 13 candidates parading to the post — six invaders and seven locals — the run for the big six-figure jackpot in honor of America's Super Horse might even have Secretariat excited.

TIMBERLAND STABLE'S Stonewalk, recent winner of the Ohio Derby and early morning line favorite for Saturday's Secretariat Stakes, gets special attention from groom Danny Lopez in preparation for the $100,000-added event slated for one mile and one-sixteenth on the grass.

Teenage golf in Mount Prospect

The Mount Prospect Park District Golf Course will host the first Chick Evans Teenage Tournament Aug. 5-9. The event will be composed of three flights in three different age groups.

Special awards will be given to the six low scorers in each age group with the total proceeds of the event going to The Scout Scholarship Award, Chicago Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The course is 10 holes of a moderate 6100 yards length. A course to provide a fair challenge to the young golfers.

The entry fees are moderate and to receive an entry blank send a letter to the Chick Evans Amateur Golf Association, P.O. Box 11444, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

The next new car you buy doesn't have to rust out.

Ziebart Rustproofing is here.

And our process is so thorough that we can give you a money-back guarantee against rust-through on your new car for 5 years or 60,000 miles.

Our trained technicians use nine patented spray tools to get inside the hidden, boxed-in areas where rust starts. We use a unique sealant that's attracted to metal and actually creeps into the welded seams of your car.

If you're about to buy a new car, imported or domestic, give us a call at our new location.

It's Us. Or Rust.

Bruins roll to McHenry softball title

The Bruins, a local softball team, took some time off from their demanding league play to capture the title in the McHenry softball tournament held over the weekend.

The Bruins are only a game behind the world champion Bobcats in their Kelly Park League with a 3-3 record. Starting the season by splitting their first 14 games, they have since improved to the point where their record is now 16-8.

With the aid of a bye, the Bruins watched the first round from the sidelines and then won their second and third round games easily.

In the semifinals they met French & Sons, a team greatly improved since the season began, and edged them 7-5.

Tony Petrucci, Vito Scavo and Jay Graziano all had a pair of hits apiece to lead the attack. Tom Klein broke up the game in the sixth inning when he tripled home Bob Campbell, who had doubled, with the tie-breaking run. John Thomas followed with a single to drive in Klein with the final run of the game.

In the title game against a Bensenville team called the Freeloaders, the Bruins edged 11-9.

Graziano, who was voted the MVP of the tournament with 4 homers and a .733 average, hit the cycle going four-for-four.

Joey Kilas added three hits including a triple. Petrucci had three hits and two RBIs.

Don Walker, who pitched all four of the games for the Bruins, was backed by a steady defense, led by Scavo and Chuck Tasso, that made only four errors in four games.

The Bruins will head north to LaCrosse, Wis., this weekend for a tournament to benefit the LaCrosse Boys' Clubs.

Mark Trail's OUTDOOR TIPS

You can add valuable vitamins and minerals to your dog's menu if you drain juice from cooked vegetables and use it to moisten his dried food.

Newhouser twice A.L. MVP

Only one pitcher, Hal Newhouser of the Tigers, has been able to win the American League's Most Valuable Player award more than once since the award was established in 1931 with Lefty Grove as its first winner. What makes Newhouser's feat unusual, the Royal Crown Sports Bureau notes, is that he won his two awards consecutively for his work in the 1944 and 1945 seasons.

Area golfers set to battle at Plum Tree

Several area golfers will be competing for a spot in the starting grid of the Illinois Open Championship when qualifying rounds are held July 2 at Plum Tree National Golf Club in Harvard, Ill.

Eighty-three amateurs and 71 professionals will be battling for the 80 openings in the event to be held at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights, July 15-17.

The qualifying round is the first ever needed in the 25 year history of the Illinois Open and the number of amateurs is the largest ever to compete.

There are three professionals from the Herald area scheduled to try for a spot in the field. They are Charles Hackett of Hoffman Estates, playing out of Barrington Hills, Tom Peck from Schaumburg and Tally Ho and Ted Meier who is from Palatine and plays at Inverness.

Area amateurs are Chris Marszalek of Hillcrest, Brad Stake of Stonehenge, Steve Jenne of Rolling Green, Scott Anderson of Inverness and Ron Swanson playing out of Mount Prospect Country Club. All are from Arlington Heights.

Other amateurs competing are Mario Vitale from Prospect Heights and Rob Roy, David Nelson from Mount Prospect and the Mount Prospect Golf Club, Brick Malorano from Buffalo Grove and Old Orchard and Leonard Flocca from Palatine and White Pines.

The Plum Tree course is par-72, 6,723 yards.

Vikings, Miami in rematch

A Super Bowl rematch is scheduled here Aug. 19 when the Miami Dolphins meet the Minnesota Vikings in a pre-season pro football game. The Dolphins won Super Bowl VIII with a 24-7 victory over the Vikings at Houston last Jan. 13.

I sure like Charlton Heston because of his great role he played in "Ben Hur." I would like to know how many children he has and to see his picture in your column. Would you please tell me all about him?

T.F.
Arlington Heights

Charlton Heston

Charlton was born in Evanston, Ill., fifty years ago (Oct. 4th), but he spent his early years at St. Helen, Michigan, a north-woods hamlet. They lived in an isolated house. It was there that Chuck learned to amuse himself by acting out stories his father read to him and as soon as he learned to read, stories from all available books. By five years old, Charlton had decided on acting as a career.

After high school in Winnetka, Ill., Chuck enrolled in Northwestern University's speech school theatre. He married the former Lydia Clarke and enlisted in the Air Corps. Upon his discharge, he made the rounds to casting studios and when the break came, it was for both Charlton and his wife, as co-directors and performers in the Thomas Wolfe Memorial Theatre in Asheville, N.C. In 1948 he made his Broadway debut in "Anthony and Cleopatra." Since that time, Heston has starred in about 35 films, ranging from comedy to tragedy, in periods from ancient to modern times.

With their son Fraser and daughter Holly Ann, the Hestons live actively, but without ostentation in their modern home atop Coldwater Canyon in Beverly Hills. Charlton retains a love for Michigan's woods and has a small place amid 1,400 acres of forest, which he bought with the first money he earned in Hollywood. He and his family enjoy occasional vacations there, preferably in winter.

What are Eve Plumb's hobbies? How old is she and where can I write to her? Please print her picture.

R.O.
Mt. Prospect

Eve Plumb

Sixteen year old Eve is a veteran of TV, records, commercials and music concerts. Eve started acting at age six, when she appeared in a commercial, and now has 40 on her credit list. She has made guest appearances on such shows as MANNIX, ADAM 12, and HERE'S LUCY.

The five foot actress attends a private school in the San Fernando Valley. She studies ballet and guitar, and has been a student of judo and karate. She is a very avid reader. Her hobbies include sculpting in copper wire, painting, and drawing. She has one pet, a dog she adopted while appearing in the LANCER series.

Send her letters addressed to her in care of ABC-TV, 5141 Prospect Avenue, Hollywood, Calif. 90027.

Please print a picture of Patty Duke and tell me how old she is.

P.C.
Arlington Heights

Patty Duke

Patty was born in New York City on Dec. 14th, 27 years ago. As of late she has been using her married name--Patty Duke Astin.

Would you please tell me where I could send for an autographed picture of the CHOPPER ONE threesome?

Des Plaines

We suggest that you write to ABC-TV, 5141 Prospect Avenue, Hollywood, Calif. 90027.

When and where was Benny Goodman, the greatest bandleader of all times, born?

N.C.
Palatine

Benny was born in Chicago, Ill., 1909.

I'm really hooked on David Hartman and I think he is cool! Could you please print a picture of him and tell me about his life?

D.B.
Elk Grove Village

David Hartman

David didn't choose a career in acting until age 24, after graduation from Duke University and two years in the Air Force. Native to Pawtucket, R.I., he was offered baseball contracts by the then-Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies. After completing his acting studies at the Academy of Dramatic Art and a number of off-Broadway musicals, he appeared as the singing waiter in the original cast of "Hello, Dolly!"

Since his relatively late start in show business, David has been a regular member of THE VIRGINIAN series (1968-69), THE BOLD ONES, and now has a new one in the offing! This fall, we'll find Hartman as the star of LUCAS TANNER, a former sportswriter and once promising big-league pitcher who becomes a high school teacher after the death of his wife and son. In addition to his TV roles Hartman has several films on his credit list.

The 6'5" actor is still single and 37 years old. He lives in a house high atop the Hollywood Hills. An amateur photographer, David is rarely seen off stage without cameras slung over his shoulders!

On the Cover

It's that time of year for bright colors, beauty and patriotism. What nicer way to mold them all together than in the shape of Elizabeth Baur draped in red, white and blue. Ms. Baur is also a "pretty" nice component to the cast of NBC's "Ironside," in which she portrays the chief's cohort in crime prevention, Officer Fran Bel-ding.

Officials hope work done by summer's end

Weather, strikes, building disputes stall park projects

The Buffalo Grove Park District has completed some projects this year, but a substantial amount of work remains unfinished at several park sites.

Park Director Stan Crosland said Thursday he is hopeful most of the work will be finished by the end of the summer. Many of the projects were started last fall, but have been delayed because of weather, strikes and problems with contractors, he said.

Sites in the village that are in a stage of partial completion are Emmerich Park and the parks adjacent to Cooper Junior High School and Irving School. Although little work has been done on the Raupp Memorial site in Lake County, park officials hope to have that area in a near-finished condition by fall.

WORK AT THE parks varies somewhat, but most consists of preparing baseball diamonds and tennis courts and installing playground apparatus.

The north baseball diamond at Emmerich Park, 150 Raupp Blvd., was finished this spring, but Crosland said the south field remains unfinished. Before the diamond will be suitable to play on, it must be graded and seeded and the backstop must be repaired.

"That work should be completed by now," he said. "I've been trying to call the contractor for a week to try to get him to finish the work, but he hasn't returned my calls."

PAVING OF THE tennis courts at Emmerich has been completed and Crosland said they could be ready for play in a week, depending on how soon the contractors do the little work that still remains. Before the courts are ready they must be color coated and fenced.

By mid-August, Crosland said new playground apparatus should be installed at Emmerich Park. Until that time, children can use the existing equipment, he said. A lot for pre-schoolers was completed at the park this spring.

Work on the south baseball diamond at Cooper Junior High School, Plum Grove Circle and Arlington Heights Road, has been delayed indefinitely, Crosland said. Before work on the diamond can resume, he said, the school must have debris from its new addition removed from the site. This will not be done at least until the cement truck drivers' strike is settled.

The north diamond at Cooper was completed this spring, Crosland added.

RECENTLY, THE park district hauled in black dirt and seeded a small portion of the park next to Irving School, Crosland said the area is small which will restrict its use. Most of the park site is in the flood plain and unsuitable for recreation much of the time. The park district has no plans to improve the property at this time.

Crosland said later this year the park district plans to construct a small playground for pre-schoolers on the Irving site. Park officials will meet with residents to determine what facilities will be installed.

The park district plans to move the Levitt and Son's sales office to the Raupp Memorial site on Denham Lane sometime in August, Crosland said. The developer has agreed to donate the building to the park district for use as a historical museum and community center.

AFTER THE SALES office is moved to the site, the park district plans to place an addition on it. Crosland said the park district is not planning site improvements, but intends to keep the area in its present condition.

The site, part of the old Raupp Farm, is one of the village's oldest landmarks. It was donated to the park district with the understanding it would be made into a memorial.

Crosland said the only other work planned this year will consist of maintenance and relatively minor jobs at various parks throughout the village. He said the park district has spent or committed all its money from the $1.25 million bond referendum in 1971.

The park district probably will need another referendum, he said to raise money for additional park improvements and land acquisition.

Bieber sentenced to year in prison in bribe case

by LYNN ASINOF

William Bieber, former Wheeling building director, was sentenced to one year in prison Thursday for his role in a Wheeling zoning extortion scheme.

Bieber will begin serving his sentence July 10, and will become eligible for parole after four months. He faced a maximum sentence of 60 years in prison and a $45,000 fine.

The former building director pleaded guilty to five counts of extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return June 10. In exchange for the guilty plea, the U. S. Attorney's Office agreed to drop nine additional extortion and perjury counts against Bieber.

U. S. DISTRICT Court Judge Abraham Starovitz sentenced Bieber to one year imprisonment on each of the five counts with the terms to run concurrently. "There is no sense in fining him because he doesn't have any money," the judge said.

Bieber's attorney, David Schippers, said the former building director is "totally destitute." A probation report listed Bieber's only asset as his $40,000 home which carries two mortgages.

Bieber currently is employed as a purchasing agent. He resigned his village post June 10 after pleading guilty. He had been drawing his $21,500-a-year salary while on a leave-of-absence since February.

Schippers argued for probation for his client, saying that Bieber was not the "kingpin" in the extortion scheme. "He felt that if he didn't go along with this, he would lose his job," Schippers said. The defense attorney also argued for a light sentence saying that Bieber is in poor health suffering from a back ailment.

"He is totally destitute. His physical condition is terrible. It is doubtful if he will ever walk again normally. He can't practice his trade. His good name has been destroyed," Schippers said.

SCHIPPERS ALSO described Bieber's earlier days, noting that Bieber never completed high school because of problems caused by scarlet fever. He cited used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Realte. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip. However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pete Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoalings," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Latest Andrews search turns up empty

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophie Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Voll St., Arlington Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

THE LATEST effort to find the couple was sparked when an informant advanced a theory that they drove into the slip off East Illinois Street. The tipster came forward after reading newspaper accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

Kilmer Park drawing police watch

Buffalo Grove Police are keeping a close watch on Kilmer Park following a rash of vandalism there in recent weeks.

Park Director Stan Crosland said Thursday vandals have done extensive damage to park district facilities at the site. The area also has become a dumping place for trash.

Crosland said the park district notified the police of the problems and was told the areas would be checked periodically in an attempt to curb the vandalism.

Police Sgt. John Crimmins said Thursday, "All the officers have been made aware of it (vandalism) and have been watching the area closely. In the last week or two there have been no reports of vandalism that I know of," he said.

Summerfest here

The annual Summerfest at St. Mary's Church in Buffalo Grove is set for this weekend.

A dance for adults is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. Saturday with a cash bar.

Games and rides will be available beginning at noon on Sunday. Special rides will be set up this year for very young children.

The traditional chicken dinners that are part of the old-fashioned picnic every year will be on sale Sunday at $2 each.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

JOHN RYNAK, brother of Mrs. Andrews and controller of their estate, had said earlier the slip search was a long shot at best. After Thursday's efforts, he said, "I didn't think they'd find anything. We didn't find anything three years ago and the chances would be even less today."

Portions of the Chicago River and the entrance to the slip were searched by Race in 1971. The new hunt moved to the west end and northern banks where anchored barges would have interfered with in the 1971 expedition.

The search Thursday, as well as the one three years ago, was paid for by Rynak.

The slip was ringed by spectators leaving nearby offices for lunch.

Rynak said the search would be called off. He said the search for his brother-in-law and sister is set back to square one.

Fireworks operator under state scrutiny

by MARCIA KRANER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

HIS NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was

Big boom in illegal fireworks expected

by KAREN BLECHA

Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks sold in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials,

charged with illegal storage of explosives, operation of an illegal fireworks factory building, reckless conduct and criminal damage to property.

Charges against Cartolano were subsequently dropped, but earlier this year he pleaded guilty to the corporate charges and was fined $4,000.

Sponsors of the local displays said the firm and another predecessor firm, Carpenter's Fireworks Co., have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpenter's firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 8, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Student learning homemaking arts in school class

by JILL BETTNER

For most suburban children, offspring in busy households where there is often a working mother, school is becoming the place to learn the home arts and crafts that used to be part of every youngster's upbringing.

Bread, for example, is just one of those items to be picked up in the grocery store along with the rest of the things on the weekly shopping list. Most of us don't have any idea of how to go about baking it from scratch.

But children in a home crafts class in Buffalo Grove are learning how to make bread and getting the opportunity to try their hand at a variety of other domestic arts as well.

THE CLASS AT Irving School in Buffalo Grove is part of the summer school program in Dist. 21, which serves, besides Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and portions of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect. The program is free to residents of the district for the first time this year.

The majority of the 2,400 children enrolled in the program are participating in classes like the home crafts session called "enrichment courses."

Part of the intent of the summer program is to give youngsters a chance through these courses to explore their creativity and develop a wide range of talent and abilities.

The enrichment courses span all subjects, designed to stimulate the imagination, involve kids in activities there isn't always time for during the regular school year and generally widen their horizons.

COOKING IS ONE OF those activities that a lot of Dist. 21 children don't have an opportunity to try in the regular year because of a lack of facilities. Although some local schools have classrooms with stoves or refrigerators to be used by students in special education sections, most do not.

Irving is equipped with the kitchen appliances and teachers of the home crafts class are taking good advantage of them to give children a taste of preparing a variety of foods.

The group of about 45 children, under the guidance of three teachers, prepares complete meals twice a week. The youngsters have made tacos, scrambled eggs, bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches and other simple things.

"The kids really enjoy anything to do with cooking," said Cheryl Kelfer, one of the home crafts teachers. "A lot of them don't get the chance during the year and besides, in a situation with 32 kids in the class or something like that, not everybody gets to have a hand in what's going on."

MRS. KEIFER ADDED that although the class is intended more for fun than to provide academic instruction, the kids are picking up some new math skills in measuring ingredients and using recipes.

Besides cooking, the children are making sandcast plaques and working on several other art projects including weaving, stichery, candlemaking, cloth-printing and sculpture with baker's clay.

More local children are attending summer sessions in Dist. 21 this year than ever before, although enrollment always has been high, according to Marjorie Beu, assistant superintendent for curriculum. Last year, almost 2,300 students signed up for courses.

The classes, which meet from 8:40 a.m. to 12:07 daily, will continue through July 12, excluding the Fourth of July.

Rape of teen near village reported

A teenage girl, reportedly 14, may have been raped Wednesday night in the area north of Wheeling High School and along Elmhurst Road in Wheeling, according to unconfirmed reports.

LA. Thomas Conte of the Wheeling police late Thursday refused either to confirm or deny the rape report. "There has been some investigation on something like that," he said at one point. Later, Conte said, "We don't know any of the facts yet."

The incident occurred at about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. The victim reportedly was taken to Dr. Victor I. Steiner of Lake Zurich for examination. Steiner, however, would not confirm or deny that report late Thursday. Steiner handles all physicals for Wheeling village government employees, including policemen.

The Wheeling Fire Dept. was not called out in the incident.

Village may make anti-annex push

Buffalo Grove officials may make a final effort next week to prevent the Lake County section of the village from being placed in the College of Lake County district.

Last week the Illinois Community College Board assigned High School District 123, which takes in Lake County Buffalo Grove, to that district, despite opposition from the village. Buffalo Grove officials had requested the northern section of the village be assigned to the Harper College district.

Trustee Thomas Mahoney said this week he is disappointed with the decision on the boundaries and has asked that the village board make one more attempt to keep the northern section of the village out of the College of Lake County district.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said the board has two alternative courses it can take. It can continue to ask that the area be placed in the Harper district or it can ask that the northern section of the village not be placed in any junior college district.

THE NORTHERN part of the village in the past has not been in a junior college district and students have decided which school to attend.

If the village board decides to protest last week's decision, it will have 30 days to present a petition to the community college board asking for a referendum to resolve the issue. Two possible questions could appear on the referendum: either to establish new college district boundaries or disannex the village from the Lake County district.

Buffalo Grove officials disagree with the Illinois Community College Board's decision because they feel the entire village should be in the same junior college district. Cook County residents in the village attend Harper College in Palatine. The College of Lake County is in Grayslake, a considerable distance from the village.

The matter will be considered at Monday night's board meeting.

Omni-House clears state grant hurdle

Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau in Wheeling has crossed the first hurdle in obtaining $50,000 in state funds for next year.

The grant application was unanimously approved Wednesday by the application review committee of the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission.

The full commission is scheduled to consider the application July 9, with the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to make the final decision sometime later this summer.

Omni-House executive director Peter Digre said he was pleased with the application review committee's action and said he considered it a good indication that the grant will be approved by the ILEC.

Originally, Omni-House and other youth service bureaus around the state were to be supported by ILEC

for only two years. Through the efforts of Omni-House staff and other youth service bureaus officials, the third-year funding was set up, Digre said.

In addition to the $50,000 Omni-House hopes to receive from ILEC, Digre said the agency will need to raise about $142,000 in local contributions to meet its budget for next year.

"We still have quite a job ahead of us," Digre commented. "The third-year funding won't solve all our budgetary problems, but it will certainly be a tremendous help."

Although the largest share of community financial support for Omni-House comes from Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, the agency also serves Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Mount Prospect.

Coin collectors can keep abreast of new issues and values, every Thursday in the HERALD.

Bieber's Jewish upbringing, saying that his religion created difficulties for him in the plumber's union. The attorney also described Bieber as a religious man.

"You say he is a religious man," Judge Marovitz said. "He probably doesn't know a thing about his religion because everything he did is against it."

Assistant U. S. Atty. Howard Stone, however, argued for "a substantial period of incarceration," saying that Bieber was an independent operator in Wheeling. Stone said Bieber extorted money and gifts from developers, including $6,000 of furniture from Wickes, Inc.

STONE TOLD JUDGE Marovitz that he was fearful "the American people still remain pawns of corrupt officials who place themselves above others." If the courts do not take steps to punish such crimes.

He said Bieber is not repentant for his crimes, and said he has failed to cooperate with the government "although he has been asked to do so."

Judge Marovitz agreed with Stone about the need to punish official corruption. "This is one of those cases where you have to impose punishment for the sake of a deterrent," he said.

The judge rejected Schippers argument that Bieber did not hurt anyone by his crime. "You hurt someone when you deprive them of what they are entitled to," he said. "The morality of public service is being destroyed. It's what they do to public opinion."

"THE THINGS THAT you did plead guilty to would indicate that you took your public responsibilities pretty lightly," the judge told Bieber. He said that men in public office must learn to say no as well as yes, and said that persons with self respect will walk away from such temptations.

Schippers said he expects to ask the judge to recommend that his client serve his sentence at the federal minimum security prison in Sandstone, Minn. Former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman James Stavros, who was sentenced to four years in prison for his part in the extortion scheme, began his term at Sandstone, Tuesday.

The defense attorney also is expected to file a motion for a reduced sentence for Bieber.

Delays muddle trial one year after Bollacker murder

by JOHN MAES

A year after the shotgun murder of Richard Bollacker in a Des Plaines forest preserve and the near killing of his girlfriend, Cindy Graf, two men charged in the incident remain in jail awaiting a trial.

The case against Peter Mukite and Richard Del Moro, both of Chicago, has become muddled in a series of court continuances, psychiatric examinations, motions for findings of information and even a change of defense attorneys.

Mukite, 22, and Del Moro, 19, are charged with murder, attempted murder and aggravated battery.

POLICE SAY the two shot Bollacker, a 21-year-old Chicagoan, to death and severely beat Miss Graf in the Grand Forest Preserve area in Des Plaines. Bollacker's body was found lying in an area just north of Ballard Road near Rand Road.

Mukite, Del Moro and another Chicago youth now in prison were in police custody little more than 24 hours after the slaying.

Both have been in Cook County Jail since shortly after their arrest, but Ronald Himel, an assistant state's attorney prosecuting the case, said they may come to trial before long.

TWO APPEARED in criminal court Monday before Judge Robert J. Collins, who granted a motion that the two cases be tried separately. The case was continued to Aug. 2, and Himel said Thursday a trial date may be announced then.

The matter came close to being disposed of earlier this year when attorneys and the suspects entered into plea negotiations with judges and prosecutors, a common practice in criminal proceedings.

Himel said sentences of 18 to 45 years in prison had been recommended for Mukite and 20 to 60 years for Del Moro.

THE BARGAINING ended in March when a new attorney took over Del Moro's defense and asked the court for time to review the case and prepare a defense.

"That's been our biggest hangup," Himel said, "the change of lawyers."

He also said the court is waiting to review records on both suspects from the Cook County Behavioral Clinic. The clinic conducted one of several private and court-appointed psychiatric examinations on the two in an effort to determine their sanity before, after and during the crime as well as their competency to stand trial.

Previous tests have shown the two to be sane and competent for trial.

THE 1973 SLAYING grew out of a love triangle involving Bollacker, Miss Graf and another girl, who had befriended members of a west side Chicago street gang known as the "Playboys."

According to accounts given by investigators, another gang member had been planning to shoot Bollacker but shot himself in the foot with a shotgun.

Mukite and Del Moro, also gang members, then decided to do the job, police said. They drove around Des Plaines with Bollacker, the girl and two other teenagers when they feigned auto trouble near where the killing took place.

The spot was only a short distance away from Incentives, Inc., 2424 Dempster St., where Miss Graf, an orphan, lived.

BOLLACKER WAS marched into the woods and two blasts from the shotgun rang out while the others stayed near the car, police said.

Miss Graf, who was only a shotgun shell away from death was also fired upon, but the blast missed and the assailants had run out of ammunition. Investigators say she was then beaten severely and left for dead.

According to reports, however, the dazed and bloody girl mustered enough strength to go to the roadside and flag down a passing motorist who took her to police.

The girl was taken to Holy Family Hospital and was placed under constant police guard after naming Mukite and Del Moro as her boyfriend's killers.

DES PLAINES police detectives used the information and arrested Mukite later that day near his home.

Del Moro and another man, John Murphy, 21, along with another girl, who later gave state's testimony against the two, were taken into custody a day later at the home of a friend in Chicago.

Murphy, who with the group that night, was charged with attempted murder and aggravated battery but pleaded guilty in August. He is serving a 4 to 12-year prison sentence.

Dr. Jeannine Gavin of Incentives Inc. said she is not sure of Miss Graf's whereabouts right now but said she became a ward of the state, had been living in a group home for a while and was placed in a foster home.

She was being kept under the watchful eye of police and state Department of Children and Family Services, "for a long, long time" according to Dr. Gavin.

Himel said she will be among the several witnesses to testify at Mukite and Del Moro's trial.

"I talked to her about six months ago and she was doing pretty good, settling in pretty well," Dr. Gavin said. "She's got a lot going for her, if only she gets a chance to get it going."

State board was to hear plans this week

Holdup on Maryville plans won't delay construction

A delay in presenting drawings of the new Maryville school to the Illinois Capital Development Board will probably not cause a delay in the start of construction tentatively set for this fall, according to officials in River Trails Dist. 28.

Supt. John Fridlund said Thursday architects from the firm of Fields, Goldman and Magee of Mount Vernon, who are in charge of the project, have changed their timetable for presenting design plans to the ICDB. The architects were to have gone before the ICDB this week, but that schedule was changed and Fridlund said he is now waiting for the firm to let him know what the revised timetable is.

The ICDB, which is providing approximately $1 million toward construction of the new school, is scheduled to meet July 11. However, school officials have received no word that Maryville plans will be on the agenda.

Anthony J. Siro, the architect in charge of the project, and Fred Knecke, the ICDB official overseeing the matter, were both unavailable for comment Thursday.

IN ADDITION TO cancellation of this week's ICDB hearing, a scheduled Aug. 6 meeting, in which final approval of the plans was expected, has also been cancelled.

In May ICDB officials viewed conceptual drawings of the proposed school but instructed architects to develop more detail for the building and resubmit the plans.

Fridlund, who attended the May hearing in Springfield, said officials at that time indicated their satisfaction with the preliminary concepts. The officials, however, asked that information such as the actual number of room facilities for the school be included before final ICDB approval is given.

The Dist. 28 board of education has already approved the conceptual plans, which call for a one-story, 30,000-square-foot building.

THE NEW SCHOOL will replace River

Road School, which serves students from Maryville Academy in Des Plaines. Maryville children are wards of the state.

River Road School must be replaced because it does not meet state life-safety codes. The new school will be located on the Maryville Academy grounds, as is River Road.

The five acre site on Gregory St. and River Rd., Des Plaines, where the new school will be located, was purchased for $75,000 by Dist. 28 from the Chicago Archdiocese, which owns and operates Maryville Academy.

District officials have said they hope to let bids for construction of the new school in September. According to a tentative timetable, Fridlund has said construction could be completed by early next year and the school may be ready for occupancy sometime during the 1974-75 school year.

Junior high track meet set Saturday

The Des Plaines Park District's City Junior High Track Meet for boys will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. on the Maine West High School track.

T-shirts will be awarded to boys participating in the finals of each event. For information contact the Park District office at 298-6106.

Fireworks operator under state scrutiny

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

HIS NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was

Big boom in illegal fireworks expected

by KAREN BLECHA

Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks 'nuts' in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 8, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Youth workers say textbooks aren't enough

'Teachers are ignorant of drug scene'

by JUDY JOBBITT

Teachers are ignorant of the current drug scene in Schaumburg Township and cannot relate to students with drug problems, local counselors said Wednesday in a confrontation with the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Committee on Drug Abuse.

Outdated materials used in the classroom also were listed as a problem in the district's schools when youth workers, school administrators and board of education members exchanged ideas and suggestions for the Dist. 54 program Wednesday night.

The problem with the current curriculum, said Terry McGraw, Schaumburg juvenile officer, is the teacher only knows what is in the book and usually can't answer students' questions. Teachers need more than a text to draw from to know the material thoroughly and to get students interested in the material, he said.

Joanne Reid, Hoffman Estates youth worker, agreed, saying teachers need to be more "street-wise," or know the drug terms used by the students. If the teacher can't relate to the students' knowledge of drugs, she said, the student will turn off the teacher's efforts to educate him about drugs.

She also warned against the use of "scare tactics" to prevent students from using drugs. "Students will say 'that's not my experience. I'm not going to listen to it,'" she said.

BOARD MEMBER Margaret Pageler said the teacher didn't need to be "street-wise" since the teacher's purpose under the current program is to help the student make a better decision concerning "substance use," including alcohol and cigarettes.

McGraw said this approach will turn off students the program should reach. "If a person can relate to a kid, the kid might come to him more. It helps to know a little street-talk, even without knowing what it means. It can relax the situation," he said.

One of the counselors present pointed to the Local Dope Sheet as a way he has kept up with the latest terms. The dope sheet is put out about once a month by the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth and the Village of Hoffman Estates. It lists the drugs being sold on the street with their description, the analyzed content, whenever possible, and harmful side effects.

Youth workers also expressed concern about physical education teachers teaching the drug curriculum. Joseph Rinella, Hoffman Estates juvenile officer, said the "jocks" and the "freaks" are on opposite sides of the fence. To have the "head jock," or the one who epitomizes physical education in the school, teach about drugs will turn off the "freaks," (those who use drugs), he said.

Junior high school administrators will look into having guidance counselors and nurses teach the material next year to help correct that problem.

BOARD MEMBER Arlene Czakowski asked if the program should be started at a younger grade level than the current fourth grade to help prevent students from trying drugs.

William Shatkus, Dooley School principal and chairman of the curriculum committee, said the current program starts teaching attitudes toward the misuse of drugs and other substances at the kindergarten level. The technical terms are brought into the curriculum in the fourth grade.

Larry Walker, Schaumburg Township youth director, also requested that workers such as himself be included in the evaluation of drug materials to help keep them updated. He stressed again the importance of teachers keeping up with the latest talk and literature available, material he receives regularly, he said.

TWO PROGRAMS to get parent involvement in the drug problem also were discussed.

Mrs. Reid suggested that the PTA sponsor coffees where people who work with drug users daily could discuss the problem with parents.

A program to get parents to clean out their medicine cabinets also will be held next fall. Mrs. Jan Millella, PTA Health and Safety Chairman at Dooley School, announced the area program will be held Oct. 1-6 in connection with National Pharmacy Week.

Shatkus also outlined a program for all junior high teachers to be held Sept. 18. It will feature a consultant in drug education and a panel discussion to educate the teachers about drugs.

Final Sabbath Eve service

The final Family Sabbath Eve service of the season will be held at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Road, Des Plaines, tonight, 8:30 p.m. Nancy Heller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Heller, 8917 Lyons, Des Plaines, will celebrate her Bar Mitzvah at the service. Saturday, June 29, Evan Hirsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hirsch, 8936 Parkside, Des Plaines, will observe his Bar Mitzvah at the 9:30 a.m. traditional service. Other Sabbath services are at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Synagogue chapel.

The annual MTJC dinner dance is scheduled for Sunday, June 30, 6 p.m. at Allgauer's Fireside, Northbrook. Bingo will be played every Sunday at 7:30 p.m. throughout the summer in the auditorium. The entire community is invited.

River Trails school budget work lags

Work on a tentative 1974-75 budget for River Trails Dist. 26 is proceeding, but officials admit the budget preparation is running behind schedule.

Jean Meister, district business manager who is coordinating the budget work, said preparation has been delayed because figures for several program areas, including administrative salaries, have not yet been determined.

The district, along with every other in Cook County, is also in the dark about its total assessed valuation. Figures on assessed valuation, which are usually announced weeks before now, have not yet been released by the county assessor's office.

OTHER UNKNOWNs facing Dist. 26 budget planners are the figure to be attached to the Cook County multiplier and the question of whether or not Gov. Daniel Walker will support full funding of the state aid resource equalizer formula as approved by the Illinois General Assembly.

The multiplier, which is the figure used to equalize assessments, is currently set at $1.59. The figure may be lowered, however, to $1.48, which could mean a substantial revenue loss to school districts.

Walker is withholding some $73 million from the state aid package approved by the state legislature, a decision which he says represents a move toward fiscal responsibility.

These factors, Mrs. Meister said, have contributed to the setback in getting a tentative budget ready for presentation to the board.

MRS. Meister added that because the district uses a decentralized budget, more time is required for preparation since separate listings are made for schools, personnel and programs.

Tentative figures may be ready by the end of the week, Mrs. Meister said, but no totals have yet been computed.

A three-member board committee will review the preliminary figures compiled by the administration. This package will be subject to change by the committee before the tentative proposal is presented to the full board, Mrs. Meister said.

The board committee, which includes William Haase, Lloyd Demel and Sylvia Lurie, has set no date for its first meeting to review the document. Mrs. Meister speculated that such a meeting may not take place until after the July Fourth holiday.

The budget must be adopted in the first quarter of the school year and Mrs. Meister said this action will probably take place the first week in September. Before formal approval can be given, however, the tentative budget must be available for public viewing for 30 days and a public hearing on it must be conducted.

Drug charges dropped against Niles man, 22

A charge against one man thought to have been part of a six-man drug ring was dropped while another suspect in the case has waived a preliminary hearing.

Cleared of a drug possession charge Monday in the Niles branch of Circuit Court was Edward Miskiewicz, 22, of Niles. The charge was dropped on the advice of state's attorneys.

A Glenview man, George Nowak, 21, of 1551 Maple, waived his right to a hearing, pending further court action. He is charged with the sale of drugs to agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG).

MISKIEWICZ, Nowak and four other men were arrested last February by undercover agents in connection with the drug operation that included some narcotics said to have been stolen from Lutheran General Hospital. Four of the suspects were former hospital employees.

Earlier this month, Neil Fagrellius, 20, of 2187 Elmira Ave., Des Plaines, and Allan Borre, 21, of 1108 Waterman, Arlington Heights, were bound over for a grand jury hearing for their alleged involvement in the ring.

Fagrellius faces two counts of possession of a controlled substance while Borre is charged with possession of dangerous drugs.

Also facing charges in the case are Steven P. Best, 18, of 8974 Western Ave., and Edward Mueller, 21, of 2187 Elmira, both of Des Plaines. Both will appear in Niles branch of Circuit Court July 23.

All five men facing charges are free on bond.

Church paper drive

Young people of the United Pentecostal Church, Wolf Road and Oakton Street, Des Plaines are conducting a paper drive to raise funds for mission projects.

The International "Sheaves for Christ" program helps purchase vehicles and literature for foreign missionaries, conduct evangelistic efforts in major American cities and provide Bible college scholarships.

Anyone wishing to donate paper may call 824-0782 during the week and 299-7729 on Saturdays, or bring papers to the church on Saturdays.

Mount Prospect parks still have many openings

Openings still exist in numerous Mount Prospect Park District classes, which began this week.

Registration is being accepted at the park district administration office, 411 S. Maple St., for the following classes:

baseball skills, fencing, trampoline, athletic camp, go-go club, weight training, aerobatics, advanced track and field, badminton, horseback riding, guitar, basketball skills, tiny tots, ballet, needlepoint, women's exercise, ceramics for children, Young Theater of Children, adult drama, teen softball, junior league softball at Friendship Park, senior league softball at Friendship Park, arts and crafts and sketching.

In addition, there is no limit on registration in lawn games, games for fun, grass hockey, modern dance, wee folks, cheerleading, baton and storytelling.

A complete list of classes, including times and fees, is available at the park office.

Canceled programs include mother-daughter needlepoint and crocheting.

Township welfare officials report decline in caseload

Elk Grove Township spent less money on welfare and handled fewer general assistance cases during the 1973-74 fiscal year than it did the year before.

Total general assistance costs were down 9 per cent, from $39,578 in 1972-73, to $35,953 in 1973-74, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. Thirty fewer cases were handled and 92 fewer persons received aid during 1973-74, he said. This is a 7.6 per cent reduction.

The 1973-74 fiscal year ended Feb. 28. A person can apply for welfare if he is "broke, has no job and no savings," township welfare worker Margaret Blaschke said. Townships can provide general assistance emergency money when the person is willing to be put on county welfare rolls, a process which takes at least 30 days.

GENERAL ASSISTANCE cases are those which cannot be referred to the state under categories such as "dependent children" or "medical disabilities," Mrs. Blaschke said. For example, a childless couple, both aged under 65, with no handicaps would qualify for general assistance.

The number of assistance cases usually goes down in the summer, but this hasn't been true this year, Mrs. Blaschke said. She said it's probably because the work market is so bad, with strikes and layoffs.

Usually, a suburban family may need aid only once, she said. For example, a wage earner may have been injured on the job and hadn't yet received insurance benefits.

A person on strike may be eligible for welfare if he is not receiving unemployment compensation, she said. However, a person collecting unemployment payments is considered to be earning enough to cover his family, she said.

Mrs. Blaschke can be reached at the township office, 437-0300. General assistance cases are handled between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 and 4 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The township hall is located at 2409 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Mount Prospect park board member to quit

Michael W. Buckley, a Mount Prospect Park District commissioner since 1969, plans to resign, The Herald has learned.

Buckley, 40, of 1408 Pennsylvania Ave., Des Plaines, confirmed reports Wednesday night that he intends to step down nine months before his six-year term expires, citing "personal obligations."

"The amount of time that is required and should be put into the job, I just don't have," he said. "It's not fair to the people or the board."

Buckley is a lieutenant with the Des Plaines Fire Dept. and is studying fire science at Harper College.

HE HAD SERVED as chairman of the park board's building and grounds committee and as assistant treasurer, but has been unable to attend a board or committee meeting for the past five to six months because of other demands on his time.

"I am devoting a little bit of time to everything. I can't do a good job in any one place," he explained. "It's more advantageous for the entire district and park board that I resign."

Buckley indicated he will submit his resignation on Monday, effective next month. His leaving opens a vacancy in one of the park board's seats traditionally held by a resident of Des Plaines. The search for his successor is expected to be focused on the Des Plaines section of the park district.

Buckley said he is particularly proud of improvements in park appearance and facilities during his tenure, which he attributed to the cooperation of other elected and appointed officials.

Buckley was elected to the park board April 1, 1969, the top vote getter in a field of five. His successor will serve until the April, 1975, election.

Activities slated for handicapped

The Maine Niles Association of Recreation for the Handicapped is offering a variety of afternoon, evening, and weekend programs, as well as a six-week summer day camp program.

Programs will begin July 5, and run for five weeks. Programs for the summer include bowling, softball, horseback riding, swimming, creative arts, and social clubs. Special programs have been designed to meet the specific needs of orthopedically handicapped adults and children. These include bowling for children and adults, sports club, and an exchange club for your adults.

One day programs include:

- Expedition to the Lighthouse Nature Center, June 29, 1:30 to 4 p.m.
- Ravinia Festival Trip, July 13, 10 to 12:45 p.m.
- Chicago Cubs baseball game outing, July 27, 11 to 4 p.m.

- Contemporary crafts workshop for adults, August 7, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.
- Family picnic game day, August 11, 11 to 1:30 p.m.

Registration must be made today at the Maine-Niles Assn. office, Downstate Center, 4400 Grove St., Skokie. For information, call Lawrence S. Reimer, 674-1500.

Railroad admits problem

Late morning trains cause suburb commuters to gripe

by RONALD NORBERG
"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday.

Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:20 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schrickel, 1127 E. Sayles, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months.

A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 16 freight train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which caused damage to the tracks has been largely responsible for the delays.

MacDonald said the railway issued a "slow order" for the problem area, causing trains to reduce speed through the town. The order was rescinded two weeks ago.

Judge also cited wind and rain damage to tracks and crossings as causes of delays.

MacDonald said the railway was unable to make necessary repairs on the roadbed because of the wet weather.

HARRY STERN, chief engineer of the Illinois Commerce Commission railroad division, said wet weather has been a major problem for the railroads.

"The rain has done things to the roadbed you wouldn't believe," Stern said. "This has been an unusual year."

The railroad has been able to make repairs, but added maintenance crews often cause delays themselves while making repairs, MacDonald said.

Slow orders still exist at the Deval Crossing in Des Plaines, because of work on the Soo Line R.R. tracks, and the Dec Road crossing in Park Ridge for construction.

Officials said more work is planned for the Northwest suburban tracks and crossings this summer, but declined to say where and when the repairs would take place.

"We'll try to keep the mornings and evenings clear, so repairs shouldn't slow the trains down too much," Judge said.

JUDGE SAID the railroad intends to repair uneven tracks and various crossing works.

The railway has refused to release train arrival reports from other Northwest suburbs, but officials said the 620 is the only "problem line" in the area.

MacDonald said the problems causing delays on the line have been corrected, and pointed out that with the exception of Tuesday's delay, the train has been on schedule this week.

Five-minute spree nets $227 in food

Charles Kellogg had an enjoyable five minutes last week.

Kellogg, 1280 White St., Des Plaines, purchased the winning ticket in the annual Des Plaines Jaycees Shopping Spree. He accumulated $227.57 worth of groceries in his five-minute spree at Oak Leaf Commons Jewel.

Betty McCaughan, Des Plaines, was second-place winner with a three-minute spree of $183.28. Tom Arndt of Des Plaines took home $71.73 worth of groceries in one minute.

Proceeds for the event this year go to Children's Dental Service Inc., a service for persons who cannot afford regular dental care in the Northwest suburbs.

'Pin' contest winners named
The Des Plaines Park District's "Closest-to-the-Pin" contest was held recently, at Lake Park golf course. The first hole was selected for the June contest.

John Hanson won the men's division trophy with a shot which landed 1 foot 6 inches from the pin. Mrs. Eleanor Sander won the lady's division trophy, her ball was 5 feet 5½ inches from the pin. Leo Gallucci received the youth division award with a shot coming to rest 2 feet 3 inches from the pin.

Flood control, senior citizens, mental health

Voters OK revenue sharing funds for three projects

Elk Grove Township voters unanimously approved Thursday night three requests for use of federal revenue sharing funds.

Sixty-three township voters attended the special 25-minute township meeting, called to consider petitions asking for funds for flood control, senior citizens' services and mental health services.

The electorate approved the transfer of $4,500 in revenue sharing funds to the Elk Grove Road and Bridge fund. The money will be used to pay for dredging and widening Roppolo Creek, between Higgins Road and Dierke Road.

The work is almost completed, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. The township began the project without having the funds in order to take advantage of a low bid, Hall said.

NEXT, THE ELECTORATE approved distributing $10,000 in revenue sharing funds to Senior Citizens of Elk Grove Township Inc., a not-for-profit and non-sectarian organization. No questions were raised and the issue passed unanimously.

The money will be used for a senior citizens' news letter and bus service. Township officials originally budgeted $15,000 for the newsletter and $20,000 for the bus but were prevented from distributing the money according to interpretation of a state law by Ill. Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. The law states that townships may only spend revenue sharing funds for programs allowed under Illinois law. Transportation systems would not qualify.

Elk Grove and Wheeling townships filed suit in Federal Court recently, asking that Scott's interpretation be overruled.

Wheeling Township Atty. Richard Cowin told Elk Grove Township officials that under Illinois law they could allocate up to $10,000 for a not-for-profit and nonsectarian group.

According to state statute, the township may present a resolution at a special township meeting that would allow non-tax revenue to provide services for senior citizens.

HALL SAID ACTIONS taken at Thursday's meeting would guarantee the continuance of such programs regardless of what the courts say about the law.

Voters also authorized the board of auditors to provide funds to various mental health services. This action enabled the auditors to give $83,000 to the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Mental Health Center and $22,000 to Clearbrook Center for the Mentally Retarded in Rolling Meadows. The two centers have requested funds from the township and the money was included in the township's 1974-75 budget.

Northwest suburb pioneer William Rohlwing, 81, dies

William Rohlwing, a member of one of the founding families of the Northwest suburbs, died Thursday at the Americana Nursing Center in Arlington Heights. He was 81.

Mr. Rohlwing, of 801 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect, was a lifetime resident of the Northwest suburbs, where his family settled in the mid-1890s. He remained active in local affairs until April 3, 1973, when he stepped down as Elk Grove Township supervisor, with the advice: "Let some of the younger fellows take over."

The flag outside the township hall at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, was lowered to half-staff Thursday as a word of his death spread.

Richard Hall, who succeeded Mr. Rohlwing as township supervisor, called him "a fine gentleman" who "did a great job as supervisor. Everyone thought very highly of him, for the man he was and the job he did. We all very much regret his death."

Mr. Rohlwing was born Sept. 20, 1892, when the suburbs consisted of a few small villages surrounded by miles of farmland. "I never expected it would grow the way it did," he said in an interview last year.

Mr. Rohlwing took over the farm of his father, John, upon his death in 1903. Rohlwing Road was named for John Rohlwing.

The Rohlwing family farm was located near Illinois Rtes. 53 and 59 until 1938, when the property was sold. Part of it went to the Cook County Forest Preserve District and part to a private developer who turned it into the Woodfield Mall.

Before becoming township supervisor in 1963, Mr. Rohlwing had served as township tax collector.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9:30 p.m. today at Haire Funeral Home, Northwest Highway and Vall Avenue in Arlington Heights. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Peter Lutheran Church, 208 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg. Burial will be at the church cemetery.

Backyard carnival

Chris Weakley will serve as ringmaster assisted by Steve Weakley and Bill and Tim Connelly at a neighborhood carnival against muscular dystrophy today.

The carnival will begin at 1 p.m. at 202 Basswood Dr., Elk Grove Village, and will feature such games as bean bag toss, fortune telling, a comic book stall and a treasure hunt. All proceeds will go to aid the fight against dystrophy and related diseases.

Mini Circus set for Saturday

A circus, produced by the Elk Grove Elks Lodge 2423, comes to Elk Grove Village Saturday.

The International Mini Circus, featuring trapeze, monkey, trampolines and clown acts, will start at the Elk Grove High School football field at 2 p.m.

Admission to the circus is $2 per child. Parents accompanied by a child are admitted free.

In case of rain, the circus will take place in the high school fieldhouse at Arlington Heights Road and Elk Grove Blvd.

Township welfare officials report decline in caseload

Elk Grove Township spent less money on welfare and handled fewer general assistance cases during the 1973-74 fiscal year than it did the year before.

Total general assistance costs were down 9 per cent, from $35,578 in 1972-73, to $33,953 in 1973-74, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. Thirty fewer cases were handled and 92 fewer persons received aid during 1973-74, he said. This is a 7.6 per cent reduction.

The 1973-74 fiscal year ended Feb. 28.

A person can apply for welfare if he is "broke, has no job and no savings," township welfare worker Margaret Blaschke said. Townships can provide general assistance emergency money while the person is waiting to be put on county welfare rolls, a process which takes at least 30 days.

GENERAL ASSISTANCE cases are those which cannot be referred to the state under categories such as "dependent children" or "medical disabilities," Mrs. Blaschke said. For example, a childless couple, both aged under 65, with no handicaps would qualify for general assistance.

The number of assistance cases usually goes down in the summer, but this hasn't been true this year, Mrs. Blaschke said. She said it's probably because the work market is so bad, with strikes and layoffs.

Usually, a suburban family may need aid only once, she said. For example, a wage earner may have been injured on the job and hadn't yet received insurance benefits.

A person on strike may be eligible for welfare if he is not receiving unemployment compensation, she said. However, a person collecting unemployment payments is considered to be earning enough to cover his family, she said.

Mrs. Blaschke can be reached at the township office, 437-0300. General assistance cases are handled between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 and 4 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The township hall is located at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Nothing new in search for Andrews

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophia Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Vall St., Arlington Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

THE LATEST effort to find the couple was sparked when an informant advanced a theory that they drove into the slip off East Illinois Street. The tipster came forward after reading newspaper accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

The electronics boat, Neptune, owned and piloted by Richard Race of Chicago, used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Runkle. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip. However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pete Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoals," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

JOHN RYNAK, brother of Mrs. Andrews and controller of their estate, had said earlier the slip search was a long shot at best. After Thursday's efforts, he said, "I didn't think they'd find anything. We didn't find anything three years ago and the chances would be even less today."

Fireworks operator under state scrutiny

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "By my own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

THE NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 18. The company was Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks' nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of fireworks traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

charged with illegal storage of explosives, operation of an illegal fireworks factory building, reckless conduct and criminal damage to property.

Charges against Cartolano were subsequently dropped, but earlier this year he pleaded guilty to the corporate charges and was fined $4,000.

Sponsors of the local displays said the firm and another predecessor firm, Carpentersville Fireworks Co., have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpentersville firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 9, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Salt Creek Watershed vote in two weeks?

The Salt Creek Watershed flood-control project has been awaiting action in a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee since October 1973 but may be voted on in the next two weeks.

Watershed projects for several states are awaiting their turns in the House Public Works Committee, backlogged behind some higher-priority highway, mass transit and economic development bills.

Meanwhile, the Water Resources Subcommittee chairman, U.S. Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., received updated information on the Salt Creek project Thursday.

According to the information Roberts received, the project will cost almost $33 million to install. It originally called for $28.5 million for a series of flood controls on the creek. If the public works committee gives approval, the project will receive $13 million in federal funding. The remaining $19.8 million will come from state and local sources.

ROBERTS ALSO asked for information on benefits because the Salt Creek project is the most costly program before the subcommittee. The watershed is expected to prevent $3.5 million worth of damage a year, spokesman for Roberts said, making the ratio of benefits to project cost 1.4 to 1. If costs exceed the benefits, the project would not be economical, the spokesman explained.

The Salt Creek project should come up for approval within a week or two, said Edward Murnane, aide to U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th. Murnane said the legislative staff "doesn't see any problems in approval."

If the subcommittee and Public Works Committee approve the project, it will go to the Office of Management and Budget for authorization of funds. The Senate already approved the project.

Lost-stolen rings returned to police

Two rings Elk Grove Village police believe were lost or stolen at the Jaycees Carnival held in the village this past weekend have been anonymously sent to police who are attempting to return them to the owners.

Sgt. Ron Iden of the Criminal Investigation Unit said the rings appear to be valuable. They were mailed to the department with a note that said they were found at the carnival site on Lions Park on Kennedy Drive and could be lost or stolen.

Persons who believe the rings could be theirs are asked to contact Iden at the department by calling 439-3900 and identify the rings.

AN EARLY START is the key to swimming success. Youngsters in the park district's child-parent learn-to-swim classes from 2 to 5 years old learn to swim with the help of a parent and an instructor. Linda Zito helps her son Tony in the water while getting instructions from supervisor Jacquie Fitzgerald.

Parents help prepare them to swim

Tots' splashes erase fear

by BOB GALLAS

"It's just like taking a bath, but you don't have any soap."

That's a swim instructor trying to coax a 3-year-old girl into getting her face wet.

Nearby, a dozen or so children were trying to do the same thing, with the help of a nearby parent, in the Elk Grove Park District's parent-child learn-to-swim class.

Twice a week, preschool children and their parents take the class together, working to overcome the child's fear of the water while learning the basics of swimming.

The constant splashing is punctuated only by the instructor, who teaches the parent how to teach the child.

WHILE THE instruction is billed as a learn-to-swim class, in reality it only prepares the preschooler for regular swimming classes, although a few children actually do learn how to swim, said William Hlavin, superintendent of aquatics for the park district.

Another major aim of the class doesn't even concern the children, but rather the parent, Hlavin said. "The biggest problem is overcoming the parent's fear of the water, which is directly transmitted to the child when they both get in the water and the parent squeezes the child to death," he noted.

It doesn't take long for results to show up, usually only a few sessions, according to parents who are enrolled in the class. Of course, sometimes the progress is very basic.

"Last week he screamed and cried," said Kathy Barton of her 2½-year-old son, Matthew. "This week he isn't."

SOMETIMES, THE results don't show up in class, but at another time.

"She'll run and jump into the pool now, something she'd never do before," Sandy Moore said of her daughter, Corrie. "Other times we'll be at the pool in the evenings and she'll show off something she's learned to her brother — the same thing she wouldn't do that morning."

Class instructors Bruce Kinn and Jacquie Fitzgerald coordinate class activities, but the parents, for the most part, do the actual teaching. Besides holding the breath, blowing bubbles in the water, kicking and paddling, the children also are taught another important aspect of the water — pool safety.

The children are warned against possible dangers, such as deep water. The preschoolers also learn important swimming terms, which prepares them to enter regular lessons.

THE CLASS ALSO helps give the children confidence in the water, according to Miss Fitzgerald — sometimes a bit too much confidence.

"One little four year old girl was singing to me in the water today," said Miss Fitzgerald.

"Row, row, row your boat, gently down the stream. Throw your teacher overboard and listen to her scream."

July 4 events set next week

The 11th annual Elk Grove Village Lions Club Fourth of July celebration will be staged next week, Wednesday through Saturday.

Bingo, rides, games, refreshments and special attractions will make up the annual carnival at Lions Park, 180 Kennedy Blvd.

There will be a fireworks display next

Thursday night. All-star boys' baseball games are scheduled for next Thursday and Saturday. Fire and police department demonstrations are scheduled for next Thursday afternoon and a park district water show for the evening. Dancing and a "sing-a-long" will be featured Saturday night.

Various organizations will sponsor booths at the carnival, such as the Elk Grove Nurses Club, which will give a free blood pressure reading and the Masque and Staff drama group, which will offer a makeup booth.

Drawings will be held for various prizes such as a 1974 Vega Estate station wagon, a 1974 Kawasaki motorcycle and a 19-inch color television set. Tickets for the drawing will be sold at the carnival for the Saturday night drawing.

Hanover Park ex-employees will face grand jury

Three former Hanover Park employees were bound over to the grand jury Wednesday by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Marvin Peters for their alleged involvement in drug theft in Elk Grove Village.

The three, James Kodak, 23, and David Culp, 18, both of 1540 Hillcrest, Hanover Park, and Elmer Bigham, 20, of 143 Streamwood Blvd., Streamwood, are former public works department employees. Peters said Wednesday he found sufficient evidence during a preliminary hearing to send the three men to a grand jury for a hearing.

Two other former employees also charged in the theft were granted continuances until July 3. They are Raymond Shaver, 33, of 901 S. Northwest Hwy., Barrington, former superintendent of public works in Hanover Park, and Dominic Furio, 25, of 1540 Hillcrest Ave., Hanover Park.

JON NEHRIGIT, 21, of 2091 Osage St., Hanover Park, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of theft, was fined $100 and placed on two years probation. Another man involved in the incident, David Lynn, 18, of 1540 Hillcrest, pleaded innocent and was given one year court supervision.

The men were arrested for their alleged involvement in the theft of $5,000 worth of carpeting April 10 from the Value Rug store, 600 Pratt Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

Culp is a former employee of Value Rug.

Shaver, who was charged with possession of stolen goods after the rug was found in his home, was employed with Hanover Park two and a half months at the time of his arrest. He is the former superintendent of the public works department of Barrington.

Closed session July 16

Mediator to join pay talks for high school teachers

A mediator will sit down with teachers and board members in High School Dist. 211 July 16 to try to reach an agreement on teacher salary contracts for the coming school year.

William Carr has been appointed by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service at the request of teachers and board members in Dist. 211. He will meet in closed session with both sides.

A professional negotiator has been hired by the Dist. 211 Board of Education. Attorney Richard Zwieback has served as professional negotiator for several school districts in the area in recent years.

"There's a point at which we amateurs need to get some professional help,"

Dist. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Thursday. On the progress of negotiations Creek said, "We just have to wait and see."

Carl Flaks, president of the Dist. 211 Education Assn., said Wednesday, "We're anxious to get this going. We are hopeful that mediation can help." Flaks said he is "optimistic" about the progress of negotiations.

Teachers are asking for a 10 per cent increase in pay, which would raise the base salary from $9,950 to $10,950. Teachers say the increase is necessary to keep up with the cost of living.

The Dist. 211 board has offered a 6.2 per cent increase in the teachers salary schedule in addition to annual increments in pay for experience. Board negotiators have said the district is limited in its income.

Delays prolong Bollacker murder proceedings 1 year

by JOHN MAES

A year after the shotgun murder of Richard Bollacker in a Des Plaines forest preserve and the near killing of his girlfriend, Cindy Graf, two men charged in the incident remain in jail awaiting a trial.

The case against Peter Mukite and Richard Del Moro, both of Chicago, has become muddled in a series of court continuances, psychiatric examinations, motions for findings of information and even a change of defense attorneys.

Mukite, 22, and Del Moro, 19, are charged with murder, attempted murder and aggravated battery.

POLICE SAY the two shot Bollacker, a 21-year-old Chicagoan, to death and severely beat Miss Graf in the Grand Forest Preserve area in Des Plaines. Bollacker's body was found lying in an area just north of Ballard Road near Rand Road.

Mukite, Del Moro and another Chicago youth now in prison were in police custody little more than 24 hours after the slaying.

Both have been in Cook County Jail since shortly after their arrest, but Ronald Himel, an assistant state's attorney prosecuting the case, said they may come to trial before long.

THE TWO APPEARED in criminal court Monday before Judge Robert J. Collins, who granted a motion that the two cases be tried separately. The case was continued to Aug. 2, and Himel said Thursday a trial date may be announced then.

The matter came close to being disposed of earlier this year when attorneys and the suspects entered into plea negotiations with judges and prosecutors, a common practice in criminal proceedings.

Himel said sentences of 18 to 45 years in prison had been recommended for Mukite and 20 to 60 years for Del Moro.

THE BARGAINING ended in March when a new attorney took over Del Moro's defense and asked the court for time to review the case and prepare a defense.

"That's been our biggest hangup," Himel said, "the change of lawyers."

He also said the court is waiting to review records on both suspects from the Cook County Behavioral Clinic. The clinic conducted one of several private and court-appointed psychiatric examinations on the two in an effort to determine their sanity before, after and during the crime as well as their competency to stand trial.

Previous tests have shown the two to be sane and competent for trial.

THE 1973 SLAYING grew out of a love triangle involving Bollacker, Miss Graf and another girl, who had befriended members of a west side Chicago street gang known as the "Playboys."

According to accounts given by investigators, another gang member had been planning to shoot Bollacker but shot himself in the foot with a shotgun.

Mukite and Del Moro, also-gang members, then decided to do the job, police said. They drove around Des Plaines with Bollacker, the girl and two other teenagers when they feigned auto trouble near where the killing took place.

The spot was only a short distance away from Incentives, Inc., 2424 Dempster St., where Miss Graf, an orphan, lived.

BOLLACKER WAS marched into the woods and two blasts from the shotgun rang out while the others stayed near the car, police said.

Miss Graf, who was only a shotgun shell away from death was also fired upon, but the blast missed and the assailants had run out of ammunition. Investigators say she was then bearded severely and left for dead.

According to reports, however, the dazed and bloody girl mustered enough strength to go to the roadside and flag down a passing motorist who took her to police.

The girl was taken to Holy Family Hospital and was placed under constant police guard after naming Mukite and Del Moro as her boyfriend's killers.

Prenatal courses offered

Registration is now being held for Alexian Brothers Medical Center's prenatal courses scheduled to begin the week of July 22. The classes are offered on both Monday and Wednesday evenings for six consecutive weeks. Presented as a service to the community the classes are open to expectant parents whether or not they are planning to have their babies at Alexian Brothers.

The course is one method of fulfilling the preparation requirements for fathers who wish to be present in the delivery room for the birth of their babies. Permission for the delivery room privilege must be obtained in advance from the obstetrician.

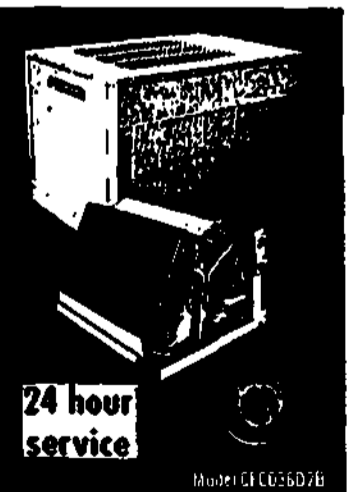

The classes are based on the Red Cross program of prenatal instruction and are divided into six segments covering conception through the first several months of life. Information included in the course concerns prenatal care for the mother, food for the pregnant and nursing mother, clothing needs of the newborn and techniques for bathing the baby. A film of the birth process is also shown.

Members of the maternity department nursing staff conduct the classes which meet in the cafeteria on the ground floor of Alexian Brothers at 7:30 p.m. Interested couples are encouraged to register immediately by calling 437-5500, ext. 594.

'Nude' dancer, bartender trial date expected

A trial date is expected to be announced Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court for two employees of the upstairs lounge, 9621 Greenwood Ave., unincorporated Maine Township.

The two, Gisela Howard, 24, of Des Plaines and William DuFor, 31, of Harwood Heights, are facing obscenity charges stemming from a raid on the lounge in the Dolphin Motel last month.

Miss Howard, a dancer, was charged with performing an obscene, nude dance. DuFor, a bartender, was accused by Cook County Sheriff's vice squad investigators with presenting an obscene performance. They are currently free on $1,000 bond.

Both were granted a jury trial Monday by Associate Judge James Maher in a Niles Circuit Court branch appearance. Maher ordered the trial at the request of the lounge's attorney, Julius Echeles.

THE LOUNGE HAS been the scene of three previous vice unit raids since last March.

Owners of the lounge are currently pressing for a permanent court injunction to stop raids there pending appeal on the obscenity conviction of John Cardamon, 42, Des Plaines, husband of the lounge owner.

Cardamon, and two other exotic dancers were convicted of obscenity charges last April stemming from the previous raids.

Dates are still pending for hearings on the injunction request and the conviction appeal, said Echeles, who added he is also awaiting a date for an appeal of a decision last month not renew the lounge's liquor license.

The Cook County Board ruled to deny the license renewal because Cardamon was also found guilty of federal gambling charges last year.

Late morning trains bring gripes from commuters

by RONALD NORBERG

"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday.

Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:30 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schrickel, 1127 E. Sayles, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months. A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 18 freight train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which caused damage to the tracks has been largely responsible for the delays.

McDonald said the railway issued a "slow order" for the problem area, causing trains to reduce speed through the town. The order was rescinded two weeks ago.

Judge also cited wind and rain damage to tracks and crossings as causes of delays.

MacDonald said the railway was unable to make necessary repairs on the roadbeds because of the wet weather.

HARRY STERN, chief engineer of the Illinois Commerce Commission railroad division, said wet weather has been a major problem for the railroads.

"The rain has done things to the roadbed you wouldn't believe," Stern said. "This has been an unusual year."

The railroad has been able to make repairs, but added maintenance crews often cause delays themselves while making repairs, MacDonald said.

Slow orders still exist at the Deval Crossing in Des Plaines, because of work on the Soo Line R.R. tracks, and the Dea Road crossing in Park Ridge for construction.

Officials said more work is planned for the Northwest suburban tracks and crossings this summer, but declined to say where and when the repairs would take place.

"We'll try to keep the mornings and evenings clear, so repairs shouldn't slow the trains down too much," Judge said.

JUDGE SAID the railroad intends to repair unlevel tracks and various crossing works.

The railway has refused to release train arrival reports from other Northwest suburbs, but officials said the 620 is the only "problem line" in the area.

MacDonald said the problems causing delays on the line have been corrected, and pointed out that with the exception of Tuesday's delay, the train has been on schedule this week.

Proposed plan 'undefined' says board chairman

Zoning board postpones decision on Old Madrid

A decision on revised plans for the development of the 66-acre Old Madrid complex was postponed indefinitely by the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday night.

The board asked for more details on the project through a series of questions it posed to representatives of Sellergren Inc., the developer. The representatives were asked to prepare answers for the questions for a meeting scheduled July 11 at 8 p.m. at the State Street Fire Station, 117 W. State St.

John Duffy, attorney for Sellergren, indicated he was disappointed a decision was not reached because the developers have severe limitations on how long they can contemplate the plan.

"YOU LEAVE US as a village hung with a PUD (plan) which is undefined and may go out of control," said David Kuh, chairman of the zoning board in rejecting the request for a decision. "We are not at all satisfied with the evidence that has been presented."

Other zoning board members were complimentary of Sellergren's presentation, but agreed a decision should be postponed.

The board has asked for establishment of a homeowners' association to maintain streets and utilities, a marketing study of the entire development, landscaping, streetlighting and walkway plans, consideration for a larger buffer zone, a timetable for start and completion of the buildings and a decrease in parking for the shopping center.

THE ZONERS ALSO have requested specific plans for the use of a 10-story recreation building and the floor areas of all buildings in the development, dedication of land to the Palatine Park District for a bike path, plans for the location of loading docks, an explanation of why seven liquor licenses are needed and plans for a traffic signal at the southwest corner of the development.

The revised plans for the parcel at Hicks and Baldwin roads includes:

- Nine condominium buildings ranging in height from five to seven stories.
- A 10-acre recreation and commercial development.
- An eight-acre office and commercial development.
- An 18-acre shopping center.

Mediator joins teacher talks

A mediator will sit down with teachers and board members in High School Dist. 211 July 18 to try to reach an agreement on teacher salary contracts for the coming school year.

William Carr has been appointed by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service at the request of teachers and board members in Dist. 211. He will meet in closed session with both sides.

A professional negotiator has been hired by the Dist. 211 Board of Education. Attorney Richard Zweback has served as professional negotiator for several school districts in the area in recent years.

"There's a point at which we amateurs need to get some professional help," Dist. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Thursday. On the progress of negotiations Creek said, "We just have to wait and see."

Carl Flaks, president of the Dist. 211 Education Assn., said Wednesday, "We're anxious to get this going. We are hopeful that mediation can help." Flaks said he is "optimistic" about the progress of negotiations.

Teachers are asking for a 10 per cent increase in pay, which would raise the base salary from $9,960 to $10,956. Teachers say the increase is necessary to keep up with the cost of living.

The Dist. 211 board has offered a 6.2 per cent increase in the teachers salary schedule in addition to annual increments in pay for experience. Board negotiators have said the district is limited in its income.

Divers probe Chicago River

Latest Andrews search—nothing new

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophia Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department divers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Vail St., Arlington

Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

Incinerator opposition to be studied

Palatine's Environmental Control Board is reviewing a report written by a Palatine Park subdivision resident who is opposed to the building of a proposed incinerator in nearby Rolling Meadows.

The board will also study whether health hazards could result from the construction of such a facility.

Palatine Village Mgr. Anton Harwig said that the Environmental Control Board recently received the report from the Village Board's Health, Safety and Welfare Committee which reacted "favorably to the report."

The report was written by Harold Quist, 315 S. Greenwood, who leads the Palatine residents in their protest against the proposed incinerator site near Northwest Highway and Rolling Road. Quist compiled his report after speaking with government and professional engineers who did not think that the incinerator as proposed by Basic Engineering from Chicago would not meet the specifications of the Environmental Protection Agency," Quist said.

Harwig said that he has still not received a reply to a letter he sent two weeks ago to Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer on behalf of the Palatine Village Board and residents in protest of the proposed incinerator site.

"We've sent a letter of protest, and that's all the village or the Palatine Park residents can do now. Even if Rolling Meadows buys the land, even if they zone it for heavy industrial use in order (Continued on Page 6)

Fireworks operator under state scrutiny

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

HIS NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 4, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks' nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

charged with illegal storage of explosives, operation of an illegal fireworks factory building, reckless conduct and criminal damage to property.

Charges against Cartolano were subsequently dropped, but earlier this year he pleaded guilty to the corporate charges and was fined $4,000.

Sponsors of the local displays said the firm and another predecessor firm, Carpentersville Fireworks Co. have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpentersville firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 9, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Man charged with homicide after accident

A Rolling Meadows man has been charged with reckless homicide after an accident Sunday morning that killed a Palatine man.

Donald Edwards, 31, of 2602 Park St., was released Tuesday at the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on a $2,000 personal recognizance bond after arraignment.

Edwards has been charged with improper backing, leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, and driving under suspension.

Edwards allegedly struck Joseph C. Kowalczyk, 55, of 833 E. Morris Dr., in front of Dury Nello's West Irish Pub, 53 N. Bothwell, early Sunday morning. Kowalczyk had been attending a celebration after his son's wedding and was crossing North Railroad Drive, walking toward a parking lot, when he was struck.

Edwards struck Kowalczyk when backing out of a parking space in front of the pub, and struck the victim a second time while proceeding eastbound, police said. Edwards allegedly stopped the car about 50 feet away from the scene of the accident and left the scene on foot.

Edwards is scheduled to appear in court on July 18.

to build an incinerator there, we can't do anything more until the city actually starts taking bids for the construction of such a facility," Harvig said.

THE ROLLING Meadows City Council authorized purchase of 6.71 acres of land near Northwest Highway and Rohlfing Road, at their Tuesday night meeting. The tract has been mentioned as a possible site for a municipal incinerator. The purchasing of the land is contingent on the right of the city to sell revenue bonds to pay for it.

At a meeting of Palatine Park homeowners Wednesday night, Quist said that he felt that efforts could still be made to protest the building of an incinerator even though the project is still premature.

Quist will appear before the Environmental Control Board and the Health Board of Palatine in order to plead the homeowners' protest. Palatine Park Homeowners have also begun circulating petitions to present to the Palatine Village Board in opposition to the facility.

Kenneth Dopp, acting director of the Palatine Health Department, said he objected to the placement of an incinerator near Palatine Park or anywhere near any residential area from a personal, aesthetic, and health standpoint.

Parks withhold check to pay builder

The Palatine Park District Board has refused to make a $20,000 payment to the Warchol Construction Co. because the company has not completed the Birchwood Park complex.

The board failed to approve the issuing of the $20,000 check to the general contractor of the $922,000 project at its Tuesday night meeting. Warchol's contract with the park district calls for total payment of $623,000. The district already has paid the company $311,000 for its work on the complex.

Fred Hall, park district director, said that the board will not make the payment to the company until it finishes grating, painting, truck painting, repairing and adjusting various equipment and portions of the new complex.

"These are lots of little things that should have been done by now and haven't been. The contractor gives no particular reason for not having this work finished, but he won't be paid again until it is," Hall said.

Hall will request that the board approve the $20,000 payment at its next meeting in two weeks if the work has been completed by that time.

Late morning trains bring gripes from commuters

by RONALD NORBERG

"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday. Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:20 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schrickel, 1127 E. Soyley, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months. A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 16 freight train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which caused damage to the tracks has been largely responsible for the delays.

McDonald said the railway issued a "slow order" for the problem area, causing trains to reduce speed through the town. The order was rescinded two weeks ago.

Judge also cited wind and rain damage to tracks and crossings as causes of delays.

MacDonald said the railway was unable to make necessary repairs on the roadbed because of the wet weather.

HARRY STERN, chief engineer of the Illinois Commerce Commission railroad division, said wet weather has been a major problem for the railroads.

"The rain has done things to the roadbed you wouldn't believe," Stern said. "This has been an unusual year."

The railroad has been able to make repairs, but added maintenance crews often cause delays themselves while making repairs, MacDonald said.

Slow orders still exist at the Deval Crossing in Des Plaines, because of work on the Soo Line R.R. tracks, and the Dea Road crossing in Park Ridge for construction.

Officials said more work is planned for the Northwest suburban tracks and crossings this summer, but declined to say where and when the repairs would take place.

"We'll try to keep the mornings and evenings clear, so repairs shouldn't slow the trains down too much," Judge said.

JUDGE SAID the railroad intends to repair uneven tracks and various crossing works.

The railway has refused to release train arrival reports from other Northwest suburbs, but officials said the 620 is the only "problem line" in the area.

MacDonald said the problems causing delays on the line have been corrected, and pointed out that with the exception of Tuesday's delay, the train has been on schedule this week.

Parade to begin at 10 a.m.

Day-long festivities to mark city's 'Fourth' celebration

Festivities throughout the day, starting with a morning motorcade and ending with an evening fireworks display, will mark the Rolling Meadows Fourth of July celebration Thursday.

City officials and civic organizations have planned activities throughout the day to take place in Kimball Hill Park and the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. Food booths, rides and games will be sponsored by a number of local groups.

Activities will start at 9 a.m. with two motorcades to tour the east and west portions of the city. Floats will be judged before the motorcades join marching units at Rolling Meadows High School at 10 a.m. for a parade through the city.

The parade route will be from the high school to Jay Ln., north Grouse Lane, west to Meadows Dr., north to Kirchhoff Road, and west to the shopping center entrance.

INCLUDED IN THE parade will be nine floats, Scouting troops and Camp Fire Girls, 4-H, the Recycling, Ecology and Beautification committee, Shriners, midget cars, Rolling Meadows High School and Carl Sandburg Junior High School bands, Teen Government, the Golden Years Club, Boys Baseball, an American Legion color guard, horses and riders, Women's Club, Jaycees, and Rolling Meadows Shopping Center Assn. floats, and a Pennsylvania artillery unit.

At 11:30 a.m. guest speaker Lt. Col. Nimrod McNair, U.S.A.F. (Ret.) will give an address.

Beginning at noon activities will take place throughout the afternoon and evening, with food, drink and amusement booths, a dunk tank, contests and free pony and train rides. Tickets for the free rides, sponsored by the Jaycees and Jayceettes, will be available all day near the food booths.

At 1 p.m. a dog show will be held, water fights for adults and children will begin and activities sponsored by the park district will begin. Free pony rides will begin at 2 p.m. and run through 7 p.m.

At 3 p.m. a softball game between city officials and members of the teen Government is planned.

A DRUM AND BUGLE corps competition is scheduled at 4 p.m. Participants will include the St. Paul Corps of St. Paul, Minn., the Southern Rebels from Metairie, La., the Frontiersmen from Kansas City, Kan., the Silver Sabers from Beaver Falls, Pa., The Cavaliers from Park Ridge and the Long Island Kingmen from Long Island, N. Y.

At dark the annual fireworks display, sponsored by the Jaycees, will be held in the park.

Information on the planned events and activities is available by calling the city hall at 394-8500.

No decision yet on annexation

There has been no decision made yet by representatives of developer John Philippe on possible legal action challenging the annexation Tuesday of the Philippe subdivision to Rolling Meadows.

Attorney Marvin Glink, who is representing Philippe, said Thursday the matter is still being studied. Glink said he plans to review the matter next week before a decision is made.

Glink told the city council Tuesday he did not think the Philippe area, bounded by Euclid Avenue, Kirchhoff, Hicks and Rohlwing roads, could be annexed to the city because contiguity of the property to the city is not certain at one location. Glink said because the status of the 1970 Brookwood apartment annexation has been questioned, the Philippe annexation might not be valid. The Brookwood complex is located at West Frontage Road and Kirchhoff Road directly south of the Philippe area.

The attorney indicated at the meeting action might be filed challenging both the Philippe and Brookwood annexations to the city.

Big boom in illegal fireworks expected

by KAREN BLECHIA

Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks' nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

charged with illegal storage of explosives, operation of an illegal fireworks factory building, reckless conduct and criminal damage to property.

Charges against Cartolano were subsequently dropped, but earlier this year he pleaded guilty to the corporate charges and was fined $4,000.

Sponsors of the local displays said the firm and another predecessor firm, Carpentersville Fireworks Co., have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpentersville firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 9, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

RICHARD RACE points the way for a skin diver from the Chicago Fire Dept. in the latest search for the Andrews of Arlington Heights, missing for four years. Arlington Heights Det. Ronald Van Raalte aided in the electronic sweep of the Ogden Slip, near the Chicago River and the Lakefront. No trace was found.

accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

The electronics boat, Neptune, owned and piloted by Richard Race of Chicago, used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Raalte. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip.

However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pete Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoals," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

JOHN RYNAK, brother of Mrs. Andrews and controller of their estate, had said earlier the slip search was a long shot at best. After Thursday's efforts, he said, "I didn't think they'd find anything. We didn't find anything three years ago and the chances would be even less today."

Portions of the Chicago River and the entrance to the slip were searched by Race in 1971. The new hunt moved to the west end and northern banks where anchored barges would have interfered with in the 1971 expedition.

Man charged with homicide after accident

A Rolling Meadows man has been charged with reckless homicide after an accident Sunday morning that killed a Palatine man.

Donald Edwards, 31, of 2802 Park St., was released Tuesday at the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on a $2,000 personal recognizance bond after arraignment.

Edwards has been charged with improper backing, leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, and driving under suspension.

Edwards allegedly struck Joseph C. Kowalezyk, 55, of 633 E. Morris Dr., in front of Dury Nelli's West Irish Pub, 55 N. Bothwell, early Sunday morning. Kowalezyk had been attending a celebration after his son's wedding and was crossing North Railroad Drive, walking toward a parking lot, when he was struck.

Edwards struck Kowalezyk when backing out of a parking space in front of the pub, and struck the victim a second time while proceeding eastbound, police said. Edwards allegedly stopped the car about 50 feet away from the scene of the accident and left the scene on foot.

Edwards is scheduled to appear in court on July 18.

Incinerator opposition

to build an incinerator there, we can't do anything more until the city actually starts taking bids for the construction of such a facility," Horwig said.

THE ROLLING MEADOWS City Council authorized purchase of 6.71 acres of land near Northwest Highway and Robling Road, at their Tuesday night meeting. The tract has been mentioned as a possible site for a municipal incinerator. The purchasing of the land is contingent on the right of the city to sell revenue bonds to pay for it.

At a meeting of Palatine Park homeowners Wednesday night, Quist said that he felt that efforts could still be made to protest the building of an incinerator even though the project is still premature.

Quist will appear before the Environmental Control Board and the Health Board of Palatine in order to plead the homeowners' protest. Palatine Park Homeowners have also begun circulating petitions to present to the Palatine Village Board in opposition to the facility.

Kenneth Dopp, acting director of the Palatine Health Department, said he objected to the placement of an incinerator near Palatine Park or anywhere near any residential area from a personal, aesthetic, and health standpoint.

The local scene

Petunias planted on road

Flower planting that had been delayed several times because of poor weather was finally completed on the south side of Kirchhoff Road in the Rolling Meadows business district.

Petunias were planted as part of the city's recycling, ecology and beautification committee's efforts for the city. Assisting in the planting were members of the Golden Years Club, Jonas Salk School's summer nature study class led by Cindy Bolanoski, Teen Government, the REB committee and individual volunteers.

The city public works department also assisted.

The Montgomery Ward and Co. store contributed soft drinks for those involved in the planting.

City census taker forms available

Persons interested in applying for census-taker positions in Rolling Meadows still may obtain applications at the city hall, 3600 Kirchhoff Rd.

The city is planning a special census this fall and will need volunteers to be trained to take the count. No specific date has been set for the census, but city officials are hopeful the count will begin by early September. It is expected to take about two weeks to complete the count.

Applicants will be required to take an aptitude test before being selected. Census takers usually earn about 11 cents per name correctly recorded for the count.

For further information, contact the city hall at 394-8500.

To quit township tax collector job

Hoffman Estates trustee now holds two positions

by NANCY COWDER

Edward Hennessy currently holds two public offices — Schaumburg Township tax collector and Hoffman Estates village trustee, a situation he created contrary to legal advice he received.

Hennessy confirmed Thursday he did not resign the township position before he was sworn in Sunday as village trustee. However, he said he would comply with a request from the township board of auditors to submit his resignation. The auditors cited conflict of interest in their vote Wednesday night to refuse Hennessy's request for a leave of absence instead.

Hennessy said Thursday he sought the leave against the advice of Township Atty. Norman Samelson because the village trustee position has only 10 months remaining in its term, while the township post extends for another 3½ years. In his letter asking for a leave, he said he feels a duty to persons who elected him to the township office, and he wished to continue supporting in county courts efforts to retain township collectors rather than placing collection responsibility with Cook County.

"I told Samelson what I was intending to do," said Hennessy Thursday afternoon. "He said he didn't think I could, but he wasn't sure. Other people had done it," Hennessy commented, and referred to a former Blue Island mayor who also served as a state representative. Hennessy also said Samelson told him if he took the trustee's oath of office, it would take precedence over the township oath.

Hennessy said he decided to proceed with the leave request. "Unless they got a legal opinion to the contrary. Legally, it shouldn't make a great deal of difference," he said.

HENNESSY ALSO said he had informed some other trustees, although he wasn't sure which ones, of his plan before he was sworn in. He did not tell Village Pres. Virginia Hayter, he said, but there was "no particular reason" for failing to do so.

Hennessy noted he would not be functioning as a collector under a leave, would not hold the title and would not collect any salary, if a salary were paid for the position. "I wasn't trying to goof anybody up," he said, and if he has done so, "they can always ungoof it."

Mrs. Hayter, informed Thursday afternoon of Hennessy's dual office holding, said she was surprised, and did not know if it is legal. She understood he had resigned the township post, and specifically asked him if he had before he was sworn as a trustee Sunday, she said.

Hennessy said Mrs. Hayter did not ask him about the resignation, but Village Clerk Helen Wozniak did, and he told her he had asked for a leave.

Before Hennessy applied for the village board appointment to the unexpired term of former trustee Diane Jensen, he said any applicant must plan on running for election to the post in April. Now he said he does not know if he will run for a full elective term next year. "I'm going to have to make up my mind in December," he said.

Teachers ignorant about drugs, say youth workers

by JUDY JOBBITT

Teachers are ignorant of the current drug scene in Schaumburg Township and cannot relate to students with drug problems, local counselors said Wednesday in a confrontation with the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Committee on Drug Abuse.

Outdated materials used in the classroom also were listed as a problem in the district's schools when youth workers, school administrators and board of education members exchanged ideas and suggestions for the Dist. 54 program Wednesday night.

The problem with the current curriculum, said Terry McGraw, Schaumburg juvenile officer, is the teacher: only knows what is in the book and usually can't answer students' questions. Teachers need more than a text to draw from to know the material thoroughly and to get students interested in the material, he said.

Joanne Reid, Hoffman Estates youth worker, agreed, saying teachers need to be more "street-wise," or know the drug terms used by the students. If the teacher can't relate to the students' knowledge of drugs, she said, the student will turn off the teacher's efforts to educate him about drugs.

She also warned against the use of "scarce tactics" to prevent students from using drugs. "Students will say 'that's not my experience. I'm not going to listen to it,'" she said.

BOARD MEMBER Margaret Pageier said the teacher didn't need to be "street-wise" since the teacher's purpose under the current program is to help the student make a better decision concerning "substance use," including alcohol and cigarettes.

McGraw said this approach will turn off students the program should reach. "If a person can relate to a kid, the kid might come to him more. It helps to SCUBA DIVER takes a breather in the latest search of the Ogden Slip for the Andrews' car. A tip from a newspaper reader led police to the unsuccessful hunt Thursday.

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophia Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Vall St., Arlington Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

THE LATEST effort to find the couple was sparked when an informant advanced a theory that they drove into the slip off East Illinois Street. The tipster came forward after reading newspaper accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

The electronics boat, Neptune, owned and piloted by Richard Race of Chicago, used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Raalte. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip.

However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pito Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoals," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

Park board opposes bike path on pipeline easement

Schaumburg park commissioners went on record Thursday night formally opposing bicycle paths in areas of a gas pipeline easement near single-family homes. Their action was taken under pressure of about 50 Weathersfield residents concerned about a recreational use proposal for an 82-foot wide strip of land owned by Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America.

It runs from I-90 at the eastern end of the village to Atcher Park on Springingsuth Road. Park Commissioners told residents the board had not been contacted by Babbitt and Associates, land planners, preparing a preliminary design for easement recreational use.

But Paul Derda, director of parks and recreation, said he had talked with Chuck Kinen of the planning firm.

"Babbitt is examining possibilities of a soft-surface path system for nonmotor vehicles in Schaumburg and part of Elk Grove Village, Derda said.

HE EMPHASIZED that areas of the easement that abut homes on both sides had never been considered. Bill Rajski, 404 Milford Ct., spoke for residents, advising the park board that homeowners do not oppose bicycle paths in alternative areas. Rajski suggested a future path system design which might include a new railroad commuter station being planned near Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Park and also along the proposed Elgin-O'Hare expressway.

In other business, commissioners assured members of Sheffield Park Homeowners Assn. that grading will be done as soon as possible at the 15-acre Hoover Park site on Springingsuth Road.

William J. Charvat, 415 Selkirk Dr., told commissioners his neighborhood is "park starved." Derda assured the homeowners that the Hoover Park site is not a low-priority project. Derda said the park was examined Thursday morning and added that he is more optimistic about completing the work.

Abandoned barn swept by blaze

Firemen in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates put out a fire Thursday night in an old barn that had been torn down earlier this week on Roselle Road, north of Wise Road, Schaumburg. Firemen reported receiving the call at 9:25.

Fireworks operator under state scrutiny

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

THE NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks' nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

firm and another predecessor firm, Carpenter Fireworks Co. have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpenter Fireworks firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 9, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

To guard against misuse of village funds

Village urged to hike officials' bonds

Schaumburg has been urged to consider spending an extra $900 per year to increase its insurance protection against public officials who might misuse village funds.

Illinois law now requires that village presidents have a $3,000 bond and clerks and village collectors each post a $5,000 bond.

Insurance covering Schaumburg officials and employees now pays a maximum of $250,000 for each claim which could result from proven cases of employee dishonesty, embezzlement or other official misconduct.

It does not now include Village Pres. Robert O. Atchey or Sandy Carosello, who serves as village clerk and collector, whose protection is limited to the amount of their bonds.

"As a matter of good business practice for each official or employee to be covered for the same amount," Edward B. Effrein, a Travelers Insurance Co. representative, suggested boosting insurance to cover all elected and appointed, including those bonded, officials and employees to $500,000.

EFFREIN TOLD finance committee members this week he believes it "urgent" for them to review his proposal but noted few communities in the area have the extended coverage. The Village of La-Grange and several fire protection districts were given as examples of municipalities who have the coverage he proposes for Schaumburg.

But committee members and Administrator John Coste expressed reluctance to recommend village board approval of the proposal.

Coste said he considers $250,000 "a lot of money to embezzle," suggesting that sum would be "hard for one person, other than the village treasurer to get his hands on." Village Treasurer Mel Schwartz is required by law to post a $500,000 bond.

"BECAUSE OF village accounting practices, we sit here and say it is impossible and can't happen until one day we wake up and find it has," Effrein replied.

Answering questions posed by Trustee Ray McArthur, Effrein said he could not entirely define the scope of "employee dishonesty" or say whether an appointed commission member proven to have accepted bribes would be covered.

$385 worth of goods stolen from auto

A camera, ten tape cassettes and a set of lug nuts all worth $385 were stolen from the car of a Hoffman Estates man while parking Wednesday at Fireside Chrysler-Plymouth, 1020 E. Golf Rd., Schaumburg.

The theft was reported to police at 6:30 p.m. The car belonging to Ronald McRay of 325 Aster Ln. was at the dealership for repairs.

INSURED

TWO CARDBOARD cartons hold five years of Schaumburg records surrendered to federal officials Thursday in answer to a grand jury subpoena.

Schaumburg data delivered to U.S.

Schaumburg village records for the past five years were compacted into two cardboard cartons for delivery Thursday to federal officials.

The documents, which included copies of all official meeting minutes, building permits, names of elected and appointed officials, employee job descriptions and payroll records, were furnished in answer to a federal grand jury subpoena served at the Civic Center June 20 by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Schaumburg ordinances and bills were not specifically requested in the subpoena, said Sylvia Parsons, secretary to Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher. Earlier this week, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said he interpreted the subpoena as calling for complete municipal records back to 1969.

While the subpoena called for copies of department heads' contracts, Mrs. Parsons said that request was interpreted as job descriptions.

SHE SAID RECORDS of zoning board hearings represented one of the largest stacks placed in the two cartons, explaining that another space-saver was used when more than one short form building permit was reproduced on a number of legal size sheets.

Four or five boxes of Wheeling records were delivered in response to a similar federal grand jury subpoena last year while a year ago Hoffman Estates records from 1964 to 1969 were taken to Thompson's office in one carton.

The subpoena and recent assignment of federal investigators to the probe represents a quickening of pace in the investigation launched almost a year ago by U. S. Atty. James Thompson's office.

Reportedly, no grand jury testimony has been taken in the Schaumburg investigation, although members of Thompson's staff and Internal Revenue Service agents have conducted interviews with several developers and former village officials.

Railroad admits problem

Commuters gripe about late trains

by RONALD NORBERG

"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday.

Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:20 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schrickel, 1127 E. Sayles, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months.

A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 16 freight train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which caused damage to the tracks has been largely responsible for the delays.

McDonald said the railway issued a "slow order" for the problem area, causing trains to reduce speed through the town. The order was rescinded two weeks ago.

Judge also cited wind and rain damage to tracks and crossings as causes of delays.

MacDonald said the railway was unable to make necessary repairs on the roadbeds because of the wet weather.

HARRY STERN, chief engineer of the Illinois Commerce Commission railroad division, said wet weather has been a major problem for the railroads.

"The rain has done things to the roadbed you wouldn't believe," Stern said. "This has been an unusual year."

The railroad has been able to make repairs, but added maintenance crews often cause delays themselves while making repairs, MacDonald said.

Slow orders still exist at the Deval Crossing in Des Plaines, because of work on the Soo Line R.R. tracks, and the Deo Road crossing in Park Ridge for construction.

Officials said more work is planned for the Northwest suburban tracks and crossings this summer, but declined to say where and when the repairs would take place.

"We'll try to keep the mornings and evenings clear, so repairs shouldn't slow the trains down too much," Judge said.

JUDGE SAID the railroad intends to repair uneven tracks and various crossing works.

The railway has refused to release train arrival reports from other Northwest suburbs, but officials said the 620 is the only "problem line" in the area.

MacDonald said the problems causing delays on the line have been corrected, and pointed out that with the exception of Tuesday's delay, the train has been on schedule this week.

'Teachers ignorant on drugs'

know a little street-talk, even without knowing what it means. It can relax the situation," he said.

One of the counselors present pointed to the Local Dope Sheet as a way he has kept up with the latest terms. The dope sheet is put out about once a month by the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth and the Village of Hoffman Estates. It lists the drugs being sold on the street with their description, the analyzed content, whenever possible, and harmful side effects.

Youth workers also expressed concern about physical education teachers teaching the drug curriculum. Joseph Rinella, Hoffman Estates juvenile officer, said the "jocks" and the "freaks" are on opposite sides of the fence. To have the "head jock," or the one who epitomizes physical education in the school, teach about drugs will turn off the "freaks," (those who use drugs), he said.

Junior high school administrators will look into having guidance counselors and nurses teach the material next year to help correct that problem.

BOARD MEMBER Ariene Czajkowski asked if the program should be started at a younger grade level than the current fourth grade to help prevent students from trying drugs.

William Stakus, Dooley School principal and chairman of the curriculum committee, said the current program starts teaching attitudes toward the misuse of drugs and other substances at the kindergarten level. The technical terms are brought into the curriculum in the fourth grade.

Larry Walker, Schaumburg Township youth director, also requested that workers such as himself be included in the evaluation of drug materials to help keep them updated. He stressed again the importance of teachers keeping up with the latest talk and literature available, material he receives regularly, he said.

TWO PROGRAMS to get parent involvement in the drug problem also were discussed.

Fireworks operator under state scrutiny

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

HIS NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of fireworks traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

ently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Holdup on Maryville plans won't delay construction

A delay in presenting drawings of the new Maryville school to the Illinois Capital Development Board will probably not cause a delay in the start of construction tentatively set for this fall, according to officials in River-Trail District 28.

Supt. John Fridlund said Thursday architects from the firm of Fields, Goldman and Magee of Mount Vernon, who are in charge of the project, have changed their timetable for presenting design plans to the ICDB. The architects were to have gone before the ICDB this week, but that schedule was changed and Fridlund said he is now waiting for the firm to let him know what the revised timetable is.

The ICDB, which is providing approximately $1 million toward construction of the new school, is scheduled to meet July 11. However, school officials have received no word that Maryville plans will be on the agenda.

Anthony J. Siro, the architect in charge of the project, and Fred Knoche, the ICDB official overseeing the matter, were both unavailable for comment Thursday.

IN ADDITION TO cancellation of this week's ICDB hearing, a scheduled Aug. 6 meeting, in which final approval of the plans was expected, has also been cancelled.

In May ICDB officials viewed conceptual drawings of the proposed school but instructed architects to develop more detail for the building and resubmit the plans.

Fridlund, who attended the May hearing in Springfield, said officials at that time indicated their satisfaction with the preliminary concepts. The officials, however, asked that information such as the actual number of room facilities for the school be included before final ICDB approval is given.

The Dist. 28 board of education has already approved the conceptual plans, which call for a one-story, 30,000-square-foot building.

THE NEW SCHOOL will replace River Road School, which serves students from Maryville Academy in Des Plaines. Maryville children are wards of the state.

River Road School must be replaced because it does not meet state life-safety codes. The new school will be located on the Maryville Academy grounds, as is River Road.

The five acre site on Gregory St. and River Rd., Des Plaines, where the new school will be located, was purchased for $75,000 by Dist. 28 from the Chicago Archdiocese, which owns and operates Maryville Academy.

District officials have said they hope to let bids for construction of the new school in September. According to a tentative timetable, Fridlund has said construction could be completed by early next year and the school may be ready for occupancy sometime during the 1974-75 school year.

Late morning trains bring commuter gripes

by RONALD NORBERG

"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday.

Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:20 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schriekel, 1127 E. Sayles, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months.

A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 16 freight train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which caused damage to the tracks has been largely responsible for the delays.

MacDonald said the railway issued a "slow order" for the problem area, causing trains to reduce speed through the town. The order was rescinded two weeks ago.

Judge also cited wind and rain damage to tracks and crossings as causes of delays.

MacDonald said the railway was unable to make necessary repairs on the roadbeds because of the wet weather.

HARRY STERN, chief engineer of the Illinois Commerce Commission railroad division, said wet weather has been a major problem for the railroads.

"The rain has done things to the roadbed you wouldn't believe," Stern said. "This has been an unusual year."

The railroad has been able to make repairs, but added maintenance crews often cause delays themselves while making repairs, MacDonald said.

Slow orders still exist at the Deval Crossing in Des Plaines, because of work on the Soo Line R.R. tracks, and the Dee Road crossing in Park Ridge for construction.

Officials said more work is planned for the Northwest suburban tracks and crossings this summer, but declined to say where and when the repairs would take place.

"We'll try to keep the mornings and evenings clear, so repairs shouldn't slow the trains down too much," Judge said.

JUDGE SAID the railroad intends to repair uneven tracks and various crossing works.

The railway has refused to release train arrival reports from other Northwest suburbs, but officials said the 620 is the only "problem line" in the area.

MacDonald said the problems causing delays on the line have been corrected, and pointed out that with the exception of Tuesday's delay, the train has been on schedule this week.

SCUBA DIVER takes a breather in the latest search of the Ogden Slip for the Andrews' car. A tip from a newspaper reader led police to the unsuccessful hunt Thursday.

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophia Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Vail St., Arlington Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

THE LATEST effort to find the couple was sparked when an informant advanced a theory that they drove into the slip off East Illinois Street. The tipster came forward after reading newspaper accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

The electronics boat, Neptune, owned and piloted by Richard Race of Chicago, used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Raalte. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip.

However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pete Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoals," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

JOHN RYNAK, brother of Mrs. Andrews and controller of their estate, had said earlier the slip search was a long shot at best. After Thursday's efforts, he said, "I didn't think they'd find anything. We didn't find anything three years ago and the chances would be even less today."

Portions of the Chicago River and the entrance to the slip were searched by Race in 1971. The new hunt moved to the west end and northern banks where anchored barges would have interfered with in the 1971 expedition.

Northwest suburb pioneer William Rohlwing, 81, dies

William Rohlwing, a member of one of the founding families of the Northwest suburbs, died Thursday at the American Nursing Center in Arlington Heights. He was 81.

Mr. Rohlwing, of 901 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect, was a lifetime resident of the Northwest suburbs, where his family settled in the mid-1800s. He remained active in local affairs until April 3, 1973, when he stepped down as Elk Grove Township supervisor, with the advice: "Let some of the younger fellows take over."

The flag outside the township hall at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, was lowered to half-staff Thursday as word of his death spread.

Richard Hall, who succeeded Mr. Rohlwing as township supervisor, called him "a fine gentleman" who "did a great job as supervisor. Everyone thought very highly of him, for the man he was and the job he did. We all very much regret his death."

Mr. Rohlwing was born Sept. 20, 1892, when the suburbs consisted of a few small villages surrounded by miles of farmland. "I never expected it would grow the way it did," he said in an interview last year.

Mr. Rohlwing took over the farm of his father, John, upon his death in 1908. Rohlwing Road was named for John Rohlwing.

The Rohlwing family farm was located near Illinois Rtes. 53 and 58 until 1958, when the property was sold. Part of it went to the Cook County Forest Preserve District and part to a private developer who turned it into the Woodfield Mall.

Before becoming township supervisor in 1953, Mr. Rohlwing had served as township tax collector.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9:30 p.m. today at Haire Funeral Home, Northwest Highway and Vall Avenue in Arlington Heights. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Peter Lutheran Church, 208 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg. Burial will be at the church cemetery.

Three assist at Girl Scout camp

Three Mount Prospect girls helped to direct a Girl Scout day camp comprised of 22 youngsters from local trailer camps and migrant worker quarters. Professional Girl Scout people recruited the girls six to 12 years of age who were at the Brownie and Junior level of the girls' organization.

The young people were bused to Lion's Park field house for eight days of activity over a two week period. Swimming was done at Kopp and Lions park pools. The project, called Camp Allegre, was sponsored by the Northwest Cook County Girl Scouts.

The local Girl Scout helpers were Kathi Molloy, 108 S. Ioka; Mary Kwidd, 103 S. Ioka, and Liz Skanlerud, 102 S. Elmhurst. All three are sophomores at Prospect High School.

FIVE FOREST VIEW High School seniors recently were awarded almost $2,000 in scholarships from the school's Performing Arts Scholarship Fund.

Welfare expenditures down for year

Elk Grove Township spent less money on welfare and handled fewer general assistance cases during the 1973-74 fiscal year than it did the year before.

Total general assistance costs were down 9 per cent, from $30,578 in 1972-73, to $27,853 in 1973-74, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. Thirty fewer cases were handled and 92 fewer persons received aid during 1973-74, he said. This is a 7.6 per cent reduction.

The 1973-74 fiscal year ended Feb. 28. A person can apply for welfare if he is "broke, has no job and no savings," township welfare worker Margaret Blaschke said. Townships can provide general assistance emergency money while the person is waiting to be put on county welfare rolls, a process which takes at least 30 days.

GENERAL ASSISTANCE cases are those which cannot be referred to the state under categories such as "dependent children" or "medical disabilities," Mrs. Blaschke said. For example, a childless couple, both aged under 65, with no handicaps would qualify for general assistance.

The number of assistance cases usually goes down in the summer, but this hasn't been true this year, Mrs. Blaschke said. She said it's probably because the work market is so bad, with strikes and layoffs.

Usually, a suburban family may need aid only once, she said. For example, a wage earner may have been injured on the job and hadn't yet received insurance benefits.

A person on strike may be eligible for welfare if he is not receiving unemployment compensation, she said. However, a person collecting unemployment payments is considered to be earning enough to cover his family, she said.

Mrs. Blaschke can be reached at the township office, 437-0300. General assistance cases are handled between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 and 4 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The township hall is located at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Flood control, senior citizens, mental health

Voters OK revenue sharing funds for three projects

Elk Grove Township voters unanimously approved Thursday night three requests for use of federal revenue sharing funds.

Sixty-three township voters attended the special 25-minute township meeting, called to consider petitions asking for funds for flood control, senior citizens' services and mental health services.

The electorate approved the transfer of $4,500 in revenue sharing funds to the Elk Grove Road and Bridge fund. The money will be used to pay for dredging and widening Roppolo Creek, between Higgins Road and Dierke Road.

The work is almost completed, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. The township began the project without having the funds in order to take advantage of a low bid, Hall said.

NEXT, THE ELECTORATE approved distributing $10,000 in revenue sharing funds to Senior Citizens of Elk Grove Township Inc., a not-for-profit and non-sectarian organization. No questions were raised and the issue passed unanimously.

The money will be used for a senior citizens' news letter and bus service. Township officials originally budgeted $15,000 for the newsletter and $20,000 for the bus but were prevented from distributing the money according to interpretation of a state law by Ill. Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. The law states that townships may only spend revenue sharing funds for programs allowed under Illinois law. Transportation systems would not qualify.

Elk Grove and Wheeling townships filed suit in Federal Court recently, asking that Scott's interpretation be overruled.

Wheeling Township Atty. Richard Cowin told Elk Grove Township officials that under Illinois law they could allocate up to $10,000 for a not-for-profit and non-sectarian group.

According to state statute, the township may present a resolution at a special township meeting that would allow non-tax revenue to provide services for senior citizens.

HALL SAID ACTIONS taken at Thursday's meeting would guarantee the continuance of such programs regardless of what the courts say about the law.

Voters also authorized the board of auditors to provide funds to various mental health services. This action enabled the auditors to give $83,000 to the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Mental Health Center and $22,000 to Clearbrook Center for the Mentally Retarded in Rolling Meadows. The two centers have requested funds from the township and the money was included in the township's 1974-75 budget.

Schools hire 21 new teachers

Twenty-one new teachers have been hired by the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education for the 1974-75 school year. Three teachers also will return from leaves in September.

The following new teachers have been assigned to River Trails Junior High School: John Curtin, social studies; Janet Marshall, social studies; Laura Krichewsky, language arts; Janet White, two-thirds position as French teacher; Margaret Schmidt, one-third position speech and drama teacher, and John Dean McPherson, science.

Assigned to Park View School are Jessey White, first grade; Diane Doyle, kindergarten; Larry Lesperance, learning disability, and Myrna Wernick, second grade.

BOND SCHOOL will acquire Janet Leonard, intermediate level; Naomi Ikoma, primary level; Catherine Oyen, intermediate learning team, and Lynn Ann Hughes, upper intermediate.

Three teachers assigned to Euclid School are Susan Brown, first grade; Joy Sandlund, part-time kindergarten, and Florence Yaroch, third grade.

Joining the staff at Feehanville School will be Brodina Luckie, second grade, and Anna Baghdaddy, sixth grade.

Marlene Harrington has been assigned as a junior high teacher at River Road School and Norma Thomas has been hired as a school psychologist.

Teachers returning from leave include Jarda Martin, who has been assigned as a fifth grade teacher at Euclid; Janet Mirsky, assigned as a sixth grade teacher at Park View, and Diane Muehrer, who will teach speech and language development at River Road School.

Thief 'collects' mail for agency

A bundle of mail, which may have contained as much as $4,500 in checks, was stolen Wednesday from the Mount Prospect Post Office, 202 E. Evergreen Ave. The mail was addressed to the Midwest Certified Insurance Agency and Doctors Special Services Ltd. both at 1720 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

Mount Prospect police said the mail was picked up at the post office before 8:45 a.m. Wednesday by a man about 50 years old and with graying hair. The postal clerk who handed over the mail to the man did not ask for any identification, police said.

On an average day, police said, the insurance agency receives between $1,000 and $1,500 in payments through the mail. The doctors' service, which is a collection agency for eight area doctors, averages from $2,000 to $3,000 a day in receipts, police said.

According to police, it is not unusual to have one of two employees of the two firms pick up the mail in the morning at the post office. On Wednesday, each of the pair thought the other had already picked up the mail until they discovered hours later that neither had.

Car stolen from lot

A white 1964 Dodge Dart, valued at $200, was stolen this week from a parking lot behind 1832 W. Palm Dr., Mount Prospect police said.

The car, owned by Debbie H. Cluck of that address, was stolen between 5 p.m. Sunday and 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Police also reported Thursday the theft of a 1972 Honda motorcycle, owned by William Zuccaro, 1700 W. Palm Dr. The $1,200 blue-and-white motorcycle was stolen from a parking lot behind Zuccaro's residence sometime between 2 and 7 a.m. Monday.

Three hurt in accident

Three persons were injured slightly Wednesday in two separate automobile accidents in Mount Prospect.

Louis Dolin, 63, of Margate, Fla., was treated and then released from Holy Family Hospital after a 3:04 p.m. accident on Rand Road and Elmhurst Road. Dolin was a passenger in a car driven by Jurdan Dolin, 16, of Niles.

Police have charged the other driver, Kenneth R. Havelka, 39, of Chicago, with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and failure to give information on an accident. Police said Havelka did not stop after the collision and was later captured by Des Plaines police in Des Plaines. He will appear Aug. 7 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Both cars were southeastbound on Rand Road when Havelka's vehicle allegedly struck the Dolin vehicle in the rear.

The second accident occurred at 5:46 p.m. on Kensington Road at Wheeling Road and two persons were slightly injured.

Taken to Holy Family Hospital for treatment were the driver of one car, Cullen A. O'Rourke, 20, of 732 Timothy Ln., Des Plaines, and a passenger in the second car, Ruby I. Craig, 45, of 1156 N. Wheeling Rd., Mount Prospect. The driver of the second car, Robert S. Craig, 45, also of 1156 N. Wheeling Rd., was not injured, police said.

According to police, Miss O'Rourke's vehicle struck the Craig vehicle in the rear while the Craig vehicle was stopped to make a left turn. Miss O'Rourke was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and will appear Aug. 7 in the Mount Prospect court.

School renovations set this summer

Extensive renovation and repair work at four schools in River Trails Dist. 26 will continue this summer in preparation for the upcoming school year.

A major portion of the work, including improvements designed to bring the schools into compliance with state life safety codes, will be done by private contractors who have been awarded bids by the board of education.

The schools slated for life safety work include Euclid, Feenhanville and Indian Grove elementary schools and River Trails Junior High School.

Contractors who will be working in the district include Edwin Anderson Construction Co., which was awarded a $49,725 bid to do general contracting work; Usher Brothers Heating Co., awarded a $70,145 bid; Klorek Electric Co., awarded a $15,725 bid, and Boice Roofing Co., awarded a $31,655 bid.

The companies will be working on various projects at the schools, including replacing thermostats and unit ventilators, installing trash compactors and removing incinerators, installing relief valves on water mains and installing new roofs.

IN ADDITION, Anderson Construction was awarded an additional $28,000 bid by the board to do earthwork and paving at Feenhanville, Euclid and River Trails Junior High.

The work was required in order to bring the schools into compliance with the state's codes. Failure to comply with state standards can be cause for closing the schools.

The board sold $250,000 in bonds last year to finance the cost of the project. Although exterior and interior lighting were to have been included in the life safety work, bids for this portion of the project were in excess of the architect's estimate, forcing postponement of the lighting work.

Plans readied for '4th' parade

The Prospect Heights Lions Club in conjunction with the Prospect Heights Little League is readying plans for the area's 15th annual Fourth of July parade.

The parade, which will include decorated cars, trucks and floats, will begin at 9 a.m. at the intersection of Camp McDonald Rd. and Rt. 83. The exact route the parade will follow will be posted July 3 at the Prospect Heights Fire Station, 8½ E. Camp McDonald Rd.

The route will end at the Lions Park Complex, Camp McDonald Rd. and Elm St. Trophies will be presented there to the best decorated cars, trucks and floats. A trophy will also be presented to the best decorated bicycle, but bikes will not be allowed in the parade.

Organizations who wish to participate in the parade are asked to call parade chairman Joe Lesniak at 253-1548 or co-chairman Pete Losurdi at 253-2261.

Dinner to honor ex-trustee

An appreciation dinner will be sponsored tonight for Patrick J. Link, who resigned last month as a Mount Prospect village trustee.

The dinner is being organized by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, a conglomerate of homeowners' groups from Northeast Mount Prospect, where Link lives. Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8, at the Old Orchard Country Club. Tickets, at $7.25 per person, are available from Ron Burton, 296-6805.

Schools give Music for Youth financial boost

Music for Youth, a non-profit organization which provides Suzuki stringed instrument instruction for students, received a financial boost Thursday night from Arlington Heights School Dist. 25.

The board of education, in a 6-1 vote, approved a fund of $3,000 for before and after school repertoire and orchestra activities. The fund will provide youngsters with at least 230 hours of workshop instruction.

Julius Miller, board president of Music for Youth, approached school members several times for financial support. Currently the organization is faced with an approximate $250 deficit, Miller said.

BOTH SUZUKI and private lesson students participated in the orchestra sessions last fall. Parents of Suzuki students were asked to donate tuition for their lessons. About 170 children enrolled last year.

The money by the school district will help defray the cost of teacher salaries, Miller said, adding that the salaries must increase in order to retain good teachers.

The extracurricular sessions will be open this fall to all stringed instruments students in the community. Students attending schools other than those in Dist. 25 also are eligible.

PARENTS OF PARTICIPATING students will be asked for contributions, but a student whose parents cannot or will not donate will be allowed to attend, Miller said.

"We started the Suzuki program way ahead of anyone else," said Miller. "We're known throughout the country for it."

The Suzuki program in which students learn to play by imitating on scaled down instruments was sponsored by the district several years ago, but because of financial difficulties it was dissolved. Hundreds of students were enrolled in the popular program. Last year the school board reinstated the band portion of music instruction but left the stringed instruments program in the hands of Music for Youth.

SCUBA DIVER takes a breather in the latest search of the Ogden Slip for the Andrews' car. A tip from a newspaper reader led police to the unsuccessful hunt Thursday.

Nothing new

Divers, search boats return to Chicago River seeking clues in Andrews case; nothing found

by JOE SWICKARD

Another frustrating chapter in the four-year-old search for Edward and Sophia Andrews was written Thursday at the Ogden Slip, on Chicago's Near North Side.

A special electronically outfitted boat and two Chicago Fire Department cruisers swept the barge canal for some trace of the Andrews or their 1969 Oldsmobile, without success.

The Andrews, 738 S. Vail St., Arlington Heights, vanished May 15, 1970, after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel on Michigan Avenue. They were last seen driving toward the Chicago River on the lower level of Michigan Avenue.

THE LATEST effort to find the couple was sparked when an informant advanced a theory that they drove into the slip off East Illinois Street. The tipster came forward after reading newspaper accounts marking the fourth anniversary of their disappearance.

The electronics boat, Neptune, owned and piloted by Richard Race of Chicago, used sonar and other scanning devices to hunt for the couple's car. The fire department boats stood by with divers in case the Neptune located any objects that could have been the Andrews car.

Race was assisted by Arlington Heights Police Det. Ronald Van Raalte. He and other members of the force have tracked down hundreds of leads and tips in the four-year mystery.

Race said there were several possible soundings near the west end of the slip.

However, the fire department divers, Bob Henney and Pete Tomaszewicz, found nothing.

RACE SAID the slip is about 20 feet deep but objects were located within six to 12 feet of the surface. "They could just be shoals," Race said.

The divers said visibility was limited to a foot and much of the exploration had to be done by touch. They reported slip bed was covered with clay mud.

Divers worked their way east along the bank of the slip, looking for objects in the shallower portion. Lines had to be attached to the divers because of the murky water.

Lt. Fred Wirtz of the Chicago Fire Department marine unit said the search was unlikely to have any success. "It's like looking for the needle in the haystack in there," he said.

JOHN RYNAK, brother of Mrs. Andrews and controller of their estate, had said earlier the slip search was a long shot at best. After Thursday's efforts, he said, "I didn't think they'd find anything. We didn't find anything three years ago and the chances would be even less today."

Portions of the Chicago River and the entrance to the slip were searched by Race in 1971. The new hunt moved to the west end and northern banks where anchored barges would have interfered with in the 1971 expedition.

The search Thursday, as well as the one three years ago, was paid for by Rynak.

The slip was ringed by spectators leaving nearby offices for lunch.

Rynak said the search would be called off. He said the search for his brother-in-law and sister is set back to square one.

Late morning trains bring commuter gripes

by RONALD NORBERG

"The 620 was the sort of train you could set your watch by," James MacDonald, spokesman for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said Thursday.

Recently, however, conditions along the route have forced delays, and as a result, Northwest suburban commuters are grumbling.

The North Western has been late in the past several months on certain runs, especially the 620, which is supposed to leave Palatine at 7:20 a.m.

"I've been on time for work about three days this month," Donald Schriekel, 1127 E. Sayles, Palatine, told The Herald Wednesday. "The train averages about 10 minutes late every morning."

Claude Krejci, 1318 Algonquin Road, Schaumburg, said the 620 is "10 to 15 minutes late three out of five times per week."

RAILROAD OFFICIALS have acknowledged the delays, but Thomas Judge, public affairs representative, said the train has only been "about four or five minutes late" for the past two months.

A notable exception occurred Tuesday when engine trouble forced the 620 to be 17 minutes late arriving downtown, Judge said.

Railroad officials said a May 16 freight train derailment in Heartland, Ill., which (Continued on Page 6)

by MARCIA KRAMER and KAREN BLECHA

A fireworks firm whose president has been repeatedly charged with state and federal violations has been commissioned to conduct Fourth of July fireworks displays in four Northwest suburbs.

Anthony T. Cartolano of Orland Park, president of the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co. of Huntley, Ill., has been cited for numerous safety and operating violations, according to a recent 338-page comprehensive report on fireworks prepared by the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission (ILIC).

Charles Siragusa, executive director of the commission, told The Herald Thursday: "My own personal view is that it would be inadvisable to permit him to operate" because of his frequent violations. Cartolano could not be reached for comment Thursday.

HIS NEW MELROSE firm has been hired to provide Independence Day fireworks displays next week in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

According to the commission, Cartolano and a predecessor company he owned, Melrose Display Fireworks Co., Orland Park, were indicted by a Cook County grand jury in 1972. The indictment stemmed from a massive explosion at the Orland Park plant on March 6, 1972, which killed three persons and injured 16. The company was Bootleg whiskey. Bootleg rum. In Prohibition, they ran booze. Today, the cargo is fireworks.

Fireworks in Illinois is a bootlegger's market. And, according to state officials, they've got everything to sell from boom, bang, pop to sparkle and fizz. Fireworks may be illegal in the state, but it looks like next week's Fourth of July celebration will be as noisy as ever.

"I expect fireworks will again be sold in Illinois this year. There's a certain proportion of fireworks' nuts in the state," said Charles Siragusa, head of the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission.

THE COMMISSION, which recently finished a study of firework traffic in Illinois, found that state fireworks laws are poorly enforced and the penalties inadequate. The committee also discovered a network of distributors who purchase fireworks illegally from companies in Illinois and out of state and sell them wholesale to minor distributors.

"What is particularly vicious about this bootleg traffic is that unauthorized persons, including youngsters, are buying these dangerous commodities that can and have resulted in death and injuries," the commission reported.

Most of the bootlegging action is in the Chicago area, according to commission spokesmen. The minor distributors sell their wares to a retail market. By the time the consumer gets his firecracker, the markup can be as high as 300 per cent.

This is the prime source for fireworks in Illinois, according to the commission. But they found that vacationers are still bringing back the illegal explosives from states like Indiana, Missouri and Tennessee where certain types of fireworks are still legal.

TO MAKE MATTERS harder for law enforcement officials, (Continued on page 7)

firm and another predecessor firm, Carpentersville Fireworks Co. have been employed in the past and performed satisfactorily.

CARTOLANO, WHO WAS general manager of the Carpentersville firm, bought it after his Orland Park plant was destroyed and formed the New Melrose Fireworks Display Co.

The firm was issued a certificate of registration by the Division of Fire Prevention of the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement last Aug. 17, in spite of a July 9, 1973, letter from State Fire Marshal Barney Sadowski that rejected an earlier application, citing code violations at the New Melrose plant.

According to the commission, "Apparently Cartolano applied for and received a hearing on the violations, but the fire marshal had no written record of that hearing." Both Sadowski and his assistant, Richard Dorband, were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The New Melrose firm's application for a federal license to operate explosives was rejected June 20 because the plant did not meet federal requirements including safe storage of explosives.

NICHOLAS VOINOVICH of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms bureau of the U.S. Treasury Dept. said of Cartolano: "He is not a convicted felon. He is borderline but has done nothing that would permit us to deny him a license" if the regulations are met. Failure to possess a federal license means New Melrose is not authorized to ship explosives out of state; however, as long as the firm is licensed by the state, it can operate within Illinois.

Still pending against Cartolano is a case in McHenry County Circuit Court stemming from an illegal sale of fireworks to undercover agents for the McHenry County Sheriff's police June 15 and 16, 1973.

The New Melrose plant in Huntley, which is in McHenry County, was closed after a complaint was filed with police that fireworks were being discharged, but the plant was reopened two weeks later.

Northwest suburban pioneer

William Rohlwing, 81, dies

William Rohlwing, a member of one of the founding families of the Northwest suburbs, died Thursday at the American Nursing Center in Arlington Heights. He was 81.

Mr. Rohlwing, of 801 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect, was a lifetime resident of the Northwest suburbs, where his family settled in the mid-1800s. He remained active in local affairs until April 3, 1973, when he stepped down as Elk Grove Township supervisor, with the advice: "Let some of the younger fellows take over."

The flag outside the township hall at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, was lowered to half-staff Thursday as word of his death spread.

Richard Hall, who succeeded Mr. Rohlwing as township supervisor, called him "a fine gentleman" who "did a great job as supervisor. Everyone thought very highly of him, for the man he was and the job he did. We all very much regret his death."

Mr. Rohlwing was born Sept. 20, 1892, when the suburbs consisted of a few small villages surrounded by miles of farmland. "I never expected it would grow the way it did," he said in an inter-

Mr. Rohlwing took over the farm of his father, John, upon his death in 1903. Rohlwing Road was named for John Rohlwing.

The Rohlwing family farm was located near Illinois Rtes. 53 and 58 until 1958, when the property was sold. Part of it went to the Cook County Forest Preserve District and part to a private developer who turned it into the Woodfield Mall.

Before becoming township supervisor in 1953, Mr. Rohlwing had served as township tax collector.

Visitation will be from 2 to 9:30 p.m. today at Haire Funeral Home, Northwest Highway and Vall Avenue in Arlington Heights. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Peter Lutheran Church, 208 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg. Burial will be at the church cemetery.

Army official to discuss Nike Base with residents

Eugene Berg, assistant secretary of the Army, will come to Arlington Heights Wednesday, July 3, to discuss the Army's use of the Nike Base at Central and Wilko roads with local residents and village officials.

The meeting is being organized by U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, in the wake of an announcement Monday that the Army will retain 75 acres at the base as a reserve training center.

Invited to attend the meeting are representatives of Gen. J. Roberts, chief of the Army Reserve; Senators Charles H. Percy and Adlai E. Stevenson III. Also invited are Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood, Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, members of the Arlington Heights village and park boards, and the Citizens Committee for Utilization of the Nike Base.

The meeting will not be open to the general public, a Crane spokesman said. CRANE HAS requested that the Army:

- Disclose its exact plans for the 1,000-man reserve center.

- Maintain the grounds and buildings on the property.

- Donate any land not needed for the reserve center to the public.

- Establish a command-level office for Army-community relations.

- Open the installation for public inspection and tours.

- Stagger the hours of reserve activities so as to avoid added traffic problems around the base.

All of these measures are needed, Crane says, for the Army to maintain a "good neighbor" posture with local residents.

Members of the citizens committee and the Arlington Heights Park District had sought to acquire the Army's 75 acres in order to build a golf course at the Nike Base site.

The park district already has title to 13 acres at the Nike Base and expects to receive 52 additional acres there once held by the U. S. Navy.

by JILL BETTNER

In most suburban children, offering in busy households where there is often a working mother, school is becoming the place to learn the home arts and crafts that used to be part of every youngster's upbringing.

Bread, for example, is just one of those items to be picked up in the grocery store along with the rest of the things on the weekly shopping list. Most of us don't have any idea of how to go about baking it from scratch.

But children in a home crafts class in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 are learning how to make bread and getting the opportunity to try their hand at a variety of other domestic arts as well.

THE CLASSES AT Irving School in Buffalo Grove is part of the summer school program in Dist. 21, which serves, besides Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and portions of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect. The program is free to residents of the district for the first time this year.

The majority of the 2,400 children enrolled in the program are participating in classes like the home crafts session called "enrichment courses."

Part of the intent of the summer program is to give youngsters a chance through these courses to explore their creativity and develop a wide range of talent and abilities.

The enrichment courses span all subjects, designed to stimulate the imagination. Involve kids in activities there isn't always time for during the regular school year and generally widen their horizons.

COOKING IS ONE OF those activities that a lot of Dist. 21 children don't have an opportunity to try in the regular year because of a lack of facilities. Although some local schools have classrooms with stoves or refrigerators to be used by students in special education sections, most do not.

Irving is equipped with the kitchen appliances and teachers of the home crafts class are taking good advantage of them to give children a taste of preparing a variety of foods.

The group of about 43 children, under the guidance of three teachers, prepares complete meals twice a week. The youngsters have made tacos, scrambled eggs, bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches and other simple things.

"The kids really enjoy anything to do with cooking," said Cheryl Keifer, one of the home crafts teachers. "A lot of them don't get the chance during the year and besides, in a situation with 38 kids in the class or something like that, not everybody gets to have a hand in what's going on."

MRS. KEIFER ADDED that although the class is intended more for fun than to provide academic instruction, the kids are picking up some new math skills in measuring ingredients and using recipes.

Besides cooking, the children are making sandcast plaques and working on several other art projects including weaving, stitching, candlemaking, cloth-printing and sculpture with baker's clay.

More local children are attending summer sessions in Dist. 21 this year than ever before, although enrollment always has been high, according to Marjorie Beu, assistant superintendent for curriculum. Last year, almost 2,200 students signed up for courses.

The classes, which meet from 8:40 a.m. to 12:07 daily, will continue through July 12, excluding the Fourth of July.

Voters OK spending U.S. revenue funds

Elk Grove Township voters unanimously approved Thursday night three requests for use of federal revenue sharing funds.

Sixty-three township voters attended the special 25-minute township meeting, called to consider petitions asking for funds for flood control, senior citizens' services and mental health services.

The electorate approved the transfer of $4,500 in revenue sharing funds to the Elk Grove Road and Bridge fund. The money will be used to pay for dredging and widening Roppolo Creek, between Higgins Road and Dierke Road.

The work is almost completed, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. The township began the project without having the funds in order to take advantage of a low bid, Hall said.

NEXT, THE ELECTORATE approved distributing $10,000 in revenue sharing funds to Senior Citizens of Elk Grove Township Inc., a not-for-profit and non-sectarian organization. No questions were raised and the issue passed unanimously.

The money will be used for a senior citizens' news letter and bus service. Township officials originally budgeted $15,000 for the newsletter and $20,000 for the bus but were prevented from distributing the money according to interpretation of a state law by Ill. Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. The law states that townships may only spend revenue sharing funds for programs allowed under Illinois law. Transportation systems would not qualify.

Elk Grove and Wheeling townships filed suit in Federal Court recently, asking that Scott's interpretation be overruled.

Wheeling Township Atty. Richard Cowin told Elk Grove Township officials that under Illinois law they could allocate up to $10,000 for a not-for-profit and non-sectarian group.

According to state statute, the township may present a resolution at a special township meeting that would allow non-tax revenue to provide services for senior citizens.

HALL SAID ACTIONS taken at Thursday's meeting would guarantee the continuance of such programs regardless of what the courts say about the law.

Voters also authorized the board of auditors to provide funds to various mental health services. This action enabled the auditors to give $43,000 to the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Mental Health Center and $22,000 to Clearbrook Center for the Mentally Retarded in Rolling Meadows. The two centers have requested funds from the township and the money was included in the township's 1974-75 budget.

Welfare expenditures down for year

Elk Grove Township spent less money on welfare and handled fewer general assistance cases during the 1973-74 fiscal year than it did the year before.

Total general assistance costs were down 9 per cent, from $39,578 in 1972-73, to $35,953 in 1973-74, Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said. Thirty fewer cases were handled and 92 fewer persons received aid during 1973-74, he said. This is a 7.6 per cent reduction.

The 1973-74 fiscal year ended Feb. 28. A person can apply for welfare if he is "broke, has no job and no savings," township welfare worker Margaret Blaschke said. Townships can provide general assistance emergency money while the person is waiting to be put on county welfare rolls, a process which takes at least 30 days.

GENERAL ASSISTANCE cases are those which cannot be referred to the state under categories such as "dependent children" or "medical disabilities," Mrs. Blaschke said. For example, a childless couple, both aged under 65, with no handicaps would qualify for general assistance.

The number of assistance cases usually goes down in the summer, but this hasn't been true this year, Mrs. Blaschke said. She said it's probably because the work market is so bad, with strikes and layoffs.

Usually, a suburban family may need aid only once, she said. For example, a wage earner may have been injured on the job and hadn't yet received insurance benefits.

A person on strike may be eligible for welfare if he is not receiving unemployment compensation, she said. However, a person collecting unemployment payments is considered to be earning enough to cover his family, she said.

Mrs. Blaschke can be reached at the township office, 437-0300. General assistance cases are handled between 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 and 4 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The township hall is located at 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Planners ask advice on land-use proposal

The Arlington Heights plan commission has asked for a legal opinion from Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel before it recommends adoption of a land use plan for the Wilko-Kirchoff-Central road area.

A large tract of land west of Northwest Community Hospital is the subject of a rezoning lawsuit, and plan commissioners do not want to jeopardize the village's case in court by adopting a land plan for the area.

If Siegel reports that the proposed master plan poses no danger to the village's position, a recommendation that the village board adopt the land use guide is expected.

There's still enough time for a sensible diet, the type that gets rid of inches as well as pounds and helps you keep them off.

Be sure to get your doctor's advice before dieting. He can give you the best plan to follow so you won't sacrifice your health for your looks. If we can supply you with anything you might need we'll be more than pleased.

A GREAT MANY PEOPLE TRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?
